Graduation, Honor Walk, Banquet in June

The Madras High School Class of 2017 will graduate on Saturday, June 3. The ceremony begins at 9 a.m. at the school’s football field. This year about 32 madras high school students will graduate from the school.

The high school seniors are graduating June 3, while the last regular day of school for other students in the district is June 15. Some days were added to the school calendar this year because of several snow days this past winter.

As the Warm Springs Academy school will also see an early start in September, the school will also see an early start in the fall. This year about 32 students will graduate from the high school.

Tribes consider CP options

Tribal Council in June is planning to meet with Warm Springs Ventures on the funding options for CP Enterprise, the tribe’s cannabis production project.

Options have included bringing in an outside source of funding, or finding ways for the tribes and Ventures to self-fund the project.

The outside funding source was brought up last month at Tribal Council, with some benefit of the arrangement such as not investing limited tribal funding in the development phase. A drawback, though, is revenue sharing, with the tribes in the long-term seeing significant revenue going to the outside party.

Council and Ventures met at Kab-Nee-Ts to review the two choices. Council wants to review options for self-funding. This is currently scheduled for the June 12 session.

Meanwhile, a lease for the production site has been worked out, involving the tribes, Ventures, and then CP Enterprise.

School board member beginning third term

The Warm Springs Academy is a great project the tribes and school district accomplished in recent years. It’s our duty to become a community school—yes that in the many community events and events that happen there,” Laurie Danuika says. Ms. Danuika is beginning her third four-year term on the Jefferson County school district board, having won her bid last week for reelection.

Looking to the next four years, Laurie sees opportunity with the American Indian/Alaska Native curriculum project. This is a program of the state Department of Education, as set out in federal legislation. The Oregon Department of Education, in consultation with the nine tribes, is the process of submitting an application.

The program recognizes the importance of tribal language, culture and history as part of the school curriculum. This could go a long way toward addressing a disproportionate district and some tribal education advocates have had in the past.

Lauree has three children in the 503 district, two at the Academy, and one at the high school-fourth-grader Karihlee, eighth-grader Kaylie, and high school junior Beth. Lauree works the CP Enterprise coordinator at Warm Springs Ventures.

In school board business she looks forward to working with the new superintendent, Academy Principal Ken Parshall.

They both have histories in Warm Springs and at the k-8 Academy. Lauree says. And he has experience and connections with funding sources for innovative education programs.

Another promising project, she says, is Futures, a career and technical program at the high school, very popular with students.

Tribes see no sign yet of malware

The Confederated Tribes’ Office of Information Technology saw no signs of a cyber attack or malware this past month.

As of Tuesday morning of this week, no computer viruses, trojans or worms had spread through hundreds of computer networks across the globe.

Council report on storm damage

The 2016-17 winter storms caused significant damage to tribal buildings. The tribes then started an insurance claim to cover some of the costs.

The Tribal Council heard a recent report on the situation from tribal property manager Britt Whipple. The Tribes, he reported, he said, especially at Kah-Nee-Tah.

All told, the claim for the tribes could be around $700,000. Mr. Whipple said.

While most of the cost is associated with damage at Kah-Nee-Ta, there were other tribal buildings damaged by the snow and freezing temperatures.

As an example, a structure at Porters Park was destroyed by the high accumulation of snow.

Warm Springs Ventures CEO planning move back home

Warm Springs Ventures chief executive officer Don Sampson has announced the return to the reservation later this year.

“Now I have to move closer to home,” Mr. Sampson said recently. This is a decision based on family consideration, he said. His mother and Father, Chief of the Walla Reservation, are getting on in age. And being closer to them is becoming more important.

But “I’m not going to just walk away from Ventures,” Mr. Sampson said. His departure will be the time when he will leave for Utah.

Mr. Sampson has overseen the initiation and development of promising ecoomic projects for the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs.

War
With gratitude
A lead back with gratitude. I am writing this letter to ask for support for the Native American youth who are entering ninth grade. Events have been happening on my family as well as my own.

