27th Member Art Show at Museum

Courtesy the Museum at Warm Springs

The Museum at Warm Springs will host the always popular Tribal Member Art Show, with the opening reception set for this Thursday, October 27 starting at 5:30 p.m. The show features beadwork and basketry, paintings, jewelry, sculpture and more, showcasing the unique artistic talents that help to beautify the reservation.

Council appoints judges

Tribal Council appointed three judges to the Court of the Confederated Tribes.

Judge Lisa Lomas was named the new Chief Judge. Judge Lomas has been on the court for a number of years now, and is an expert in the Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA), among other legal fields.

For the two associate judgeships, the Tribal Council appointed Wilma Smith and Elizabeth Woody.

Judge Smith served previously on the court, and has a professional background in accounting.

Elizabeth Woody is an award winning poet and teacher. This year Judge Woody was named Poet Laureate of Oregon, the first Native American to receive the honor.

Judge Lola Sohappay will stay on part-time at the court to help with the transition, and to serve as mentor to the new judges.

The Tribal Council action to appoint the judges came after a presentation by former Judge Walter Langnese, who retired last year.

The full recommending committee was Judge Langnese, Jefferson County Circuit Court Judge Dan Ahern, and Arlene Boileau.

The committee looked at various factors in making their recommendation. An important point, for instance, was whether the applicant seemed truly committed to the tribes and the court.

In another court related matter, Tribal Council met with judges Lomas and Sohappay regarding an issue of tribal-state jurisdiction.

The hope is to resolve a matter affecting restraining orders and support orders.

When the Tribal Court issues these orders, they are enforceable on the reservation. Off the reservation, though, they are not enforced by non-tribal law enforcement. The tribal judges are working on a way to resolve the matter.

Tribal Council backs Telecom proposal

Tribal Council endorsed a proposal by the Warm Springs Telecom to become the designated Incumbent Local Exchange Carrier, or ILEC, for the entire reservation.

Tribal planner Lonny Macy and Adam Haas of Converge Communications, who helped establish the Warm Springs Telecom, gave the presentation at Tribal Council. Telecom general manager Jose Mantanane would have been hand as well, but was at a telecommunications conference at the time.

The Telecom team summarized the situation for Tribal Council: "From the beginning it has always been the intention of the Telecom to become an ILEC, like most tribally owned telecoms in Indian Country serving tribal lands. A big advantage to becoming the ILEC is the ability to get federal support funding and low cost loans through the Rural Utilities Service (RUS).

"These funds will allow the Warm Springs Telecom to upgrade and expand its network, and improve the quality of the services and generally stay up to date with the latest technical advances."

The Telecom has so far been self-funding the improvements to its network. This effort would be greatly enhanced if the Telecom were the designated ILEC. Other RUS funding could also become available, such as for improvements at the water treatment plant.

The Telecom application to become the reservation ILEC has met with opposition from CenturyLink.

The Telecom was seeking Council support for its application to the FCC, and Council passed a resolution in support.

"The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs is a sovereign nation that has the right to choose the companies that come on the reservation and provide services to the members and the tribal government, and as a sovereign nation, the Confederated Tribes wants the Warm Springs Telecom to be designated as the Incumbent Provider on its reservation," the resolution reads in part.

Meanwhile, the tribes are negotiating with CenturyLink about a right-of-way on the reservation.

The right-of-way, for fiber optic cable, was executed in 1993, and expired in 2013. The cable is on at least 18.5 miles of the reservation land, and perhaps as many as 30 miles.

Recreation Pumpkin Party

Meanwhile the Early Childhood Education Center Lil' Pumpkins Parade is coming up soon; and there will be a Haunted House on Halloween night at Fire Kingdoms. Recreation will also host the Employee Costume Party on Halloween afternoon at the community center (see pages 3 and 10 for details on Halloween activities around the reservation).

Community input needed for economic plan

The tribal Economic Development Department is gearing up for community input on an economic development plan for the Confederated Tribes. Kahseuss Jackson at Economic Development outlined the strategy recently at Tribal Council.

The idea is to engage the community—stakeholders such as the Youth Council and elders, enterprises and organizations, the membership at large, and Tribal Council—and develop a plan to guide future local economic growth.

The essential questions, from an economic development perspective, in developing the plan are:

Where are we now? Where do we want to go? And how do we get there?

An initial component will be the visioning process, looking at the important elements of the reservation economy.

Questions to consider here are: How do we develop and improve these elements? What do you envision the community looking like in the future—five years, 10 years, 20 years—relating to the local economy?

