Tribes celebrate new Indian education law

Oregon now has a state law recognizing the importance of accurate Native American history and culture lessons in the public school system.

During this Oregon legislative session, Councilwoman and Culture and Heritage director Val Switzler testified two times in favor of Senate Bill 13, signed into law last week by Gov. Kate Brown.

Oregon is the third state to have this kind of law, Councilwoman Switzler said. Montana and Washington State each have similar existing legislation.

She and others worked with educators in those states to come up with the Oregon version of the law.

They also worked in government-to-government meetings with the Oregon Department of Education on the project.

Tribal Government Affairs director Louie Pitt was another advocate and facilitator of the their own history and cultural guides that will be the basis for a new curriculum. Culture and Heritage, the Museum at Warm Springs, Natural Resources and others will be involved, giving a complete picture of the tribes, Councilwoman Switzler said.

Within the school system in the state, "There is a lot of inaccurate information about tribes," she said. The new approach will correct these inaccuracies.

The new law says the state Education Department "shall ensure that the federally recognized Indian tribes in Oregon are given the opportunity to collaborate in the development of the curriculum..." The department may also make funding available to tribes to help with this project.

The Native American curriculum, once adopted by the Education Department, will then be made available to all the districts in the state.

The curriculum—conveying "the Native American experience in Oregon"—will be for grades kindergarten-12 throughout the state.

The 2019-20 school year is the target date for implementation of the curriculum.

Council posts 2018 proposal

Tribal Council voted this week to the post a proposed 2018 budget. Members will be receiving the budget mailing in the near future, and the district and General Council meetings will happen within the next 45 days.

Council approved a proposal as recommended by the Secretary-Treasurer. Tribal Council also earlier in the month heard detailed presentations from the enterprises and departments.

At management and Finance, the budget process began several months ago, in February or March.

The initial numbers foresaw a projected shortfall. A goal in developing a balanced budget recommendation was to see no tribal employee lose his or her job, said Secretary-Treasurer Michele Stacona.

A cost-saving idea involves the discretionary tribal contribution to the employee 401(k) plans, currently at 5 percent for those who qualify. Substantial savings can be had by suspending the contribution for a year, and this is part of the 2018 proposal. Employees could still contribute to their own plans, if they so choose. This approach that would allow for no employee layoffs in 2018 under the proposed budget.

Regional Finals Rodeo this weekend

DMJ Cattle this weekend will host the Western States Regional Finals Rodeo, a first for Central Oregon.

The Western States Finals Rodeo 2017 will be Saturday and Sunday, September 30 and October 1, at the Jefferson County Fairgrounds rodeo arena.

In the past, the event—a yearend chance to qualify for the Finals Rodeo in Las Vegas—has been held in Klamath Falls.

This year the organizers there couldn't host the event, and the DMJ stepped up and agreed to help. It was a lot of work with not much time, but the family put in a great effort.

The rodeo will feature the standard events, plus three specials, said Shana Johnson, of DMJ. Mutton Busters, Wild Cow Milking and the 2-plus-1 event will be the specials.

The standard competitions include bareback, bull riding, junior bull riding, saddle bronc, steer wrestling, ladies breakaway, senior and junior breakaway roping, barrel racing, junior barrel racing, team roping, and senior team roping.

As this is a rodeo year-end event, there will be competitions that are Finals Rodeo elimination rounds for some riders.

In competition from Warm Springs will be Tribal Councilman Lee Tom (senior breakaway roping), Jenna Johnson (ladies breakaway roping), Clint Bruised Head (steer wrestling), and Mike Holyan (calf roping).

The weekend will feature a Saturday barbecue after the rodeo, and a live musical performance.

The buckaroo breakfast is on Sunday morning.

Kedo Olson, voice of the Pacific Northwest rodeos, will be the announcer.

