Happy Pi-Ume-Sha

The Forty-Seventh Annual Treaty Days starts this Wednesday, June 21 with the Pi-Ume-Sha Health Fair—with the theme this year, 'Water is Life.' The health fair is through 1 p.m. this Wednesday at the community center.

Next is the opening of the new Museum at Warm Springs exhibit, Celestial Visions. Grand opening—the theme anticipating the 2017 total solar eclipse—is this Thursday, June 22, at 5:30 p.m.

The first of the weekend Grand Entries is Friday, June 23 at 7 p.m. at the powwow grounds.

The Pi-Ume-Sha Traditional Parade is Saturday at 11 a.m., before the 1 p.m. Grand Entry. Pi-Ume-Sha then hosts two more Grand Entries, Saturday evening at 7; and Sunday at 2 p.m.

The powwow this year marks 162 years since the signing of the Treaty of 1855. In that year tribal leaders of the Tenino, Tyigh, Wyam, Dockspuse and Wasco agreed to treaty terms as presented by Indian Affairs, then a division of the U.S. War Department.

Tribal leaders signed the treaty on June 25, 1855, near Celilo Falls.

Pi-Ume-Sha began in 1970, during the Vietnam War, and was an honor to veterans—still a central feature of powwow weekend.

Tribal Council discussion with school district officials

Tribal Council met with the new superintendent of the Jefferson County School District 509-J, and the outgoing superintendent.

The new superintendent is Ken Parshall, also the principal for the past two years of the Warm Springs Academy. The outgoing superintendent is Rick Molitor, resigning to focus on his business enterprise.

Mr. Molitor presented Tribal Council with a Pendleton blanket featuring a white buffalo image, the mascot at Madras High School. He said the partnership between the tribes and the school district to build the Warm Springs Academy was a highlight of his career as superintendent.

Council Chairman Austin

Greene Jr. agreed on this point. "The effort to pass the referendum was a remarkable step in investing in our children," Chairman Greene said. The membership, management, Twenty-Sixth Tribal Council and school district worked hard to make it a reality, he said.

Council Vice Chairman Jody Calica said there had been a 40-year impasse in developing a new school in Warm Springs, and he appreciates the help in overcoming the impasse.

He added that the tribes and district now have to come up with a new long-term education agreement, a matter that has been pending for about a year now.

(See SCHOOL on page 7)

Jayson Smith/Spilyay

The Confederated Tribes, the Education Committee and school district 509-J hosted the first Warm Springs Academy Powwow. The Ich'inun Summer Jam Powwow Slam was held the Tuesday evening of the last week of the school year.

Veterans Memorial Park

The architect working with the Warm Springs Veterans Memorial Park Committee has developed a design for the project. Meanwhile the funding details are being worked out.

The architects Statsny Brun also designed the museum, and are donating services to the memorial park committee.

Some funding can come in-kind, such as through the use of tribal services for some of the work. Other funding will come from grant sources, such as the Spirit Mountain Community Fund. Tribal development director Bruce Irwin was working on this in recent weeks.

A design of the project includes an elevated mound with concrete walkways lead up to the central feature. This feature includes seven flags: Those of the VFW, American Legion, POW/MIA, Warriors flag, Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs, state of Oregon, and the United States. Other notable features:

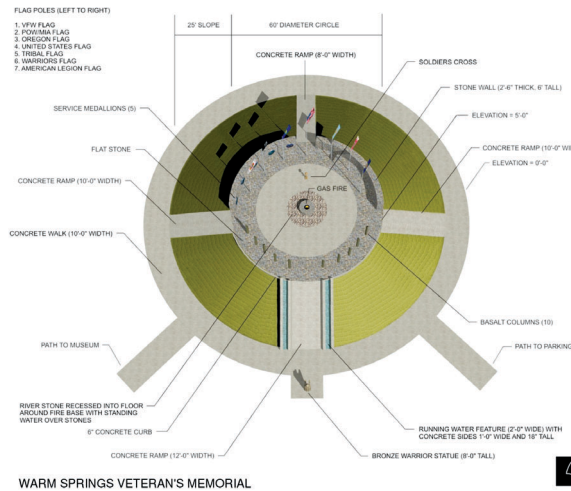

A bronze Warrior Statue, the

The architect's concept image of the Veterans Memorial Park at the Museum at Warm Springs.

