Academy principal is new superintendent

The Jefferson County School District 509-J Board of Directors hired Warm Springs Academy Principal Ken Parshall as the new district superintendent.

Mr. Parshall has been the Warm Springs Academy principal since the beginning of the 2015 school year.

For the first two years of his tenure as district superintendent, Parshall will continue to serve as the Warm Springs Academy principal.

This will be a challenge, he said; but he wants to see the positive momentum continue at the Academy.

Parshall will take over as superintendent at the end of the current school year, after the resignation of current superintendent Rick

Principal-superintendent Parshall

Molitor.

The board members were unanimous in their choice of Parshall as superintendent. They were especially excited about his experience and success in turning around and improving school performance.

Before joining the Warm Springs Academy, Parshall was principal at McNary and McKay high schools in the Salem-Keizer district. Later he was Salem-Keizer assistant district superintendent, overseeing 63 schools.

Another change coming up within the school district is the board of directors. There are three positions up for election on the five-member school board. The vote will be the third Tuesday in May.

Candidates who are running include:

Position no. 1: Laurie Danzuka of Warm Springs; and Brian Crow of Madras.

Position no. 2: Jamie Hurd of Madras; Juan Leach Orozco of Madras; Sue Matters of Warm Springs; and Gary Sisk of Madras.

Position no. 3: Tom Norton of Madras; and Alyssa Macy of Warm Springs.

It looks possible that this new school board, and new superintendent will work with the tribal Education Committee and Tribal Council on a new long-term education agreement with the tribes.

Proposed law to address sea lion problem

Columbia River tribes support a proposed law to protect salmon and steelhead runs in the Columbia River by allowing for more efficient removal of predatory sea lions.

Studies by the National Marine Fisheries Service and others show that predatory sea lions are having an ongoing significant and detrimental impact on the fish runs.

NOAA Fisheries Service estimates that up to 45 percent of a recent spring chinook run was potentially lost to sea lions.

Twenty years ago sea lions in the Columbia were not a problem. In more recent years, though, they have moved up the river, and even into smaller tributaries.

The proposed law to address the problem is the Endangered Salmon and Fisheries Predation Prevention Act, introduced last week by Rep. Jaime Herrera Beutler (R-Wash.) and Rep. Kurt Schrader (D-Ore.).

A limited removal program has been in effect since 2011, but a review concluded the program insufficiently addresses the impacts to endangered salmon. And hazing is not an effective deterrent (related article on page 5).

The new legislation would clear up inefficiencies and red-tape to allow more effective management of the sea lion population in the Columbia.

The Children's Protective Services hosted an awareness march last week, with more than 100 people joining in the walk. They marched from the CPS building to the community center, where they enjoyed a lunch.

Joining the CPS team and families were employees from the Health and Human Services Branch, Warm Springs Police and Fire and Safety, and others.

The day was to raise awareness of April as Child Abuse Prevention Month.

Cannabis Commission hires executive director

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Cannabis Commission has hired its executive director. The commission hired Joe Jensen, Environmental Scientist, as executive director.

Jensen has 15 years experience as an Environmental Scientist, and also is experienced with cannabis growing operations.

As an Environmental Scientist, Jensen has worked with Oregon tribes, including the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs.

He began growing about eight years ago, when a family member developed a medical condition that required cannabis.

The combination of qualifications—on the environmental regulatory side, and the cannabis growing aspect—were factors in the hiring decision, Cannabis Commissioners said.

Jensen started work last week. His office is located at Warm Springs Ventures.

The hiring process took some time, mainly because of weather: The commission advertised the job late last year, but found it impossible to schedule all the interviews because of the snow conditions this past winter.

An initial project that Jensen will be focusing on is the development of the greenhouse growing facility in the Dry Creek area. The timeline for this is in the 6-month range, with Warm Springs Construction doing part of the job, Jensen said.

The first crop can be expected about four months later, he said. Hiring the personnel needed to run the operation will be another priority coming up soon.

The tribes have a Cannabis Code, and a formal agreement with the state of Oregon. These will allow for the production of the cannabis on reservation, and its transport off the reservation. All the sales will be off-reservation.

The crops will be grown in accordance with the state standards, developed by the Oregon Department of Agriculture, Jensen said. The regulatory authority on the reservation is the commission; while off the reservation the authority is the Oregon Liquor Control Commission.