Community engagement and surveys will help guide the strategies, Jackson said.

A working group, including Economic Development, tribal Planning, and Ventures, for instance, will use the community input to develop the plan itself.

The team will then present the plan to the community and Tribal Council.

Jackson envisions a timeline of about six months.

For context he has reviewed economic plans for several other entities—the Umatilla and other tribes, the cities of Portland, several Central Oregon cities, plus the tribes’ 1999 People’s Plan.

The plan for the tribes should be strategic and action oriented, says Jackson.

A plan with measurable results is another key component, he said.

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Washanaksha board is now accepting grant applications. The board will accept applications through Thursday, Dec. 1.

The Washanaksha board administers funds from the Oregon Cultural Trust and other sources. The Museum at Warm Springs is the fiscal sponsor.

Washanaksha is an Ichishkiin word. It means that when something is important, you take it in—heart, spirit and mind—and are committed to carrying it forward no matter what.

Tribal culture, family, history, dance, art, ceremonies, music and traditional practices are the foundation of the tribal identity. The tribes' Cultural Trust Committee chose this name because it communicates the highest purpose of their effort.

For more information please contact Tamera Moody, secretary of the Washanaksha board and Education coordinator at the museum, 541-553-3331.

The Washanaksha board supports projects and activities outlined in its Cultural Plan:

Promote tribal members and residents' understanding of and involvement in cultural activities, traditions, arts, language, dance, history, music, etc.

Pass on tribal knowledge and practices to our youth, and help them feel connected to their culture.

Preserve, practice and teach our tribal languages, Ichishkiin, Kiksht and Numu.

Support the work of our artists and traditional teachers, including their ability to earn a living from their work.

The maximum grant award is $1,200. The Washanaksha board wants to make as many awards as possible.

Applications will be accepted from the Confederated Tribes members, residents of the reservation, tribal programs and committees, and Warm Springs organizations. Grants to tribal members will be considered first.

My experience at the Venture conference

by Marie Kalama
Intern, Warm Springs Ventures

I walk into the Capitol lounge at downtown Bend, and I am surrounded by entrepreneurs from all over the country and of all ages. I can't even hear my own thoughts at this moment, because of all the chit-chat taking place.

It was like kids all excited to see their friends on the first day of school: That is how it was in the room full of business men and women.

Everyone seemed excited to be able to connect with other business people. This was my experience Wednesday afternoon in October, nervous and humbled to be in the presence of such brilliant minds.

The Thirteenth Annual Bend Venture Conference, Oct. 12-14, was hosted by Economical Development of Central Oregon (EDCO). It was a great learning experience.

The conference made me realize how much potential and opportunity the business field has to offer, and the many different applications out there.

The business pitch competition at the Tower Theatre was a little like the television program Shark Tank.

There were three different business categories for the competition: Early Stage, Growth Stage, and the newly added component 'Social Impact,' which was a huge success.

Each category consisted of a three-person panel, as well as over 600 conference attendees in the audience.

The total amount of investment funds for the Bend Venture Conference (BVC) was $3 million—the largest amount of venture capital for the state of Oregon.

Social Impact

The first competition was for the Social Impact businesses. Each company each gave a 25-minute pitch with an additional 10 minutes for questions and answers from the panel and the audience.

My supervisor, Ventures business and marketing director Aurolyn Stwyer, asked the company Tri-Eco about their criteria for selecting a manufacturing plant for their product.

She advised that Warm Springs is a 'hub zone' with tax advantages for business.

One company that radiated with the audience for Social Impact was Sudara, an enterprise from India, which sells clothing in Bend.

The apparel company provides job training for who are survivors of sex-trafficking at their country. Sudara was awarded $250,000 for Honorable Mention.

Early Stage, Growth

The second competition was the Early Stage competion, for which the title speaks for itself. The six finalists each gave a 15-minute pitch. This competition enlightened me as to how creative people can be, and how much determination it takes to actually start a business.

The last but not least was the Growth Stage competition. The five finalist were successful companies that are in need of financial support to move on to the next step.

The big winner of the Growth Stage was Hubb. This company received checks in the amount of a little less than $2.5 million from four different Angel investors.

Each competition was followed by a keynote speaker, who gave some encouraging words and shared their experience.

This was an extraordinary life-changing and learning adventure for me, a person with no background in business. I would like to give a huge shout-out to the Warm Springs Community Action Team and SCORE, who provided the ticket for me to attend the Bend Venture Conference.