Soldier's Cross, Service Medallions, ten basalt columns, and names of the veterans of the Confederated Tribes. There is a running water feature, and a central flame.

The Veterans Memorial Park Committee working on the project include Tamera Calhoun, president; Charles Tailfeathers, vice president; Susan Guerin, secretary; Johnathan Courtney, treasurer; trustes AJ Atencio, Dennis Dowty, Dan Martinez and Alvis Smith III; and Chaplain Phillip David.

Balloon test flight for solar eclipse

Students at the Warm Springs Academy got to see a test flight of a high-altitude helium balloon—the kind that will launch here during the August 21 solar eclipse.

The Space Grant Consortium, the NASA partnership and academy hosted the balloon demonstration in the afternoon of the last day of school.

The balloon ascended to a height of 18,000 feet, said Aurolyn Stwyer, Ventures marketing director, who has been working with the NASA partnership team.

After the balloon launch, the team launched a rocket as the school day ended. This is part of a Science Technology, Engineering and Mathematics (STEM) curriculum.

Since the partnership has been visiting Warm Springs, the academy now has an engineering club.

A STEM summer camp, with an unmanned aerial systems component with Ventures, is another upcoming project of the team. Then in August, during the eclipse, they will launch helium balloons equipped with cameras.

Roads safety plan addresses problem areas

Tribal Planning and the Oregon Department of Transportation presented the Warm Springs Commercial Safety Plan at Tribal Council this week. Council approved the document, meaning some significant roadway improvement projects can go forward.

These projects—several along Highway 26 in the Warm Springs area—have been planned for some time. State funding is secured to complete near-term work. ODOT identified the various sites needing improvement based on a study of the number of accidents at particular locations, and whether injury was involved or just vehicle damage.

The single biggest item is at the Highway 26-Hollywood Boulevard intersection by the Shell Station. An estimated $910,000 would be used to improve the sight distance from Hollywood, including visibility of pedestrians and bicyclists. This project would involve a lowering of the grade at the intersection.

Other larger projects are at the intersection of Highway 26 and the turn-offs to the casino and the museum; and at the intersection of Highway 26, Highway 3 and Paiute Ave. For the study period involved, there were eight crashes at the Paiute Avenue-Highway 26 intersection.

Some of the work will involve creating a safer walking area along Highway 26 from Hollywood Boulevard to the casino-museum intersection. In all for the near-term projects, which can be done in a year or two, total cost is about $1.8 million.

Honoring Purple Heart veterans July 4

TERO planning for 2017-18 construction

The Warm Springs Tribal Employment Rights Office is coordinating work on- and off-reservation for later this year and in 2018.

The Warm Springs TERO finalized its memorandum of understanding with the Oregon Department of Transportation in February.

With the MOU in place, TERO now works with the on- and off-reservation ODOT contractors and others on future projects.

There are several projects planned in ODOT region 4—north to south Central Oregon—and in neighboring ODOT regions within the Warm Springs TERO jurisdiction, said Wendell Jim, office director.

The TERO is located at Ventures at the industrial park. Mary Sando-Emhoolah, TERO dispatcher, maintains a data base of almost 150 tribal members who have completed the necessary work skills survey.

As projects come open, the office determines the kind of worker that may be needed. Ms. Sando-Emhoolah then works to fit the position with a member in the data base.

This can be a challenge, as projects often are away from the reservation, such as at Mosier to use a recent example. Prineville, Hood River, The Dalles are other examples. Some workers use fifth-wheel other rigs, or stay at campgrounds to make it to off-reservation jobs.

Different kinds of positions come open on the construction projects: laborers, flaggers, licensed commercial drivers, heavy equipment operators, carpenters, to name a few.

For prospective employees, keeping the TERO office aware of a current phone number, job status, residence, etc., is important. To be added to the TERO data base, the skills survey is available online at: wstero.com

TERO also has partnerships that can offer training and certifications.

The TERO office has jurisdiction on ODOT construction projects on the reservation, and within a 60-mile radius of the reservation.

Warm Springs Power and Water Enterprise Board of Directors: one non-member position, Class II term expiring January 1, 2018.