The testing of the tribal cannabis will be done by an independent third party testing lab. It is possible a tribe in Washington may provide the service to Warm Springs, said Don Sampson, executive director of Warm Springs Ventures. Some time in the future an interesting enterprise for the tribes could be the development of its own testing lab, Mr. Sampson said.

Unique enterprise

The hiring of the commission executive director is a great step toward carrying out the mandate of the tribal cannabis referendum.

The membership is December 2015 approved the idea by a large majority vote. Ventures then began the process of working out some complicated legal aspects of the project.

For instance, the state of Oregon had legalized cannabis earlier in 2015. But the reservation is outside of state jurisdiction, requiring instead work with the federal government.

The agencies involved were the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the U.S. Marshal's Office, and especially the U.S. Department of Justice.

The tribes' cannabis project is unique, so the talks were about a subject with no precedent.

In time, all parties were on board with the legality of the tribal proposal, which essentially is for equal treatment and access to the legitimate state market.

Ventures, Tribal Council and legal counsel developed the tribes' Cannabis Code, and an agreement of understanding with the state of Oregon.

Tribal Council appointed the Cannabis Commission: Ronald Roome, attorney and former tribal judge pro tem; Shana Radford, Health Liaison with Health and Human Services; and Starla Green, who has many years experience in law enforcement.

Their recent commission action was to hire Jensen, who arrives here from Scappoose with wife Hilary and son Liam.

Final phases of mill removal

Tribal Council approved phase 1 of the final mill site cleanup. This involves the removal of the sawmill building, the biggest problem area at the site.

Another building, called the turbine building or pumphouse, would have the doors and windows sealed to prevent trespass. Tribal Council toured the site last week with the WSFPI liquidation receiver, Hamstreet & Associates.

The problem at the property is one of liability: if someone were trespassing and suffered an injury, for instance.

Last year all assets at the mill were auctioned off, leaving items of no value: old tires, concrete, wood debris and the smaller scrap metal.

There are eight buildings on the 20-acre site—the main office is the best example—that have value and will remain standing.

Total cost of the final cleanup is estimated at over $300,000. Some of the work, in the "boneyard" area closest the river, could be done by Warm Springs Construction.

For budgeting purposes the Tribal Council separated the project into phases, the first phase addressing the most problematic areas, like the sawmill structure.

Meter project to help address water situation

Possibly the biggest infrastructure need facing the Confederated Tribes is the tribal water system.

The treatment plant at the Deschutes River is 32 years old, and in time will need significant improvements, or maybe even replaced.

This could be a $25 million project, said Roy Spino, tribal water and wastewater engineer. He reported recently to Tribal Council on the water plant, and the tribal water system in general.

There is reason to believe the BIA would be responsible for the cost of the water system improvement, Spino said. But like with other projects, in order to get the job done the responsibility could very well land with the tribes.

Meanwhile there is a plan that could extend the life of the treatment plant. This is the water meter project.

An assessment of the water system is now done, completed through a USDA grant. The results are with the USDA, which could provide a grant to install the water meters, said tribal planner Lonny Macy. Cost may be $2 million.

Here is the problem: The average per capita domestic water use on the reservation is 40,000 gallons a month. This compares with the state average of 5,000 gallons per month.

This is not to say that tribal residences use eight times more water than the average.

Instead, the figures demonstrate the system has significant leakage.

By installing water meters at all residences on the system, the Utilities Department could isolate where the problem leak areas are located, and then fix them.

Currently, only about 15 percent of residences on the system in the Warm Springs area have meters.

The goal of this project is to install meters at all residences and businesses.

Test range manager joins Ventures UAS

Liz Stalford has joined the Warm Springs unmanned aerial systems program. Ventures chose Ms. Stalford to serve as the Warm Springs UAS test range manager.

The tribes' UAS drone test range program, a branch of Warm Springs Ventures, is an Federal Aviation Administration approved testing range.

The tribes' program is also developing UAS training and manufacturing components that complement the designated test range sites.

As test range manager, Stalford intends to focus on emergency management training, utility inspections, FAA commercial drone pilot training, and 'heavy drone' regulation compliance.

Ms. Stalford is a commercial multi-engine, seaplane and instructor pilot. She has extensive experience in both military and commercial unmanned aerial systems.