Free spay, neuter clinic in W.S. Nov. 1

The Bend Spay and Neuter Project will host the third Warm Springs pet clinic on Tuesday, Nov. 1. This is a free spay and neuter service for dogs.

The first two clinics—in September and October—were popular with pet owners. Thirty-five dogs were treated during the first one, and 27 during the second.

If you are interested in this service for your dog, the drop-off time is at 7:30 a.m. at the Greeley Heights community building, 2776 Quail Trail. The dogs are taken on a first-come first-serve basis. Pick-ups are at 4 p.m.

If you have a dog or cat to surrender for re-homing, the Humane Society of Central Oregon or the Three Rivers Humane Society will be on hand to accept animals from 8 to 10 a.m.

The Bend Spay and Neuter Project will host their final Warm Springs clinic of 2016 in early December. For more information call 541-617-1010. Or go to: Bendsnip.org

Or call Arlissa at Housing, 541-553-3250.

Your dog's free apointment will include the spay or neuter surgery, pain injection, anesthesia and monitoring post surgery, pre-surgical exam, rabies vaccination (if needed), and an e-collar to prevent licking post surgery.

If you have a cat that needs to be spayed or neutered, please call 541-617-1010 for a free appointment at the clinic in Bend. Transportation assistance is available.

This program presented by Bend Spay and Neuter Project and The Daisy Fund, an endowment left for the purpose of preventing pet overpopulation in Jefferson County and surrounding areas.

In recognition of Head Start Awareness Month

by Cheryl Tom
Warm Springs Head Start

President Ronald Reagan proclaimed October as Head Start Awareness Month on October 22, 1982. There are currently 1,500 community-based organizations in all 50 states and U.S. territories, including Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

Head Start is a national program that promotes school readiness by enhancing the social and cognitive development of children through educational, health, nutritional, social and other services for enrolled children and families.

Classroom teams focus on helping pre-schoolers develop the early reading and math skills and the social skills they need to be successful in school.

Head Start has a long tradition of delivering comprehensive services designed to foster healthy development in the most vulnerable young children, including those with special needs.

The Warm Springs Head Start program offers services to 112 children ages 3 through 5, and their families residing in and around the Warm Springs community.

We also offer an Early Head Start Program for pregnant mothers and children up to age 3.

The Warm Springs Head Start Program is a center-based program offering classes five days a week 7 hours a day.

Our Early Head Start program offers what is called a home visitation program that also offers socialization classes at the Early Childhood Education Center once a month.

Warm Springs is one of the original Head Start Programs to be in operation for over 50 years.

Head Start offers assistance in accessing comprehensive health services including physical exams, dental exams, nutritional needs, hearing/vision screenings, immunizations and developmental screenings.

Head Start programs engage parents in their children's learning, and can help them to make progress toward their educational, literacy and employment goals.

Significant emphasis is placed on the involvement of parents in the local Head Start programs. Parents are involved through their local parent committees and through the Head Start Policy Council.

We encourage parents to volunteer in their child's classroom at any time; come enjoy breakfast, lunch or a snack with your child.

There are many opportunities to enhance parenting and teaching skills by helping plan and teach activities to your child(ren). Be on the lookout for learning opportunities at the many special family events during the school year.

Student Profile

Good attitude makes all the difference

Gerald Tufti is a student at Central Oregon Community College, working towards a degree in Early Childhood Education.

He is doing such a fine job that the COCC Department of Early Childhood Education has asked him to be a mentor for incoming Early Childhood students.

His advisor is Amy Howell. She chose Gerald as mentor not only because of his high GPA, but because she saw he was not afraid to speak up for himself and others.

Gerald is the first person new students speak with when they decide to go to college, and he tries to encourage and uplift them.

When Gerald first decided to go to college, he was overwhelmed and was not even sure he could actually do it.

But he found his instructors to be helpful and friendly, and also strict and professional.

“It was no longer, ‘If it doesn’t get done, then it doesn’t get done,’” Gerald says. “It was now, ‘If it doesn’t get done, I’m in big trouble!’”

Gerald says, “I’ve overcome many obstacles that have made me who I am. I’ve learned to forgive and move on, and every day I wake up with a spirit of gratitude.”

His advice to incoming students: Take it one step at a time and ask lots of questions.

Gerald plans to stay in his community and become a positive male role model: “It’s about helping out our community,” he says. “I appreciate what and who I have in my life, and I’m going to make the most of it.”

Grant funding for culturally aware strategies

The U.S. Department of Education has awarded Central Oregon Community College with a $2.25 million grant to implement culturally aware strategies to better address the needs of Native American and Latino students.