The rodeo on Saturday starts at 1:30 p.m., and on Sunday at 11:30 a.m. You can get tickets at DMJ Auto, or at the rodeo gate. There will be a raffle with the top prize being two nights and three days at the South Point Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, during the National Finals Rodeo.

While this is the first locallyhosted Western States Regional Finals Rodeo, the hope is to make it an annual event, Shana Johnson said. There are many future possibilities, such as having a powwow as part of the show, she said.

Promising meeting with National Guard

Tribal Council met with a team from the Idaho National Guard this week, to discuss a program that could be of help to the tribes.

The Guard's Innovative Readiness Training program helps communities with many kinds of projects-from housing and infrastructure, to medical exam services, among many others.

The program also makes equipment-road and construction machinery, for instance—available to the organization, the only cost to the tribes being delivery of the item from the base where it's located.

All branches of the Armed Services participate, so the variety of available equipment and services is extensive, said National Guard Maj. Gen. Sayler.

He met with Council along with Guardsman Russ Johnson, and the Guard's cultural resources advisor Jake Fruhlinger.

Their meeting in Warm Springs came about through earlier contact from Councilmen Lee Tom and Ron Suppah. They had learned of the opportunity through the Return of the Boise Valley People tribal event in Idaho. During the meeting here this week, Chief Operations Officer Alyssa Macy mentioned housing, and the downtown infrastructure as areas of particular interest. The drinking water system is another area of interest.

Academy Language session

Tribal language instructors are now teaching during the regular school day at the Warm Springs Academy. This is a new program at the school.

The language class schedule now allows the option for all students at the Academy to choose to take a Native language, whereas before instruction was only available before the start of the regular school day, and afterward. Each child, with his or her parent's permission, may now join a class. This had been a longstanding goal of the Culture and Heritage Department,

Veteran to read at Memorial Wall ceremony

Tamera Calhoun served three years in the U.S. Army, including one year at Desert Storm-Desert Shield during the Gulf War. Tamera is an active member with the Warm Springs VFW Elliot Palmer Post 4217.

As a VFW member she receives email updates from the National VFW, including a recent one about the reading of names on the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall.

She responded to the email: "I just wanted to make sure that the name would be read of our Warm Springs veteran—Daniel John Tababoo Jr.—who was killed in the Vietnam War," Tamera.

Instead, she received an invitation to read a list of names at the upcoming Thirty-Fifth Anniversary Commemoration at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall. Among the names she will read is that of Mr. Tababoo.

She is planning on driving to Washington, D.C. in early November with her family for the event. "I think it's important for my family to be there," Tamera says. Her family, she said, was a great support during her time overseas. She and her family will be hosting fundraising events over the coming weeks in order to cover some of the expenses.

The OHSU Native Empowerment Resource Group and Allies invite the public to celebrate Indigenous Peoples Day at OHSU on Monday, October 9 from 5-7 p.m.

Great food, tribal history at Coyote's Eatery

Coyote's Eatery is now open at its new location by the building that was the former information and gift shop.

It's just off Highway 26 before the Deschutes River 'Chief Ducsahi' (Mark Meacham) Bridge.

Jasmine-Sheylenne Caldera is the owner and cook at Coyote's Eatery. She moved the custom-made eatery—built by her grandfather, the author George Aguilar Sr.—to the new location a few weeks ago, from the previous site across from the Warm Spring Market.

At the new location, customer seating is available in the former gift shop building. The clean restrooms are available for customer convenience.

Unique tribal display

Mr. Aguilar, tribal historian, describes some of the customer-friendly features at Coyote's Eatery:

The information building interior décor will be of the local Native American flare, consisting of the Columbia River petroglyphs, photos of known treaty signers of the 1855 Treaty, and so forth.

Photos of the 1858 migrated people of the Columbia River will also be displayed, with historical captions of the individuals.

A computer monitor is on a wall for future Power Point slide photos on ethnobotany. There will be captions on each photo with information on nutritional values, use of the barks, and other pertinent uses of each plant. "In all, there are 64 photos of our people of the river," Mr. Aguilar says.