She comes to the Warm Springs Reservation following her career as general manager with Arrow-Data, LLC, an Alaska-Native owned business.

Stalford had worked on manned and unmanned aircraft. These were equipped with multispectral HD cameras for large scale wildland fire mapping, crowd control monitoring, natural disaster response, accident investigation, hazardous materials operations, suspect and vehicle tracking, oil spill detection, Precision Agriculture, 3D mapping, wildlife monitoring, and search and rescue.

Don Sampson, Ventures chief executive officer, says, "The timing couldn't be better for Liz Stalford to bring her expertise to our range."

"The firefighting season is on the horizon, and a host of events and activities for 2017 will shift the unmanned systems as the cornerstone of a new economy".

Teacher education partnership at k-8 Academy

Grow Your Own is a partnership between the Jefferson County School District 509-J and George Fox University.

The partnership provides four local teacher candidates with a paid practicum, so they can obtain Bachelor's Degrees in Education through George Fox's Adult Degree Completion Elementary Education program.

The candidates have served the school district as educational assistants, and are interested in teaching careers.

These employee-teacher candidates will remain employed by the district and retain their benefits during a year-long co-teaching placement at the Warm Springs k-8 Academy.

The community is invited to learn more about the program during an information session from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m., this Friday, April 14 at the Warm Springs Academy.

Other educators from Central Oregon will also be attending, and will participate in other activities and discussions in the afternoon.

Ventures to host drone public safety conference

The Warm Springs Ventures unmanned aerial systems program will host the first Drones and Public Safety Conference, May 24-25 at Kah-Nee-Ta.

Those who will attend are in the search and rescue, public safety, fire and safety, and wildland fire areas.

Drone suppliers will also be on hand, said Aurolyn Stwyer, Ventures business and marketing director. The May conference is the first of two UAS conferences scheduled for 2017 at Kah-Nee-Ta, the second one being in October.

The resort is also the home of the tribes' UAS Innovation Center, located on the ground floor at Kah-Nee-Ta. The Innovation Center offers professional training with FAA approved instructors. There is training for UAS commercial certification, infrastructure inspection, wildland firefighting, and natural resources conservation.

At the Innovation Center, funded through a state grant, there will be 12 flight simulation stations; conference and classroom; and access to the amenities at the resort.

The Warm Springs UAS program has partnered with the Aerial Rigging Systems (ARS) company, a leader in using UAS to safely inspect and document elevated or hard to reach industrial sites. ARS will also providing training in the use of its product, the Ez Rig Drone, at the Innovation Center.

Coming soon to Warm Springs, at the industrial park, are the UAS manufacturing plant and retail store for the EZ.

Drone test flight by de-energized power line on the reservation.

The test range

The Warm Springs FAA UAS Test Range is part of the Pan-Pacific UAS Test Range Complex, one of six official FAA test sites in the United States.

The Warm Springs test range can focus on transmission line and linear infrastructure inspection, as the reservation test areas include 10 miles of de-energized high-voltage transmission lines, and 150 circuit miles of high-voltage lines.

There can be a focus on natural resource conservation, as the Warm Springs test range has resident populations of a wide variety of wildlife, including watershed areas and native plant populations.

In regard to the wildland fire application of UAS: Testing can be conducted in conjunction with controlled burn operations by the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Branch of Natural Resources. For more information about the tribes' UAS program contact Aurolyn at Ventures, 541-469-3824. Or email: aurolyn.stwyer@wstribes.org

Little League ump excels at training school

Warm Springs Nation Little League umpire-in-chief Allen 'Stretch' Jones participated in the Western Region Little League Umpire School, held in San Bernardino, Calif.

At the end of the week long training, Mr. Jones was recognized with the 2017 Bob Thornton Outstanding Student Award by the Western Region Little League teaching staff.

Stretch is the third person from Oregon to win the award, and the first from Oregon Little League District 5.

He has umpired seven years for Warm Springs Nation Little League, ever since the league was formed.

The last four years he has been the league's umpire in chief. Prior to that he would help out informally to officiate, and also spent time coaching his own children.

Having grown up in The Dallas, Jones lived near the baseball field, playing Little League ball through the Babe Ruth level, before turning his energy toward rodeo.

What he likes about umpiring is being able to do something for the kids. Jones takes his role as umpire seriously, keeping up on rules changes every year and making sure he has the right safety gear and uniform.

