Walls going up at Plateau Travel Plaza

The tribes’ carbon sequestration project, through Ventures and GeoVisions, is moving into a final phase. The concluding process involves detailed third-party verification, registration, and then sale of the credits. The carbon credits will be sold to a company operating in California, where clean air law requires a company operating in California to purchase credits to a company operating in California to secure a 100-percent refund on the money that they paid to buy those credits. That’s how it works, said Donell Frank, tribal engineer.

At the outset some time was needed to clarify various legal aspects, as this will be a unique project among tribes in Oregon. Ventures and tribes worked with the state legislature and governor to create a compact. This allows the sale of reservation-grown carbon credits.

Most recently Ventures was able to secure a 100-percent refund on the Oregon cannabis tax, which normally is 17 percent. “We want to thank Senator Ted Ferrioli for his work on behalf of the tribes,” Mr. Sampson said. “This year the obstacle to getting CP Enterprise in operation has been funding. Ventures looked at pursuing with an outside company in order to build the facility and begin operation. But the terms have been unfavorable to the tribes.”

Self-funding would be the much more profitable approach, Mr. Sampson said. “The idea is to invest and create the economic engine now,” he said.

Through self-funding, the tribes would pay no interest to any outside source, and the tribes would have 100-percent ownership. This approach accomplishes the mandate of the December 2015 referendum, Mr. Sampson said. “To reach the goal, a part of the carbon sequestration revenue would be invested in CP Enterprise, an economic development project. This would be paid back once the enterprise begins to generate revenue. Ventures is planning a meeting with the membership to discuss the idea, as the process involves a supplemental budget. I appreciate the community’s patience with this project,” Mr. Sampson said. “We now have a potential for huge revenue to the tribes. We would be in the ideal situation through self-funding. Let’s get it built and keep the money at home.”

Membership meeting coming up on CP Enterprise financing

The project ties into another Ventures project, the cannabis project, or CP Enterprise. The membership approved this enterprise a year and a half ago.

At the outset some time was needed to clarify various legal aspects, as this will be a unique project among tribes in Oregon. Ventures and tribes worked with the state legislature and governor to create a compact. This allows the sale of reservation-grown carbon credits off the reservation.

Most recently Ventures was able to secure a 100-percent refund on the Oregon cannabis tax, which normally is 17 percent. “We want to thank Senator Ted Ferrioli for his work on behalf of the tribes,” Mr. Sampson said. “This year the obstacle to getting CP Enterprise in operation has been funding. KNT weighs future options

When it first opened in the 1970s, Kah-Nee-Ta was the premier resort in the region. “The playing field has changed significantly since then,” said Jim Manion, Kah-Nee-Ta board member. “Now we have to find new niches—to make this a unique experience—and become competitive again.”

Part of the solution may involve the landscape around the resort. As an example: Mountain biking is a popular sport, and a fast-growing one. The tribes could form a partnership with an outside group, and market Kah-Nee-Ta to mountain bikers.

The board has been talking with a group about this idea, and is now seeking input from the membership. Using the unique surrounding, and having a minimum impact on the landscape, an approach that makes this a promising idea, Mr. Manion said.

Kah-Nee-Ta is popular in the late spring, summer and early fall. A goal of the board and management is to bring people in during the slower months. “We have to broaden the use to make the resort competitive,” he said.

Kah-Nee-Ta last year had to borrow from the tribes in order to maintain operation. This is not a sustainable option. Bringing in a partner to help upgrade the facilities is another approach the board is taking. A partner could invest in the kind of improvements that now are not affordable.

Meanwhile, the resort has taken green-building measures, but this can only go so far. At some point there is an impact to the quality of service. “And once you impact service you impact the guests’ experiences,” Mr. Manion said.

Russell Graham is the new Registered Sanitarian for the Confederated Tribes. He returns home after a career that has taken him around the U.S. and the world. Mr. Graham takes over as the new tribal Sanitarian from long-time friend Nancy Collins. The Indian Health Services clinic for Warm Springs saw the last week to Ms. Collins, who retired following her long tenure with the tribes.

The Sanitarian is an environmental health professional, overseeing matters of public well being. Mr. Graham most recently worked with Amtrak Public Health in California. He has been a Sanitarian for 18 years, working over the years with several tribes including the Yakama Nation, Burns Paiute and others.