First, I would like to thank our Creator for his guidance in all that I do today. It has been only a few years of abstinence from my life. I have realized that only the Creator, the one who gave me a position in the Warm Springs Housing Authority, can help me today. It has been only a few years since I took my life into my own hands and dedicated it to the people. I am at work. She is suffering from lung disease in Warm Springs, while my Creator blessed me. I am at work. She is suffering from lung disease in Warm Springs, while I am also working on my family as well as my own.

On my family as well as myself. I would name individuals personally for their service, but in a way to respect their privacy. I am learning that it takes a team to keep the world rolling smoothly. May our Creator bless you and yours in your daily walk. Ee-ow.

Best interest
I want to thank everyone who encouraged and sup- ported me in my run for a seat on the Jefferson County (S) school board. I didn't win the election but enjoyed hearing these people talk about ideas around designing an educational system that not only advances our youth academically but also lifts them up by offering a helping hand.

I think it's critical to connect the dots across disciplines beyond just academic achievement to help students and families feel like they are indeed at the heart of our public school systems. My hope is for educators to in- terview their understanding of trauma-informed practices, wrap around services, culturally appropriate curriculums and educational equity.

We all need to learn more about these types of support systems. Continue to encourage engagement with teachers and administration at every opportunity to share your knowledge and experi- ence. And remember we as the tribe for the long haul with the best interest of all the children at the forefront.

Oxbow Conservation Area dedication
The Oxbow project involves 1,102 acres of river and riparian land.

The tribal officials were involved in the planning and implementation of the project, including the Natural Resource and tribal leadership met at Coyote Fort. The Oxbow River Day in May is dedicated to the Oxbow Conservation Area.

The Pendleton Round-Up happened shortly after her death. I can't believe people ask me, “How come you're not at the Round-Up?” Just lost my sister, don’t feel like it. I don’t feel like it.

If I should be promoted, I will inherit one each (with a superbus each). The teepee spaces were inherited from my husband, who willed to my husband, Jimmy Sampson, Victoria Katchia or Karla Hawes, Mary Iwamoto, Rosanna Jackson, Marceline Offs, Indian print men’s coffee mugs, Lottery Scratch- offs, Indian print men’s sweater with Pendleton products, and other items. See one of the following to get your tickets:

School board
I want to ask you all how generous I am for your support. I am more than happy to become part of the school board, and save our community.

I hope you all can cut to the chase. I hope you will all join me and find a way to support our schools. Everyone has their own interest, and shares your gifts and knowledge.

Our community has accomplished many great things, and together we can make our schools stronger. Thank you all to the can- didates who ran for school board. Every one of the can-didates was an amazing indi- vidual who cares deeply about our community.

I commend them for step- ping up and working to make a difference. They are mov- ing mountains.

Thank you, Brittain, Sue, Gay, Alyssa and Tony. Being a member of the school board is a volunteer position that requires a lot of personal resources and time. I am grateful to all the school board members who are serving this community. I am excited to join your team.

So let's all jump into this topic and applaud something we can be proud of! I hope to see you all at the parades, public meetings and assem- blies supporting our students and staff.

Caregiver
I am in need of an expe- rience caregiver who can work immediately. I can offer $20 per hour.

I will be needing services for five hours at any time under the provider, be- cause Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday.

This is for my mother-in- law, while I am at work. She is suffer- ing dementia. The provider would need minor skills in health care, nothing more.

Student nominated for leadership in science

Jalaney Suppah was nominated as a delegate to the Congress of Future Scientists and Technology Leaders in Lowell, Mass in June. The purpose of the Congress is to honor, inspire, motivate and direct the top students in the country who aspire to be scientists and technologists, to stay true to their dream and, after the event, to provide a path, plan and resources to help them reach their goal.

Jalaney Suppah was nominated to represent Oregon by Dr. John C. Mather, winner of the Nobel Prize in Physics and Science Director of the National Academy of Future Scientists and Technologists.

The nomination was based on Jalaney’s academic achievement, leadership potential and passion for science and technology.

“This is a once in a lifetime opportunity to be around many diverse leaders of many ages who may make a difference by directing their futures to changing the world through science and technology.”