Stretch with the 2017 Outstanding Student Award.

He got a lot out of the time he spent at the umpire school learning new techniques.

The school included classroom and on-the-field training that included rule knowledge, mechanics, umpiring philosophy and game management.

Jones said he was able to attend the Western Region Little League Umpire School thanks to a scholarship.

Participants were from the 10 states in the Western Region and from two Canadian provinces.

Stretch has set a personal goal to return to San Bernardino to officiate at a Regional tournament.

"I want to give special thanks to the Oregon State Little League and District 5 Little League, Elizabeth Hisatake and Georgia Herr, from District 2, for helping me go to the umpire school," Jones said.

"Right now we could use a few more umpires. So if you like youth sports, being outside and can commit to a scheduled, come see me and I can explain what's involved, and I can work one on one with you."

A thank you

During spring break, young people with the Oregon City Evangelical Church visited Warm Springs.

They spent five days cleaning up and fixing up different areas of the reservation.

This year they cleaned the Agency, Simnasho and HeHe longhouses. They cleaned up the skate park area, and painted the parsonage of the Warm Springs Baptist Church, among several other projects. The youth were middle school age, and stayed with chaperones at the Baptist Church. Close to 30 youth participated.

The church would like to say Thank you. The work by these young people is greatly appreciated by the Warm Springs community.

New publication tells of River People's way of life

Shattered Civilization latest by author George Aguilar

The project of The Shattered Civilization will soon be unveiling its pages, published as an Amazon E-Book, depicting our robust way of life of about 250 years ago.

This writing is to reveal how we as River People flourished during those early times.

The documented historical events are to make our people aware of the once powerful civilization of the mid and lower River People of the Columbia River from the years of 1700s to 1855.

The dates and activity of the explorers, Missionaries, traders, trappers, and the documented diaries of the pioneers will be utilized for historical purposes.

In this way are documented the Native River people's way of life and customs of that time.

When the River Ran Wild! was published in 2005. This book received the 2006 Oregon Book Award for Creative Nonfiction, and the 2006 Award of Merit from the American Association for State and Local History.

The project was well received in the Pacific Northwest. The Museum at Warm Springs is the place to purchase this book. Barnes & Noble, Powell's Books, and Amazon carry the same item.

As of February 21 of this year, the Barnes & Noble book store rating system grades When the River Ran Wild! at five stars.

As most local people have learned these are voices from out of the past. These stories are yours. Without you the tribal members this project would not have evolved into being.

It was fortunate the Kiksht (Wasco) were put on the same reservation with their allies, the Columbia River Ilkaimamnt's (Shahaptins), and Native Peoples of the entire Pacific Northwest, because this is their story as well.

Many stories of old lie dormant with our elders, and they live as reminiscences to some of those individuals.

It is my hope When the River Ran Wild! and The Shattered Civilization will inspire other elders to take on the task of leaving a legacy for those who are to come.

The Shattered Civilization is a semi-novel inspired by an essay by Jeannette Garcia, a granddaughter of Chief Billy Chinook.

I'm sure when their information is put to the paper it will be appreciated by the future generations.

For instance, the Amazon E Book The Shattered Civilization is a semi-novel inspired by an essay by Jeannette Garcia, a granddaughter of Chief Billy Chinook.

The script was written long-hand on a lined paper with a lead pencil.

Jeannette's story was about her grandfather Billy Chinook.

It was written over a 100 years ago, and remained with the Macey family, Jeannette's grandchildren.

Excerpts of reviews of When the River Ran Wild! from other parts of the Pacific Northwest area:

"A how-to manual for those who like to resurrect traditional practices. A required read for students on Native American culture."

- Katherine Barber, Portland State University.

"The voices from the past come alive in When the River Ran Wild! A fascinating historical account of how Native Americans lived along the Columbia River. A welcome new perspective on the history of the Columbia Basin, sure to be read and enjoyed for generations to come."

- Jeff Baker, The Oregonian book critic.

"The book is almost a spiritual document, because it resurrects a people. It presents their culture and their history as one and the same, a living creature of fact and lore, time and myth... Even a history book as brilliant as Stephen Ambrose's Undaunted Courage cannot do what this book does.