Warm Springs Tribal Employment Rights Office Commission: two positions, terms expiring January 11, 2018.

Warm Springs Tribal Credit Board of Directors: one non-member position Class II, term expires January 1, 2020. The other Class II board member is a tribal member.

For each of these board positions, please submit a letter of interest and/or resume no later than June 23. Please submit to: Emily Yazzie, PO Box 1299, Warm Springs OR 97761. Or fax to 541-553-2241. Or email: Emily.yazzie@wstribes.org

All applicants will be required to do a criminal background check and credit check. These will be conducted by the Warm Springs Police Department, and the Good Hire Credit Agency, respectively. The report will be submitted confidentially to the Secretary-Treasurer.

For information call 541-553-3257, or -3258.

Wasco weaver a feature at British Museum exhibit

Pat Courtney Gold, member of the Confederated Tribes, helped revive the unique weaving technique of Wasco baskets. She also enjoys experimenting with various materials and weaving techniques.

Ms. Courtney Gold has two weavings in the British Museum in London.

In 2015, the museum asked Pat if they could include one of her weavings in the International Traveling Exhibit, Treasures of the World.

They chose a contemporary weaving titled Anti-Social Wild West Weaving.

Pat wove this weaving using antique barb wire. She had to wear thick leather gloves, and care was taken to avoid the barbs as the stiff wire tended to swing in all directions.

Pat's weaving represents the coming of the Euro-Americans who took Native lands, then fenced the property, using barbed wire. This fencing shut out the Native people from their traditional lands.

Native ancestors lived on this land for thousands of years. The land contains the spirit of the ancestors, and

The antique barb wire was a generous gift from a friend, Becky Roberts of Campbell Ranch in Madras.

Pat has earned many awards, including the National Endowment of Arts Heritage Fellowship. She was featured weaver in the PBS Craft in America, and has her baskets in these national museums:

The Peabody Museum at Harvard University, Cambridge, Mass; the Smithsonian National Museum of American Indians in Washington, D.C.; and the Museum at Warm Springs.

She is a recipient of the 2016 prestigious Potlatch Fund award for her work on cultural preservation.

Letters to the editor

Native Program

The Central Oregon Community College Native American Program and COCC First Nations students would like to thank the following for all their help and support this past year.

Carroll Dick and the Higher Education Department for their continued support through scholarships and the Summer Bridge students.

Valerie Switzler and the Culture and Heritage Department. Val and her crew have a wealth of information, and are always willing to share with the community.

The Confederated Tribes Fisheries for the donations of the salmon for the Annual Salmon Bake. With their support we were able to raise over $1,000 in donations for scholarships for COCC Native American students.

A special thanks to Geraldine Jim and family who share their knowledge of Central Oregon with our students.

As many of you know, this is my last year as program coordinator. I hope to continue to be involved in the Warm Springs Community in whatever way I can.

A tearful thank you to all who made me feel welcome, opened up your homes and hearts, and made me feel a bit less homesick.

nuni-wht-se-te,
Gina Ricketts

Duck City

Hello all of you, I still live in Duck City, Eugene, Oregon, but the brain injury needs more medical attention.

I really don't know how long I'll be in the one I'm now in. I guess it's all right. I can still write as much as I'd like to, if I need to relieve stress of any kind.

I've had the traumatic brain injury for many years, but on the good side of it all, it helps me to look at everything and learn from it.

HeHe gathering

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Men's Wellness Gathering is coming up July 19-20 at the HeHe Campground. We are excited to invite you to this free men's wellness conference.

Join us as we retreat into the quiet locale of the HeHe Butte Longhouse. We will participate in group discussion, and ancient ceremony that was done is times of great change. The process involves working with the circle to weave together individual and community wisdom.

The gathering will allow time for the exploration of nature, sweat lodge, meditation, music and games. The accommodations are your tent or trailer (no RV hook-ups available). Meals will be provided by the Health and Human Services Branch. Please bring additional snacks as needed.

Who should attend: The conference brings together Warm Springs tribal members, members of other Native American communities, and any other men who wish to partake in this gathering. The facilitators are Don Courtney, Dan Martinez, Mykee Martinez, Andy Leonard, Scott Kalama, Leighton Pennington, Dr. John Spence (Gros Ventre/

Seeking artist bids for crown, banner

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs is requesting proposals from experienced artists who would like to bead the crown and banner for Miss Warm Springs, as described below in the scope of work.