I have been nominated as a delegate for the National Academy of Future Scientists and Technology Leaders of Excellence. I feel honored to be selected for my academic achievements, leadership potential and determination to serve humanity in the field of science and technology.

The Academy was founded on the belief that science, technology, engineering and mathematics (STEM) education play a critical role in enabling the U.S. to remain competitive in the global marketplace.

Jalaney is a student of Madras High School and the Oregon State University at the Conrad School of Science and Technology Leaders.

The Congress is an honors-only event featuring the works of local artists of the reservation community, through this Saturday, May 27.

The program is also offered to members of the National Guard and Reserve, U.S. Public Health Service Commissioned Corps, NOAA Commissioned Corps. Up to five family members are invited to participate as well.
Planning for Forty-Seventh Annual Pi-Ume-Sha

The Pi-Ume-Sha Committee and the tribes are getting ready for Pi-Ume-Sha 2017, coming up in one month.

The Forty-Seventh Annual Treaty Days this year will be Friday through Sunday, June 23-25. The powwow this year will mark 162 years since the signing of the Treaty of 1855. In that year tribal leaders of the Tenino, Tyigh, Wyam, Dockspuse, and Wasco agreed to terms as pre-cent for the future of their people. The signing took place near Celilo Falls, erroneously marked the Warm Springs Reservation. The nations of the Yakama Nation’s sacred mountains. The Yakama Treaty of 1855, which reversed the reservation boundaries, would later be used to build a memorial to honor those who signed the treaty. The signature ceremony was held at the Warm Springs Reservation in partnership with the Wildhorse Resort and Casino.

In May, the Warm Springs Fire Management has started the spring burning program. If you have questions concerning burns, please contact Brad Dome at Fire Management, 541-533-8301.

Superintendent of Indian Affairs. The agreement happened on June 25, 1855, near Celilo Falls. Pi-Ume-Sha began in 1979, as a way to honor veterans, still a focal point in Native American culture.

At this time in Native history: In May of 1972, President Richard Nixon signed an order removing 21,000 acres of forest land to the Yakama Nation of Washington and reserving a 30-mile long dispute over reservation boundaries. The order returned to tribal territory the east side of Mount Adams, a nearly 10,000-foot, snow-capped peak that is one of the Yakama Nation’s sacred mountains. The Yakama Treaty of 1855, which reversed the reservation boundaries, erroneously omitted the mountain.

The Pi-Ume-Sha Endurance Horse Race, Saturday morning starting at the Shaker Church. The Pi-Ume-Sha Run, 9 a.m. on Saturday, starting at the Warm Springs Housing Authority. The Pi-Ume-Sha Traditional Parade is on Saturday at 11 a.m., before the 1 p.m. Grand Entry. The first Grand Entry is Friday evening, June, then on Saturday evening at 7, and Sunday at 2 p.m. The Pi-Ume-Sha Rodes is Saturday and Sunday, June 24 and 25, starting each day at 1 p.m. Pi-Ume-Sha Rodeo, hosted by the Warm Springs Nation Boxing Club, is Saturday at 6 p.m. at the Community Center gym.

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission received a $7,500 grant from the Wildhorse Resort and Casino to improve tribal fisher safety on the Columbia River, and create a Columbia River Safe Boating Memorial at Columbia Hills State Park near Dallesport, Wash. The grant will support a cost-sharing program to help offset the expense of personal flotation devices and emergency boat beacons for tribal fishers.

CRITFC’s safety equipment cost-sharing program will be unveiled at the Indian Fishers Expo in Hood River this July.

The grant was submitted as part of CRITFC’s campaigns to increase tribal fisher safety on the Columbia River. The organization is working with the Confederated Tribes of Umatilla Indian Reservation in partnership with the Wildhorse Resort and Casino.

The Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife is forecasting dramatically low returns of summer steelhead to the Columbia and Snake rivers, which will likely result in fishing restrictions for Northwest chinook by the fall of 2017. According to the Oregon Water Resources Department, the Columbia River at The Dalles and John Day dams downstream of The Dalles Dam during the months of September and October, is at risk of going extinct sometime in the next century. The authors, with the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife, are predicting a total run of just 131,800 steelhead based on a number of factors, including the surving 2015 drought and warm ocean "blob" over the Pacific Ocean. Fisheries managers are considering a plan that would close steelhead residual return of the Dalles Dam during the entire month of August; between The Dalles and John Day dams during the months of September and October, from John Day Dam to the Oregon-Washington border during October and November.