Undaunted Courage provides truth as paper and documents have recorded it, but it doesn't breathe history, as does When the River Ran Wild! It can't, because it is from a culture that prefers its history distant. When the River Ran Wild! does something few can: It presents history as the breath of life itself."

- Dan Hayes, Northwest Best Books.

Excerpt from a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Dell Hymes, Kiksht linguists and Anthropologists:

"We don't know of another book like it."

"All Northwest people can feel a sense of pride at this accomplishment."

- Matt Winters, Daily Astorian.

"If I were a movie producer, I'd buy the film rights to When the River Ran Wild!"

Matt Winters, The Chinook Observer

"The American Association for State and Local History is a national organization that supports and encourages all history projects, and they have pretty high standards. An award from them is something to crow about."

- Marianne Keddington Lang, editor, Oregon Historical Society

Sea lion problem growing at Columbia

From January through May of last year, sea lions took the largest portion of the spring Chinook and steelhead runs since the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began documenting sea lion presence and consumption in the Columbia River.

Some 190 sea lions were counted at the Bonneville Dam in 2016. The sea lions ate 9,525 spring Chinook and steelhead, or 5.8 percent of the runs.

The Corps' report says a larger number of sea lions, some 264, were observed at the dam in 2015. But at 4.5 percent of the salmonid runs, the 2015 pinniped consumption of spring Chinook and steelhead was less than in 2016.

Sea lions also eat lamprey and sturgeon. The Corps recorded sea lions consuming 501 Pacific lamprey and 90 juvenile sturgeon in 2016.

Stellar sea lions start arriving at the dam as early as January, while California sea lions show up in March and peak in early May. By the end of May, most sea lions are gone, headed to coastal breeding areas.

Some salmonids taken by pinnipeds are protected under the Endangered Species Act, including Snake River spring/summer Chinook.

Earlier this month, a pinniped task force organized by NOAA Fisheries found that hazing sea lions was not discouraging the animals and should end except in the dam's fish ladders. Hazing consists of harassing the animals with gunshot warnings and loud noise.

Exclusion gates installed at fish-ladder entrances and barrier gates at the second powerhouse's fish channel have deterred more sea lions than has hazing.

According to the Pinniped-Fishery Interaction Task Force, the most successful prevention activity has been the removal of individually identified predatory California sea lions; Stellar sea lions are ESA protected, and so cannot be removed.

Since 2008, 166 sea lions have been removed, either by relocation to zoos or euthanasia.

The task force will soon make recommendations to NOAA Fisheries that will be the basis of a potentially new course of action for sea lion removal.

Report finds safety defects in rail oil transport

Government inspections of railroads that haul volatile crude oil across the United States have uncovered almost 24,000 safety defects, including problems similar to those blamed in derailments that triggered fires or oil spills in Oregon, Montana and elsewhere.

The safety defects were discovered during targeted federal inspections on nearly 58,000 miles of oil train routes in 44 states. The inspection program began two years ago following a string of oil train accidents across North America, including a 2013 derailment in Lac-Megantic, Quebec, that killed 47 people.

Federal regulators said the inspections resulted in 1,118 violation recommendations, prompting railroads to become more responsive to concerns raised by track inspectors and to improve safety.

Problems identified by federal inspectors included worn rails and other equipment; bolts meant to hold tracks in place that were broken, loosened or missing; and cracks in steel bars joining sections of track. They also noted failures by railroads to quickly fix problems identified through inspections.

Fisheries disaster in Calif.

California tribes and fishermen are calling on Gov. Jerry Brown to declare a fisheries disaster because of the dismal forecast for this year's salmon season.

"There are a lot of tears, and a lot of questions about how am I going to feed my family," said Yurok Tribe General Counsel Amy Cordalis "People are in distress."

These statements came exactly a year after top state, federal and tribal officials gathered at the mouth of the Klamath River to sign a renewed agreement to remove four dams from the river.

The agreement seeks to improve water quality for fish and downstream communities such as the Yurok, Karuk and Hoopa Valley tribes.

Tribes and other organizations see dam removal and changes to the federal government's management of the river as being key solutions to the underlying causes of this year's low salmon return.

Last month, the Pacific Fishery Management Council—which recommends fishery management measures to federal regulators—forecast the lowest return of spawning Chinook salmon to the Klamath River on record at about 12,000 fish.