Another feature that will be in the building: Power Point photos and slide show of the salmon fishery from 1864 to 1957. These include the Celilo Falls fishery, Cascade Rapids and Five Rapids, and surrounding landscape.

Power Point photos of the old River People of the Columbia include historical captions of each individual, and the time of the activity.

These Power Point presentations were used and prepared by Mr. Aguilar for use during his tour of the Pacific Northwest universities, museums, public libraries, and Native American events.

There will be a space specifically reserved for photos of veterans of Warm Springs. Attempted arrangements are being made to acquire known copied photos.

"In the event there is a change in use of the building, it is our desire to leave the photos as a part of the building structure," Mr. Aguilar said.

Local made Indian crafts and art works will also be available for sale.

On the menu

The Coyote's Eatery menu consists of a Native and American diversity of burgers, prepared to the customer's request.

There are beef hot dogs, fresh cut french fries, Indian tacos, Indian burgers, salmon pouch, frybread, flat bread (tortilla), and home cooked beans.

Coyote's Eatery uses Canola oil, as it is higher in Omega 3s.

Burgers are freshly formed daily with an 80-20 hamburger. Family and large orders for frybread and flat bread are welcome: No amount of bread is too high.

"Our biggest order yet is 600 frybread," Jasmine says. "We can do special orders for birthdays and other events."

Special orders of home canned spring run chinook salmon or fresh hamburger lucameen will be available for those who love this type of cuisine.

There will be daily homemade specials and soups: Pasta, a variety of rice dishes, meatloaf, various casseroles, and an occasional customized prepared steak dinner cooked to the customer's preference.

Self-service salads to your own liking are all you can eat. Jasmine mentions some of the other menu features:

For the lac-ovo vegetarian diet, our Native American taco qualifies 100-percent vegetable related, because the frybread is cooked with the healthy canola Omega 3 oil and smothered with home cooked beans and various vegetables.

Jasmine is a World Championship Frybread winner.

Coyote's Eatery uses only non-canned food in all preparation.

Condiments: Sea salt will be used in all our home prepared foods. Sea salt is a necessary element for a healthy body. Commonly purchased iodized salts, available at super markets or sitting on the table of your favorite restaurant, have synthetic chemicals added to them. The artificially manufactured salt only mimics sea salt.

Mini lobster: Preparations are being made to harvest and sell pristine mountain water cleaned Lake Billy Chinook live crawfish for the year of 2018.

The crawfish menu for next year will be: Crawfish tail salads, fried rice crawfish tails, and of course a huge crawfish boil for our local people, the off roaders and Portland-ites.

Coyote's Eatery is also looking at a having a live crawfish retail outlet, featuring the cleanest crawfish from Lake Billy Chinook. The upper arm of Lake Billy Chino ok — Metolius River—is pristine: There are no pesticides or any agricultural chemicals contaminating the fishery.

Coyote's will offer a delivery service for a fee to the Warm Springs area.

Bundled fragranced juniper camp fire wood is also available.

Business hours at Coyote's Eatery are 11 a.m. to 9 p.m., Wednesday to Sunday. Closed Mondays and Tuesdays. To place an order, you can reach Jasmine on her cell phone 541-460-8580; or at 541-553-2989.

P3 plan for Warm Springs

"The earliest investments yield the greatest returns"

This is the approach for the development of the Warm Springs Pre-K-Third Grade plan.

In the Central Oregon region the Pre-K-Third—or P3 Initiative—is administered through the High Desert ESD.

Each school district in the region has the option to develop a plan that is specifically designed to meet the needs of the particular school. Warm Springs is currently developing its own plan.

Shana Radford, Community Health Liaison with the Warm Springs Health and Human Services, has been working with the Kendra Coates, director of the High Desert P3 Initiative.