The Miss Warm Springs tradition started during the centennial celebration of the Treaty of 1855 with the Middle Bands of Oregon, when a pageant was held to select the Treaty Centennial Queen. Atwai Kathleen Heath was selected in that capacity, and is considered to be the first Miss Warm Springs.

It was not until 1969 that the tribes held the first Miss Warm Springs Pageant. At that time, atwai Dorothy "Pebbles" George was selected as Miss Warm Springs. Since then, the pageant has been held annually with few exceptions. To date, 41 women have served as Miss Warm Springs, including the current titleholder, Katrina Blackwolf.

Scope of work

Artists must briefly describe a list of recently completed projects accompanied by pictures.

The crown must identify the title of "Miss Warm Springs 2018" and include elements representative of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs. This includes but is not limited to the flag design. The highest point of the crown must not exceed nine inches. Beadwork should be backed and have an attached buckskin string back closure.

The color scheme for the main background of the crown is to be the light blue similar to the Confederated Tribes flag and previous Miss Warm Springs crowns.

The banner must identify the title of "Miss Warm Springs" and include elements representative of the Confederated Tribes. The banner must be at least 8 inches wide with buckskin fringe between 8-10 inches. The back of the banner should be plain and there should be an attached buckskin string closure.

All bidders much include a sample drawing of the proposed crown and banner design. Committee requests that the bead size be no larger than size 13; small sized beads are allowable as well as assorted cuts, colors and types but must be specified on the design sample.

Cost proposal must include a detailed breakdown for cost of supplies and labor hours in a quote/invoice format. Proposals should not exceed $3,000.

Project must be completed by December 15, 2017.

Evaluation criteria

All proposals received by the deadline will be evaluated as follows:

Forty percent: Proposed statement of work.

Thirty percent: Price.

Twenty percent: Qualifications, experience and/or past performance.

Ten percent: Indian preference.

Award information: The award will be made to the most well designed proposal, most experienced, best priced and most responsive, responsible bidder using the approved tribal contracting process.

Schedule: Sealed proposals due Friday, July 7. Proposal review completed by Friday, July 28.

CRITFC urges passage of salmon predation prevention act

The Pacific Northwest needs more efficient and effective management tools to address the growing issue of sea lion predation on the Columbia River's at-risk salmon populations.

This was the message delivered by Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission Chairman Leland Bill. His testimony last week was in support of HR 2083, the Endangered Salmon and Fisheries Predation Prevention Act.

The chairman testified before the Water, Power and Oceans, a subcommittee to the Congressional Natural Resource Committee.

HR 2083 was introduced by Rep. Jaime Herrera-Beutler (R-Wash.), and co-sponsored by Rep. Kurt Schrader (D-Ore.), Rep. Dan Newhouse (R-Wash.), and Rep. Don Young (R-Alaska).

H.R. 2083 would extend pinniped removal authority to CRITFC and the four sovereign tribes, Warm Springs, Yakama, Umatilla and Nez Perce.

The tribes have co-management authority on the

NOAA Fisheries found that 45 percent of the 2014 spring chinook run was potentially lost to sea lions.

Columbia River.

In addition to removal authority, the legislation implements area-based management rather than individual sea lion management, and allows fishery management agencies to remove California sea lions upstream of river mile 120 or in any Columbia River tributary.

This streamlined process would allow the region to effectively manage sea lion predation on endangered salmon populations.

Wy-Kan-Ush-Mi Wa-Kish-Wit, the four tribes' comprehensive anadromous fish management plan, addresses the challenges facing Columbia River salmon throughout their entire life cycle, including marine mammal predation.

The effects of land and water management, harvest, hydroelectric passage, hatcheries and predation must be considered in a holistic manner, the CRITFC chairman said.

"The Creator placed an obligation on the Indian people to speak for the salmon," Chairman Bill said. "Our testimony and management actions help fulfill this commitment."

Over the past 15 years, sea lion populations throughout the 145 river miles between the estuary and Bonneville Dam have significantly increased.

The subsequent spike in predation on endangered salmon has resulted in a significant loss of adult salmon.