The council began meeting last week to finalize its recommendations, all of which include a full closure of commercial and sport fishing in Klamath Management Zone, which runs from the Oregon-California border to Humboldt Bay's south jetty.

Salmon fisherman further south also expect major reductions in their harvest.

Tribal fishery scientists such as Michael Belchik of the Yurok Tribe said the low return of spawners is the result of several severe years of drought conditions and river management practices, which caused the waters to warm and become hot beds for toxic algae and deadly parasites.

The four individuals were technicians on a research boat for the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission.

The boat flipped over near Multnomah Falls, and three men and a woman were clinging to the bottom of it as it floated down the river.

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission made the following statement:

“The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission’s research boat capsized on the Columbia River near Multnomah Falls. The four individuals aboard the vessel were CRITFC technicians. All four were rescued and transported to hospitals for medical attention.

“We are saddened to report that the individual who was transported to Portland via life-flight did not survive.

“This accident serves as a reminder of the constant dangers associated with the Columbia River, even for the most experienced. All four are highly trained and log hundreds of hours on the Columbia River each year. We would like to thank the first responders who were part of the rescue and to those who provided medical attention.

As you can imagine, this is a sad day for the individual’s family, the tribal community, and the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission. Our thoughts and prayers are with the family.

Gorge 2020 plan at Tribal Council

Tribal Council met with the executive director of the Columbia River Gorge Commission regarding a new long-range plan for the Gorge. Tribal Governmental Affairs director Louie Pitt, a former Gorge commission, joined the discussion of the Gorge 2020 plan.

The Confederated Tribes have a variety of significant interests at the Columbia Gorge. Usual and accustomed treaty fishing sites are there, as are cultural resources such as petroglyphs and first foods.

The Gorge is a National Scenic Area, with plan guiding resource protection and development. The plan is updated every 10 years, with 2020 being the target date for a new plan, said Gorge commission executive director Krystyna Wolniakowski.

The meeting with Tribal Council last week was an initial chance to hear tribal input on the management plan.

Fish habitat is a tribal priority, said Council chairman Austin Greene Jr. Mining activity at the Gorge, and oil transport by rail are concerns of the tribe, the chairman said.

Councilwoman Brigitte McConville said a growing problem is conflict between people using the river for recreation—wind surfing and recreational boating, for instance—versus tribal fisher people. Nets have been cut, both accidentally and on purpose, she said.

In the past there was an understanding and cooperation between the wind surfers and the fishermen, but this is no longer the case, said Councilman Raymond Tsumpti.

Councilman Jody Calica mentioned that the federal government is planning to build tribal housing at the river, as replacement for villages that were flooded by the dams. This would be an item to keep in mind as the new Gorge plan is being developed, he said.

Tribal issues will be brought up at the Gorge Commission meeting in June, Ms. Wolniakowski said. Council suggested that Louie Pitt can the tribal resource to develop the initial comments.

Resolutions of Tribal Council

WSFPI records

Whereas on April 11, 2016, Tribal Council for The Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon approved Tribal Resolution No. 12,155 authorizing the Chairman of Tribal Council and the Secretary-Treasurer/CEO, in consultation with the Tribe’s legal counsel, to take all necessary and appropriate action to proceed with the orderly wind-down of Warm Springs Forest Products Industries (“WSFPI”) in a manner that protects the Tribe and its resources and that minimizes, to the extent reasonably possible, the impact on individual tribal members; and,

Whereas Tribal Resolution No. 12,155, among other things, authorized the Chairman of Tribal Council and the Secretary-Treasurer/CEO, in consultation with legal counsel and with assistance from Tribal staff, to initiate an action in Tribal Court for the appointment of a receiver to take possession and control of the assets of WSFPI subject to the oversight of the Tribal Court, and to take any and all actions necessary or appropriate to sell, dispose of, or surrender the assets of WSFPI for the benefit of all creditors (“Receivership Action”); and,

Whereas the Chairman of Tribal Council and the Secretary-Treasurer/CEO have initiated the Receivership Action in Warm Springs Tribal Court Case No. CV20-16 and an order appointing Ed Hostmann, Inc. as general receiver for WSFPI (the “Receiver”) was entered by the Tribal Court on May 2, 2016; and,