They held a community gathering last week at the Museum at Warm Springs, gathering ideas for specific plan provisions for the Warm Springs Early Childhood Education Center and the early grades at the Warm Springs Academy.

Cultural standards were a point of emphasis among those who commented: These standards include the teaching of tribal history and culture, and sustaining the Native languages of the Confederated Tribes. Warm Springs and the High Desert ESD will continue to develop the plan—probably in the end a 1-page document—over the coming months.

N7 Fund

I wanted to share with you all the N7 Fund grant cvcle announcement:

The N7 Fund is Nike's long-term commitment to bring sport and all its benefits to Native American and Aboriginal communities in North America, with a focus on youth.

We believe that kids are made to play, and through sport, Native youth can unleash the power of their generation. We believe in the unifying power of sport to empower communities to take on some of the greatest challenges that Native American and Aboriginal youth face, such as diabetes, obesity, suicide, and low graduation rates.

N7 embraces the Native philosophy: "In every deliberation we must consider the impact of our decisions on the next seven generations."

Through N7, Nike provides opportunities for Native American and Aboriginal youth to play, get active, and become forces for positive change in their communities for generations to come.

To date, the N7 Fund has awarded more than $3.5 million in grants to 185 communities, schools and nonprofit organizations across the U.S. and Canada, reaching more than 350,000 youth as part of Nike's Global Community Impact work. The N7 Fund partners with CAF America to provide due diligence and grant disbursement for its annual funding cycle.

The Reservation Walkers

It is with great pleasure that I submit this picture of our 2017 Portland to Coast team, Reservation Walkers. These ladies did an awesome job!

My teammates were Mary Iwamoto, Melissa Benson, Susan Jim, Kecia Florendo, Norene Sampson, Saphronia Coochise, Victoria Katchia, Julia Culpus, Marci Smith Samantha Gomez.

Our official time was 36 hours, 11 minutes 17 seconds—well under the estimated time that Hood to Coast figured out for us.

This year we had some challenges, but we overcame and still finished ahead of our anticipated time. I've got these wonderful gals to thank for that!

The Hood to Coast/Portland to Coast was held last month. There were at least six teams from Warm Springs that participated in Portland to Coast, and one in the Hood to Coast.

Congratulations, teams! We would like to thank our sponsors:

Warm Springs Composite Products, Brunoe Logging, Warm Springs Power & Water Enterprises, and Indian Head Casino. We couldn't have done it without them.

As always, thank you to the families and friends of each of our walkers—Without your support we couldn't have done it without each you.

Looking forward to next year!

Employee benefits fair, open enrollment in October

The government of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs is charged with securing and protecting the perpetual health and prosperity of the Confederated Tribes.

The government fulfills its mission by preserving and strengthening the sovereign status of the Confederated Tribes, protecting the treaty and legal rights and interests of the tribes, and creating a community and economic environment which affords every member the opportunity to attain good health, self-sufficiency, pride and self-esteem.

Employee Benefits Fair and Annual Open EnrollmentMandatory attendance

The Employee Benefits Fair will be on Wednesday and Thursday, October 4 and 5, from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Warm Springs Community Center gym.

The event offers the opportunity for all permanent full-time employees to learn more about benefit options, meet vendors face to face, and listen to benefits presentations.

This is also the start of the open enrollment period, which means that all permanent full-time employees who qualify for benefits effective January 1, 2018 can sign up for coverage, if they missed their opportunity during the new hire season.

If you already have coverage, this is also your opportunity to make any changes or renew your flexible spending pledge for

All changes and new enrollments will be effective January 1, 2018.

During the Benefits Fair and Open Enrollment, presentations will be made throughout the day.

Attendance is mandatory for tribal government employees. Contact the Compensation and Benefits with any questions about the fair at 541-553-3327.

Personnel Policy update

Tribal Council adopted the revised Personnel Policy

Manual this summer, following more than a year's worth of work by tribal management and staff.

The purpose of the manual is to be used as an outline of the basic personnel policies, practices, and procedures for the organization.