NOAA Fisheries found that 45 percent of the 2014 spring chinook run was potentially lost to sea lions.

Last year, approximately 190 sea lions killed over 9,500 adult spring chinook within a quarter mile of Bonneville Dam—a 5.8 percent loss of the 2016 spring chinook return.

A limited sea lion removal program has been in effect at Bonneville Dam since 2011. However, a cumbersome process and litigation has hampered the program's success, and the current program has not reduced sea lion predation below Bonneville Dam.

Sea lion populations have seen resurgence under the Marine Mammal Protection Act.

In 1972 when the act was passed, the California sea lion population hovered around 30,000 animals. Today, there are over 325,000 animals along the West Coast and the species has fully recovered.

"The actions proposed under HR 2083 are guided by 10 years of data," said Chairman Bill.

"This data shows a growing predation problem, and our on-the-river experience implementing Section 120 removal permits has taught us that the current approach is not enough. I'm here to tell you that more needs to be done."

Tribes consider survey on elder safety

The Confederated Tribes are looking into the possibility of conducting an elder maltreatment survey on the reservation. The data could then be used to apply for grant funding to address any potential problem or problem areas.

The survey project on the local level is a project of the Warm Springs Senior Program; and was presented at Tribal Council by chief operations officer Alyssa Macy, and Health and Human Services general manager Caroline Cruz.

Council members want the proposal first to go for formal action before the tribal Health and Welfare Committee.

Committee members may be aware of the survey proposal, but some formal recommendation is also needed, Council members said.

The survey—and technical assistance and training in conducting the survey—are provided through the National Indigenous Elder Justice Initiative Program (NIEJI).

Confidentiality of participants in strictly protected throughout the process, Ms. Macy said.

NIEJI is asking tribes across the nation to participate. The goal is to identify elder maltreatment issues in Native American communities. As set out in the draft Council resolution, the NIEJI Innovation program will provide:

The Native Elder Maltreatment Survey. Assistance in sampling. Training of and consultation with the interviewers. Data entry and analysis. Data storage. Production of tables and comparisons with national statistics. For their part the tribes will provide:

The Council resolution in support of the survey. An estimated number of elders to be interviewed. The volunteer interviewers to conduct the survey. Recommendations for future actions. Sharing the information (with confidentiality strictly protected) with tribal leaders and health officials.

The information could give the tribes access to grants that are currently not available, as no data on elder maltreatment currently exists.

Tribal Councilman Raymond Tsumpti said the tribes have an Elders Protection Code, and asked for information on how often these laws are being enforced.

The Warm Springs Academy and school district, the Warm Springs Education Committee and Confederated Tribes hosted the Ich'inun Summer Jam Powwow, the first ever powwow hosted by the school. The powwow was Tuesday evening of the last week of school.

Power and Water bond refinancing

Tribal Council approved a bond refinancing proposal from Warm Springs Power and Water Enterprises.

The bonds were originally issued in 2009. The difference in the interest rate from then till now makes the re-financing a good idea, said Jim Manager, Power and Water general manager.

The enterprise could see a savings of about $2.5 million through the reduction in the debt service, Mr. Manion said. This will allow for more flexibility in future financing matters, he said.

The Confederated Tribes have an ordinance that regulates the issuance of bonds. The ordinance was established some years ago, to facilitate the funding of the Early Childhood Education center, as approved at the time by membership referendum.

Passage last week of the Power and Water refinancing proposal involved the reading of a lengthy and detailed resolution, no. 12,340. The Council vote was unanimous in favor.

May you two strong teachers continue on your learning adventure! Love, Your family and friends.

Eclipse week pledge drive with KWSO

KWSO radio will hold their first ever pledge drive the week of the Solar Eclipse, August 15-22. The public radio station, owned and operated by the Confederated Tribes, has been on the air for more than 30 years, serving the reservation community and surrounding areas.

The Confederated Tribes have long supported the local media outlet, and in 2004 KWSO became part of the Corporation for Public Broadcasting Community Service Grant program, which now funds close to half of the station's operations annually.

For a membership there is a one-time annual fee of $35. You can also choose a sustaining membership, and give a specific amount of money monthly, having it automatically drawn from your bank account or credit card.