Whereas the Receiver has proposed a Records Retention Agreement (“Agreement”), pursuant to which the Tribe would take possession and custody of certain business records of WSFPI for archival purposes and would make those records reasonably available to the Receiver on certain terms and conditions. The Agreement includes a limited waiver of the Tribe’s sovereign immunity, and a copy of the current draft of the Agreement is attached as Exhibit A; and,

Whereas Tribal Council believes that it is prudent and in the best interest of the Tribe to enter into the Agreement, including the limited waiver of sovereign immunity, in substantially the form of Exhibit A or as later amended, provided that such amendments do not materially affect the Tribe’s rights, obligations, or interests arising out of or related to the Agreement; now, therefore,

Be it resolved by the Twenty-Seventh Tribal Council of the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon, pursuant to Article V, Sections (f), (l), and (u) of the Tribal Constitution and By-Laws and Chapter 30 of the Warm Springs Tribal Code, that the Tribal Council approves the Records Retention Agreement and authorizes the Chairman of Tribal Council, Vice-Chairman of Tribal Council, and the Secretary-Treasurer/CEO, in consultation with the Tribe’s legal counsel, to finalize the Records Retention Agreement in substantially the form of Exhibit “A” or as later amended, provided that such amendments do not materially affect the Tribe’s rights, obligation, or interests;

Be it further resolved, pursuant to Warm Springs Tribal Code, Chapter 30, the Tribal Council approves a limited waiver of sovereign immunity of the Tribe in relation to the Records Retention Agreement and in the following form:

“This waiver of the sovereign immunity of the tribes from suit or action is adopted pursuant to the terms of Warm Springs Tribal Code chapter 30 and shall be strictly construed and limited to its specific purpose and the specific waiver granted.

Pursuant to Tribal Resolution No. 12,306, the Tribe hereby expressly waives its sovereign immunity as to any claim or cause of action arising out of this Agreement that is initiated in Tribal Court seeking specific performance of this Agreement. The scope of this limited waiver of sovereign immunity does not include any claim for monetary damages, whether legal or equitable. This limited waiver applies only to the Tribe and to this Agreement and to no other parties, entities (including Tribal enterprises), transactions, contracts, or agreements. This limited waiver shall not modify any other waiver of sovereign immunity that may exist.” (Resolution no. 12,306)

Fishing guide

Whereas the Treaty with The Tribes of Middle Oregon June 25, 1855 reserved to the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon the “exclusive right of taking fish in the streams running through and bordering the Reservation”; and,

Whereas the Fish and Wildlife Committee in conjunction with the Branch of Natural Resources (BNR) has reviewed and proposed to the Tribal Council the 2017 Fishing Guide Service Regulations for tribal member-owned fishing guide services (340.220 On-Reservation Fishing by Non-Members) conducted on rivers bordering the reservation; and,

Whereas the Tribal Council has reviewed the proposed 2017 Fishing Guide Service Regulations and has determined that enactment of such regulations would be in the best interest of the tribe, its members, and of the natural resources of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon; now, therefore,

Be it resolved by the Twenty-Seventh Tribal Council of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon, pursuant to Article V, Section 1 (I) and (u), of the Tribal Constitution and By-Laws and Warm Springs Tribal Code Section 340, that the following rules and regulations (Exhibit A) are hereby adopted for the 2017 season; and,

Be it further resolved that for the 2017 season(s), the fishing guide services owned and operated by: Matt Mendes, enrollment number 6256 are hereby approved upon receipt of documentation noted in the Rules & Regulations. (Resolution 12,302)

Telecom board

Whereas the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon is a federally recognized Indian Tribe; and,

Whereas by Resolution No. 11,181, Tribal Council formed the Warm Springs Telecommunications Company (“WSTC”) in 2010, as a subordinate organization pursuant to Article V, Section 1(o) of the Tribal Constitution for the purpose of providing expanded and improved telecommunication services on the Warm Springs Reservation to tribal members, Tribal and private businesses, critical facilities, Tribal and other governments; and,

Whereas, in accordance with the Articles of Incorporation of WSTC (“Articles”), an Interim Board of Directors of WSTC has been managing WSTC since its formation; and,

Whereas the Tribal Council has determined that it is appropriate and in the best interest of the Tribe to recruit and appoint an independent Board of Directors for WSTC; and,

Whereas the Tribal Council has determined that adopting Bylaws for WSTC will assist in the recruitment and appointment of Directors and in the governance and operation of WSTC; and,