The youth also met with Sen. Ted Ferrioli at the state Capitol. The theme of the spring celebration this year was Sharing Traditions: Teaching Our Children to Build Strong Tribes Nationa lly.

Wild Chinook salmon, probably the most prized sea- run fish on the West Coast, could all but vanish from California within a hundred years, according to a report released last week. The authors, with the University of California, Davis, and the conserva- tion group California Trout, name climate change, dams and agriculture as the ma- jor threats to the prized and iconic fish.

Chinook salmon are just one species at risk of dis- appearing. California is home to 35 generally dis- tinct kinds of salmon and trout, 23 of which are at risk of going extinct sometime in the next century.

On June 11, Salish Kootenai College President Elvin Hatch will present the 2017 Tribal Council Report: Calif. chinook could disappear in 100 years.

Five graduating MHS students earn college scholarships

With support from the Food Family Foundation, five dedicated Madras High School graduates will be attending college next year and working towards bachelor’s degrees. Congratulations to the following White Buffaloes from the 2017 graduating class:

Ryan Goss
Ryan will be attending Oregon State University and studying Mechanical Engineering.

Vanessa Aguirre
Vanessa will be attending George Fox University and studying Biochemistry/Premed.

Omar Dominguez
Omar will be attending Willamette University and studying Biology.

Obed Eriza
Obed will be attending Concordia University and studying Accounting.

Colton Goss
Colton will be attending Southern Oregon University and studying Nursing.

These students were selected to receive scholarships because they demonstrate:

- Leadership potential through school, home and/or community activities
- Good character
- A concern for others through contributions to volunteer projects and/or family needs
- Work ethic
- Responsibility, initiative and skill building through paid or unpaid work experience
- An ability to clearly communicate personal strengths and goals both in writing and verbally; and
- An ability to succeed academically in college as demonstrated by a high school or college GPA, standardized test scores and/or other factors.

According to Sok, the amount of the scholarship awards will be calculated to cover 90% of each student’s college costs that are not covered by other resources.

The maximum amount is $20,000 per academic year.

Total Eclipse of the Week

During the week of May 15, all JCSD activities rotated around hands-on science learning in preparation for the 2017 solar eclipse. Thanks to the Lowell Observatory, OMM (Oregon Museum of Science and Industry) and NASA (National Aeronautics and Space Administration), students, families and staff participated in projects and presentations to learn about the sun, the solar eclipse, planets, the solar system, science careers and much more.

The JCSD team is partnering with Lowell, OMM and NASA to bring learning opportunities to district schools and communities in exchange for free access to the Madras High School Performing Arts Center and athletic facilities for viewing during the eclipse.

“The eclipse has provided our students and staff with an incredible opportunity to learn from scientists and astronomers from around the world,” said JCSD Curriculum Director Melinda Boyk. “This is a once-in-a-lifetime experience for all of us.”

The Great American Eclipse will be visible from Madras for 2 minutes, 4 seconds on August 21st between 9:56 and 11:41 a.m. For details about the Lowell Observatory Solar Eclipse Experience 2017 in Madras, visit lowellobservatory.org.

Madras High School celebrates academic strength

This month, Madras High School students showed their brain muscles in a school-wide academic competition. During “Academic Week,” they participated in activities that promote the importance of doing well in school and reaching for college or careers after high school graduation.

“Academic Week gives our students a chance to compete and be recognized outside of athletics,” said Madras High School Principal Mark Nettenheiser. “Hundreds of kids were recognized and lifted up in a number of ways through these events.”

“What a great way to celebrate academics! My favorite part is the academic assembly that we hold at the end of the week. During the assembly, the top four kids from each grade level compete in a Brain Bowl. It’s really fun and exciting to watch,” — Deanne Peterson-Kay, MHS math teacher