The August pledge drive will be a chance for the community, as well as visitors to Central Oregon, to show their appreciation and support for Warm Springs Community Radio.

To learn more about the KWSO membership program visit www.kwsu.org and click on the donate button.

Luminaria with Relay for Life

A special Luminaria ceremony during the American Cancer Society Relay For Life of Jefferson County will remember those lost to cancer, and honor those who have survived.

Luminaria will be lit at the Jefferson County Fairgrounds on July 15 at dark time to represent these individuals.

Anyone desiring to make a luminaria donation may do so by contacting Christie Bouvia at 541-460-9604 or by visiting: relayforlife.org/madrasor each. "Each luminaria represents the life of someone who has battled cancer. It is a beautiful sight when all the bags with candles are illuminated around the track," said Christie Bouvia volunteer luminaria chair.

Each luminaria candle is $5

"The Luminaria Ceremony is a moving way to remember loved ones lost to cancer and to pay tribute to cancer survivors."

Indian Head Casino and employees are among the supporters of the Relay for Life Jefferson County.

Senators see for salmon fishery emergency

Four West Coast senators are calling for a declaration of salmon fishery emergency. This could provide aid to economically struggling fishing communities.

Sens. Ron Wyden and Jeff Merkley of Oregon, and Sens. Dianne Feinstein and Kamala Harris from California, sent a letter to Commerce Secretary Wilbur Ross last week calling for the declaration. It comes in the wake of a similar appeal three weeks ago from the two states' governors, Kate Brown of Oregon and Jerry Brown of California.

Fish may be sold after the period ends if caught during the open period.

Leadership Corner

A Message from Rick Molitor

Superintendent

It is with mixed emotions that I write this last message as superintendent for JCSD 509J. It has truly been an honor to partner with staff, students, families and community members to raise the bar for education in Jefferson County. I am proud of the progress we’ve made and the partnerships we’ve built to support our kids. There is still much work to be done and I am confident that Ken Parshall’s leadership will take us to the next level.

As we wrap up the school year, I’d like to invite and challenge our community members to become champions for equity and excellence in education. Our communities will shine when each and every student succeeds – regardless of his or her cultural, racial or economic background. Our diversity is what makes us great.

With your support and the talent of our JCSD team, I know that all of our students throughout our district can be successful.

Thank you for all of your support. I hope you have a happy and safe summer and I look forward to seeing you around town.

Rick Molitor, JCSD Superintendent

Local leaders make high school internships possible

Thanks to support from local business and community leaders, Bridges Career and Technical High School students now have access to internships that help them learn job skills and gain experience.

According to BCTHS Principal Caron Smith, the school has been building partnerships with local business owners, EDCO, the Madras Chamber of Commerce, COCC and The High Desert Education Service District’s Better Together program to help match students with internship opportunities.

Bridges sophomore Lakin Kurtz recently completed an internship with the Great Earth Deli in Madras. Kurtz is interested in owning her own café or bakery one day.

Lakin Kurtz recently worked as an intern for Great Earth Deli. She plans to own her own café or wedding cake shop in the future.

“It was pretty exciting to be part of the morning baking. I learned a lot of different things like how to bake scones, keep the areas clean and stock shelves.”

— Lakin Kurtz, Bridges sophomore

According to Cory Phifer, Great Earth’s bread maker who helped supervise Kurtz, she did well at the deli.

“Lakin was very interested in what we were doing and seemed to enjoy the hands on training,” said Phifer. “She was good at observing and learning and able to replicate what we were doing. It was a good experience for us and we would definitely be willing to work with an intern again.”

“The community support has been incredible,” said Smith. “Our local leaders are truly stepping up to support these kids as they explore their futures.”

Bridges student Richayla Elliot, who is interested in a career in clinical psychology, also interned with Three Rivers Humane Society.

Students thriving at new Bridges high school

In it’s first year, the JCSD Bridges Career and Technical High School has made a big difference in the lives of more than 125 students in Madras and Warm Springs. The new high school offers project-based, hands-on learning for students who struggle in a traditional school setting.

“We are working with some amazing students who need help overcoming some big personal challenges,” said BCTHS Principal Caron Smith. “Some are dealing with homelessness or difficult personal situations and they need help getting their basic human needs met so they can come to school and learn. At our Bridges campuses in Madras and Warm Springs, we create a safe space where we can meet them where they are and help them build from there.”