Whereas the Tribal Council has further determined including an express delegation to WSTC under Warm Springs Tribal Code Chapter 30 to grant limited waivers of sovereign immunity as to WSTC will provide appropriate protection to the Tribe and to the enterprise and provide commercially reasonable authority to engage in transactions necessary and/or appropriate for the conduct of the enterprise’s operations; now, therefore,

Be it resolved by the Twenty-Seventh Tribal Council of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon, pursuant to Article V, Section 1(f), (l) and (o) of the Tribal Constitution and By-Laws and WSTC Chapter 30, that the Tribal Council hereby approves and adopts the By-Laws of the Warm Springs Telecommunication Company, attached to this resolution as Exhibit A. (Resolution no. 12,305)

Workers comp

Whereas since 1988 the Tribe has operated a self-insured Workers Compensation program under Tribal law as set out in Chapter 375 (Workers Compensation Code) of the Warm Springs Tribal Code (“WSTC”); and,

Whereas, pursuant to WSTC Section 375.130(1)(a) the Warm Springs Workers Compensation program is administered by a Workers Compensation Committee (“Committee”) made up of two representatives from Tribal Administration, two representatives from Warm Springs Forest Products Industries (“WSFPI”), and one representative each from Kah-Nee-Ta Resort, Indian Head Casino, and Warm Springs Composite Products, all of whom are appointed by Tribal Council; and,

Whereas, because of the closure and dissolution of WSFPI and the development of Warm Springs Ventures as a significant employer within the tribal organization, it is necessary to amend WSTC Section 375.130(1)(a) to remove the two designated WSFPI positions from the Committee and to add a representative to the Committee from Warm Springs Ventures; and,

Whereas, because of the transfer of Committee member, Kaitlyn Minnick representing Tribal Administration, from the Tribe’s Human Resources Department to a new position in the Human Resources Department at Indian Head Casino, it is necessary for Tribal Council to appoint a replacement member of the Committee representing Tribal Administration and also to appoint a new member of the Committee representing Warm Springs Ventures; and,

Whereas, pursuant to WSTC Section 375.130(1)(a) Tribal Council believes that it is appropriate to appoint Elizabeth Sato, manager of the Tribe’s Human Resources Department, to the Tribal Administration position on the Committee replacing Kaitlyn Minnick; and,

Whereas Tribal Council also believes it is appropriate to accept the recommendation of Indian Head Casino management to appoint Kaitlyn Minnick to the Committee representing Indian Head Casino and replacing current Committee member, Margie Tuckta; and,

Whereas Tribal Council also believes it is appropriate to accept the recommendation of Warm Springs Ventures management to appoint Sandra Danzuka to the Committee representing Warm Springs Ventures; now, therefore,

Be it resolved by the Twenty-Seventh Tribal Council of the Confederated Tribes of the Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon, pursuant to Article V, Section 1(l) and (u), of the Tribal Constitution and By-Laws, and Section 375.130(1)(a) of the Warm Springs Tribal Code that the Tribal Council hereby amends WSTC Section 375.150(1)(a) regarding “Membership” on the Workers Compensation Committee by removing the two positions on the Committee representing WSFPI and adding a position on the Committee representing Warm Springs Ventures; and,

Be it further resolved by the Tribal Council pursuant to WSTC Section 375.130(1)(a) that Elizabeth Sato is hereby appointed to the Committee as a representative of Tribal Administration, Kaitlyn Minnick is hereby appointed to the Committee as a representative of Indian Head Casino, and Sandra Danzuka is hereby appointed to the Committee as a representative of Warm Springs Ventures. (Resolution no. 12,304)

Chef Anthony to cook in Warm Springs

Chef Mark Anthony will be in Warm Springs in May, giving a cooking demonstration at the Greeley Heights Community Center.

Chef Anthony has been on ABC, NBC, 3ABN and ESPN, and appears regularly on SmartLifestyle Worldwide

He has given cooking demonstrations in every state in the country. This is a free event in Warm Springs, coming up on May 8, starting at 6 p.m. Seating is limited, so come early. For more information call 702-236-3280.

This will be cooking at its most fun—with plant based health nutrition. Topics for conversation will be weight loss, lower cholesterol, and increased energy.

This event is hosted by the Adventist Church.