The intent is to assist management to manage, and for employees to understand their rights and responsibilities.

To ensure that all employees have received and read the updated policy, all employees are required to sign the acknowledgment form at the end of the policy and submit the completed form to Human Resources.

Eagles Sports Spotlight

Fall sports—cross country, football and volleyball—are in full swing at the Warm Springs Academy.

This week we feature athletes Marilyn Tom, who plays volleyball, and André Spino, football player for the Eagles.

Marilyn is in the eighth grade, and has played volleyball since the fifth-grade.

She also plays softball and basketball. She plans to continue with sports next year at the high school.

Her favorite subject at the Academy is Social Studies. Her parents are Sharon Katchia and Corbett Tom Sr.

Marilyn has two brothers and two sisters. Her older brothers are in high school, her older sister is working, and her younger sister

Concern for fish after Eagle Creek fire

Communities in and around the Columbia River Gorge are still feeling the effects of the Eagle Creek

Fire, and so will the river ecosystems in the areas that burned.

Once significant rains return to the Pacific Northwest, loose ash and sediment will likely wash down into streambeds and creeks, potentially filling in valuable spawning grounds for salmon.

"There is a lot that is unknown about how the fish and the river are going to respond, but we have a lot of scientific research that shows there are some predictable things that we can expect," said Seth White, a watershed ecologist with Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commis-

In the short term, White worries how clogged spawning grounds will impact spawning salmon in the gorge, specifically Coho.

"There are these threatened populations of Coho who spawn in those streams and their spawning could coincide with timing with the fall rains and their might be some danger with spawning grounds being covered by sediment that is washing down from the fire," White said.

Experts say that it is too early to tell exactly what will happen to the river. White added that because the fire has been spotty in some parts, some streambeds may be filled with sediment, others may see no effects.

Illegal gillnetters busted on Deschutes with 85 salmon

Working on complaints of illegal gillnetting on the Columbia River at the Deschutes River Sanctuary, Oregon State Police teamed with Washington Department of Fish and Wildlife Enforcement for a nighttime river patrol.

They caught two people deploying gillnets illegally before confiscating 85 chinook salmon and one steelhead.

The patrol located a boat operating without required lighting in the sanctuary with three persons onboard.

Authorities discovered the boaters had deployed a gillnet longer than 1,100 feet in violation of 800-foot length restrictions, as well as being in a sanctuary that's closed to gillnetting year-round.

Fish and wildlife officers with some of the chinook and steelhead confiscated from an illegal gillnetting operation on the Deschutes.

Lane Meanus, 26, and Ashley Leslie, 24, both residents of Celilo Village, were arrested for multiple criminal acts.

The investigation discovered 85 chinook and one steelhead with a current market value of $3,500. Meanus was lodged at NORCOR on charges of Commercial Fishing Closed Waters and cited for Operating a Vessel Without Required Lighting.

Leslie was given criminal citations for Commercial Fishing Closed Waters and Taking Fish Without Tribal Identification on Person.

Fish and wildlife preservation is crucial to the sustainment and healthy population management efforts to the Pacific Northwest. Anyone witnessing, or with knowledge of fish and wildlife violation, please report via the established tip line. To report a violation or suspicious activity on the reservation, call 541-553-2001. MHS freshmen on track to graduate

The MHS team has been working hard to build stronger relationships with students from the moment they walk through the doors of the high school as freshman. The goal is to improve high school graduation rates.

"That 9th grade year is critical for students. If they are failing two or more classes at the end of their freshman year, we know there is an 80% chance that they will drop out of high school," said MHS Co-Principal HD Weddel.

According to Weddel, there is no one "magic bullet" for student success, but building relationships is a first and important step.

"The high school team has been working toward this goal for several years, but we're really focused on connecting with students to understand their challenges outside of school," said MHS Co-Principal Mark Neffendorf. "We know that family and friends can have a huge impact on student success. We're trying to get to know our students better and provide extra support and guidance to those who need it."