Smith said the students are learning to work together in a respectful, supportive environment.

“I think I’m doing so much better than I was at Madras High School,” said Rosie Benitez, grade 10. “I’m caught up, I turn everything in and I’m getting really good grades thanks to the teachers.”

This first year, more than 37 students from Madras and Warm Springs successfully graduated and Smith expects that number to climb as the program grows.

“As we begin working with more sophomores and juniors, we’ll be able to support them so they don’t fall so far behind,” said Smith. “They will also learn how they learn best and that will make a big impact on their confidence and success.”

Madras High School Vice Principal HD Weddell has been a close partner with the BCTHS team, helping to identify students early and get them the support they need.

“They really help you and they care,” said Bridges 10th grader Richayla Elliot. “I feel more comfortable and I don’t feel dumb.”

Smith said the Bridges team has enjoyed watching the students grow.

Rosie Benitez is succeeding at Bridges and plans to attend Phagans Beauty School after she graduates. She wants to open her own salon in the future.

“We’re seeing them become more confident. They are starting to believe they are smart enough to graduate from high school and be successful in careers.”

— Caron Smith, BCTHS Principal

Bridges sophomores get excited about careers

Richayla Elliot is interested in a career as a clinical psychologist.

This month, sophomore students from the new Bridges Career and Technical High School hosted a Career Fair as their final class project. The students dressed to represent the careers that interest them.

Richayla Elliot is interested in a career in clinical psychology. She was inspired by her own experience with anxiety and a counselor who really made a difference in her life.

“I can help other people so they don’t feel so alone because I can relate,” said Elliot. “There is so much about the brain we don’t know and I think it’s so interesting,”

Elliot said that before coming to Bridges, she only had two high school credits and had never really thought about what she wanted to do with her future.

“Now I want to get to my doctorate degree,” she said.

According to BCTHS Principal Caron Smith, the event pulls together the career and core subject work the students have been doing throughout the school year.

“It has been an amazing first year for our new school and this event helped to showcase how the kids are getting excited about the future and graduating from high school,” said Smith.

Warm Springs K8 receives $2.5 million grant

Warm Springs K8 is one of four schools in the Pacific Northwest to receive a $2.5 million grant to increase STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Math) learning for Native American students. The project, called ISTEM, is led by the Washington State University team in partnership with three Pacific Northwest Plateau Tribes, including the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs (Warm Springs Tribe), the Confederated Tribes of the Colville Reservation (Colville Tribe), and the Coeur D’Alene Tribe.

According to WSU research lead and associate professor Paula Groves Price the “I” in ISTEM stands for Indigenous, integrated, iPads and technology, internet, imagination and innovation.

ISTEM entwines tribal knowledge, culture, language and land with western science.

Students at WSK8 learn science and get ready for the solar eclipse by testing a mini-satellite payload.

TERO conference returns to KNT

The Warm Springs Tribal Employment Rights Office, Kah-Nee-Ta and the Confederated Tribes are planning for the 2017 Council for Employment Rights National TERO Conference.

The conference this July 31-August 3 will be Kah-Nee-Ta Resort—on the Fortieth Anniversary of the first national TERO conference, also held at Kah-Nee-Ta.

This is all good timing, as Warm Springs now has its own TERO.

Tribes to host UAS symposium

Warm Springs Ventures and Kah-Nee-Nee-Resort this summer will host a symposium of the Association of Unmanned Vehicle Systems International.

The symposium—called Drones, Droids and Unmanned Systems—will be in September at the resort, hosted by the AUVSI Cascade Chapter, Kah-Nee-Ta, the Ventures UAS program and the Confederated Tribes.

Details are still coming together for the event, but AUVSI plans on hosting training and UAS demos, outstanding presentations by regional and national unmanned systems and robotics experts, as well as great networking.

This will be the second time the resort has hosted the AUVSI Cascade chapter, the first time being in the fall of 2014, when over 150 participants enjoyed the hospitality and great venue features of Kah-Nee-Ta.

The 2017 symposium could see the completion of the Ventures UAS Center for Excellence Training Center at the resort. The three-day symposium will be in late September.