The five-year grant will also increase the number of students successfully transitioning from developmental to college-level math and writing. Nearly 85 percent of new COCC students test in the developmental levels in math and writing.

The Education Title III grant will provide for an increase in the first-to-second term transition, and first-to-second year retention rates of students.

No DAPL

Two Central Oregon Community College students will share their experiences of their time at the Sacred Stone Camp for the Dakota Access Pipeline movement. Yvette Leecy and Jose Alvarez, both Native Americans, will present from 4 to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 27 in Room 116 of the Coats Campus Center on the COCC Bend campus.

The event is free and open to the public. Pizza will be served. For more information, please contact Gina Ricketts, COCC Native American student coordinator, at 541-318-3782. Or email: ricketts@cocc.edu.

Getting started

COCC is offering a Getting Started presentation in Madras from 2 to 3 p.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 1, in room 105 of the Madras campus.

This is an opportunity for prospective students, whether seeking a degree or just a few classes, to meet with a COCC admissions representative.

For information or RSVP call 541-383-7500.

Halloween Hall

COCC is hosting its Seventh Annual Halloween Hall for children 12 and under with parents who are looking for a safe, warm and fun place to trick-or-treat.

Free candy, prizes and games will be available from 4:30 to 6 p.m. The students of the residence hall began planning Halloween Hall activities weeks in advance.

Parents have the opportunity to get a glimpse into current college living while children play games like Mummify Your Mum, and Gone Candy Fishin’.

“We always have a great turnout, and the COCC students have as much fun as the kids,” said Dan Brock, Residence Life coordinator at COCC. “Last year visitors enjoyed students dressed as characters from Peter Pan including Captain Hook, Tinkerbell, a mermaid and Peter himself.”

Complimentary parking is available in specific campus lots. Further information about COCC’s Halloween Hall, including parking details, can be found by calling 541-383-7545 or visiting cocc.edu/halloweenhall.

Looking back on 30 years at Warehouse

All of the tribal departments know Clint Smith: He is the manager of the tribal Warehouse, where the departments get their office supplies and equipment.

Clint has been with the Warehouse for 30 years. His niece Juanita earlier this month hosted an appreciation lunch for Clint to mark the occasion. “I want to thank her for that,” he says.

Clint signed his hire papers at the Warehouse on October 15, 1986. “Not many people remember the day they were hired for a job, but I’ve always remembered that date,” Clint was saying the other day.

As a young man Clint worked at Kah-Nee-Ta for seven or eight years, as the game room attendant.

He went to college, and when he came back to the reservation he saw the job advertisement for a Warehouse delivery driver.

There were 28 applicants. The Warehouse manager at the time, Joe Anstett, interviewed the candidates, and in the end hired Clint as the driver. A few years later he worked his way to the Warehouse manager position.

The Warehouse has always been housed in the same building at the industrial park. Though Clint has seen many changes over the years.

He remembers some of the first computers that arrived for the tribes. They were the old-style Macs with the keyboard and screen and computer all in one piece.

There are all kinds of computer equipment, old printers, etc., outside of the Warehouse. Once enough items are piled up, then a semi-truck will come and pick them up for recycling.

Arrests at NO DAPL site

Eighty-three people were arrested over the weekend at a protest against construction of the Dakota Access Pipeline, authorities in North Dakota.

The Morton County Sheriff’s Department said 300 protesters trespassed on private property and “engaged in escalated unlawful tactics and behavior” at a spot three miles west of State Highway 1806, along the pipeline right-of-way.

The suspects were charged with criminal trespass and engaging in a riot, the sheriff’s department said.

Construction equipment has been damaged at previous protests. About 20 protesters, including actress Shailene Woodley of the movies Snowden and Divergent, were arrested earlier in October in the same area.

The 1,172-mile pipeline would stretch from the oil-rich Bakken Formation—a vast underground deposit where Montana and North Dakota meet Canada—southeast into South Dakota, Iowa and Illinois.

Protesters say the pipeline will damage the environment and affect historically significant Native American tribal lands, and grave sites.

The Standing Rock Sioux tribe, whose reservation in North Dakota is near the pipeline route, and other tribes oppose the project.

Standing Rock Chairman Paul Archambault issued a statement saying, “Police are also routinely strip searching protesters, even when they have only been charged with a misdemeanor offense. Like days of old, this is a thinly veiled attempt to dehumanize and degrade Native people. Thousands of people have come to Standing Rock in prayerful protest of the pipeline and millions more support the Tribe in our efforts to protect our sacred places and water.”