Weddel added that accountability, trust, respect and attendance are key to helping students succeed.

"We have a number of studentcentered systems in place that focus on clearly communicating expectations for both academics and behavior," said Weddel.

In addition to working with freshman, the new Bridges Career and Technical Education High School has created an opportunity for those students who are still struggling at the end of freshman year.

"We know that our students at Bridges are very encouraged to have the option of finishing high school in a non-traditional setting and many are moving toward graduation as well," said Weddel.

Metolius students share tomatoes picked from the school garden.

Off to a sweet start with Buff!

On Friday, September 1 - the week before school started -- Buff Elementary teachers and staff hopped on a school bus to visit local neighborhoods and welcome kids back to school. With smiles and popsicles, teachers and staff said hello and let the kids know they were excited to have them back in the classrooms.

"We just wanted to welcome them back to school and get them excited about coming back, since we all are!" said Buff Elementary Principal Billie White.

In addition, the Buff team made a special popsicle delivery to the staff at Metolius Elementary.

"It's a fun way to kick off the school year and we wanted to let our friends at Metolius know we are excited to partner with them again too," said White.

Colville tour tower for ideas on fish passage

On the Upper Columbia River in north-central Washington, the federal government built the Grand Coulee and Chief Joseph dams without any kind of fish passage. This completely devastated salmon and steelhead—fish the Colville tribes relied on from time immemorial.

The Columbia Basin Fish Accords of 2008 are a partnership agreement among tribes-Warm Springs, Colville, Umatilla and Yakama—and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Bureau of Reclamation, and the BPA.

The Accords have provided nearly $1 billion in funding for fish restoration projects in the Columbia Basin. The kinds of projects specified include habitat restoration, hatchery production and lamprey projects.

The Chief Joseph Fish Hatchery, at the Chief Joseph Dam, is an example of an Accords hatchery project. The Colville built the hatchery from 2010 to 2013, and celebrated a First Return last year.

In the Accords, fish passage above dams is also a priority. The Colville—a band of 12 tribes from that region of the Columbia—have been studying the idea of fish passage above the Chief Joseph and Grand Coulee dams.

Warm Springs Tribal Councilman Ron Suppah—who was Chairman during the Accords negotiations—invited a Colville team—Colville Natural Resources director Rodney Cawston, Council Chairman Mike Marchand, and tribal attorney Carissa Eichman—to tour projects on the Warm Springs Reservation.

The tour included the fish

OneBeat returns to W.S.

OneBeat is returning to Warm Springs. OneBeat brings together 25 adventurous musicians from 17 countries to explore how the arts can renew and restore perspectives, spaces and societies.

They will be at the Museum at Warm Springs for a series of workshops this Wednesday and Thursday, September 27-28; and Tuesday and Thursday, October 3 and 5. Each day 3:30-5:30

In this workshop series, students will be able collaboratively make music with the musicians from around the world.

All skill levels welcome. No experience necessary, but if you have any instruments, bring them. Come for the first workshop and sign up for the following three sessions.

Any questions, call Elizabeth Quinn 541-419-9836.

OneBeat is an initiative of the U.S. Department of State Bureau of Educational and Cultural Affairs. The producer is Bang on a Can's Found Sound Nation.

The Fifth Annual Jim Pepper Native Arts Festival is this Saturday, September 30 at the Parkrose High School campus in Portland from 11 a.m.-7 p.m. All ages welcome. Free event featuring performances by Native musicians. See: jimpepperfest.net

OneBeat performance earlier this month at Sisters.

For more information about OneBeat go to: 1beat.org

Snacks and transportation provided each day of the workshops. Transportation will be provided by Skillz from Madras High School at 3:15 p.m. Skillz can be reached at 541-324-4935.Or Kevin.Ball@CalderaArts.org Students must commit to attending all workshop days.