Living and working in many regions, he always thought one day of returning to Warm Springs. And this week he is moving into his new office at the clinic.

Declarated season

From the Branch of Natural Resources: The Warm Springs Reservation is now in declared fire season. All regulations governing any timber industry or other outdoor activities will be enforced. As fire risk rises, more strict regulations will be implemented.

During the declared season the restrictions will follow the regulations established by the National Fire Danger Rating system, Inland Fire Precaution Levels, and Warm Springs mobilization and dispatch plan. For details on restrictions call Natural Resources, 541-553-2001.

Columbia commercial fisheries

The commercial salmon Gillnet season is open until 6 p.m. this Thursday, July 6. The open area is all of Zones 6. Allowed gear is gillnets or driftnets with a minimum mesh size of 7 inches. Allowed sales are salmon, red herring, hake, walleye, eulachon and yellow perch. These fish may be sold or kept for subsistence use. Legal-size sturgeon are between 63 and 84 inches fork length in The Dalles and John Day pools, and between 38 and 54 inches fork length in the Bonneville Pool. Those may be kept for subsistence use only.

Standard river mouth and dam closed areas applicable to gillnets are in effect for the Sprague River, The Dalles Dam, Rowena Dam and Fish Hatchery sanctuary.

Fishes may be sold after the period ends if caught during the open period.

From Warm Springs Nation Boxing

Pi-Ume-Sha Treaty Days Boxing: What a fight! Which one? They were all good, close, hard-fought matches in their first rounds, but many went the distance.

Our curtain raiser came right after the introductions. Thank you for standing up for us and singing the USA National Anthem. Destiny Wewa has a beautiful voice. I also want to thank the ringcard official for their perfect work: Timekeeper Alvis W. Smith III, the bell ringer Aaron Winishut, and the three judges Bobby Eagleheart, Bob Rabbi and Bill Cochran. And thank you Donnie Johnson for the PA system.

Can’t ring the bell without the first responders present: Thank you Fire and Safety for making sure.

The curtain raiser was a draw: No one won the match between two 48-pound boxers, the 5- and 6-year-olds. So they both got their arms raised to victory.

Thank you Tim Wainanwit and David Combs for being in them as the third man.

For the 2017 Treaty Days Boxing 6-year arm wrestling, donated by Foster Kalama: Thank you Foster for such a great creation. Also, I know the fans will remember the music that came from your flute, the people love you.

Warm Springs Power and Water Enterprises and the Family Resource Center: We thank you for the financial donations.

Until 2018 we pray to our Creator through our Washut as we are heard in hope, faith and love. We are blessed to be human.

Austin Smith Sr., Warm Springs Nation Boxing.

1855 Pi-Ume-Sha Treaty Days 2017 Boxing results:

New route to Upper Warm Springs River

As our service is to protect and enhance cultural and natural resources for tribal members and en-joyment, the Branch of Tribal Resources will be re-taking access to the Upper Warm Springs River area by eliminating portions of the W-240 and the W-246 roads that are directly next to the river.

Traffic will be rerouted around the project area using the following direction:
- Northern access to the W-

200 road for 4.2 miles.
- Turn west and stand on the W-200 for 4.2 miles.
- The black-out on the W-240/5-60 roads for 4 miles.
- Alternatively, access is also maintained through the B-180 road that is reaching from the south.

The new rerouted will be marked with danger signs.

This will be a permanent reroute of three portions of the W-240 and W-246 road will be permanently rerouted.

Why is this being done?

This project will protect and enhance some of the most productive habitat for multiple watershed and upland species.

The BIA placed these roads through vital wildlife migration corridors and opportunity to escape from critical salmon-hosting streams.

By permanently removing the road from this sentitive area we hope to help the longevity of vital species to the Warm Springs community.

Moreover, many of the water crossings of the existing road have blocked fish passage for over 60 years.

Questions, answers about computer virus attack

What can I do if I think my computer is infected with NotPetya?

If you suspect you have this virus, the best thing is to remove it from the computer and pull the power cord out. Then reboot the computer, all information including the ability to get into the computer is lost.

Should I pay the ransom?