Cowlitz oppose coal terminal

The Cowlitz Tribe is opposing a proposed coal export terminal on its aboriginal territory in Washington. Neither the state nor the federal government have adequately consulted the tribe about the proposed Millennium Bulk Terminals, Chairman Bill Iyall said. He said environmental studies fail to address the impacts of the project.

“The draft EIS consistently understates, misrepresents and simply does not have relevant significant information,” Iyall said.

The tribe isn’t the only one raising objections. Members of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs, for instance, have spoken against the proposal; and the city council in Vancouver passed a resolution in opposition.

Salmon conference focuses on floodplains

The Columbia River does not recognize international borders and neither should its floodplains.

That message was delivered to over 300 attendees at the 2016 Future of Our Salmon conference, where speakers challenged the region to combat climate change by restoring the critical connection between floods, floodplain habitat and a healthy river system.

The conference carrying the theme—Healthy Floodplains, Living Rivers—drew elected officials, scientists, government officials, tribal leaders from Canada and the U.S., and a broad range of professionals to the three-day event.

Conference presentations touched on a number of topics including science, policy and tribal culture.

They dove deep into understanding public perceptions around floods and flooding, and habitat restoration projects that are reconnecting flood-plain habitat with stream function.

And they looked toward a future that includes a regional approach modernizing flood risk management, restoring flood-plain habitat for fish and wildlife, and addressing climate change impacts to the Columbia River Basin through changing flow patterns.

The conference will be critical to developing a unified strategy to address climate change impacts for the benefit of the region’s fish, wildlife, and communities.

“This land is so very precious,” said Klickitat River Chief Wilbur Slockish Jr. “It grows our First Foods. It provides us with the resources that sustain us. We are all of made of this Earth and we will all go back to this Earth. That is why the tribes fight so hard and why we all need to fight for it.”

U.S. Senator Jeff Merkley reflected on the evolution of the Columbia River and its path forward during his keynote address:

“I think about the Columbia River and how it was before the dams went in. It was a very different river. We are at a different point in time now and we have a vital stake in how the Columbia River is managed from this point forward.”

Taylor Aalvik, Council

member and director of Natural Resources for the Cowlitz Tribe, spoke to the significance of the renegotiation of the Columbia River Treaty:

“We are on the eve of a monumental opportunity to reshape the Columbia River system for a very long time,” he said. “That is the renegotiation of the Columbia River Treaty, so it reflects all of the functions and all of the needs of a healthy river system.”

Pauline Terbasket, executive director of Okanagan Nation Alliance, said: “Don’t ask what the world needs you to do. Ask what makes you come alive and do that because we need you to come alive. Our river needs you to come alive.”

David Browneagle, vice chair of the Spokane Tribe, added: “The fish, the animals, and the plants have always taken care of us. But it’s our turn now. It’s our turn to take care of the water; to take care of the animals; to take care of the plants so our great-grandchildren can have a future. If we don’t come together to fix this—if we don’t do something now—my great-grandson may not have a ‘now.’”

The conference

Held at the Oregon Convention Center, last week’s event followed an intensive technical workshop held in August that laid the foundation for the conference gathering.

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission created the Future of Our Salmon conference in 2011 to facilitate dialogue between co-managers of the resource and a broad range of other interested parties in an ongoing quest for a unified vision of fish restoration in the Columbia River Basin.

The conference is held every two years with each conference focusing on a different theme that impacts regional salmon restoration efforts.

Seven tribes, first nations, and inter-tribal organizations from the U.S. and Canada hosted the conference, sponsored by 27 different entities. To view a full list of hosts, sponsors, and presentations visit the conference website at: critfc.org/future

Resolution of Tribal Council

The COO

Whereas for the more than 30 years, the Secretary-Treasurer/CEO has been both the lead manager for Tribal governmental operations and an officer of the Tribal Council, carrying out duties outlined in the Tribes' Constitution and By-Laws; and,

Whereas over that time Tribal Government has grown in size and scope, it has become increasingly difficult for a single manager to oversee the day to day operations and demand more accountability from the Tribes' governmental service department as well as fulfill Corporate Charter, Constitutional and policy development and implementation duties, including major strategic issues and general legal/fiscal responsibilities; and,

Whereas in 1993, The Secretary-Treasurer of the Tribal Council recommended to the Tribal Council a Reorganization plan that established a new position of Chief Operation Officer of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs that would manage and oversee the day to day delivery of governmental services and programs as authorized by the Tribal Council; and,
