Timber Co. to continue beyond 2017

Tribal Council voted last week to continue the Warm Springs Timber Co. beyond the current year.

Council early this year approved the enterprise to operate through 2017. The vote last week allows the company to continue as long as the Council sees positive results from the operation.

The matter came up last week because Council and staff are beginning work on the 2018 tribal budget. The upcoming budget process will be a difficult one, said Councilman Jody Calica, "and this issue needs to be resolved."

The sale of reservation timber is the source of funding for the Senior Pension fund and per capita. There is also a debt from the company to the tribes of more than $400,000. Continuing the operation is the only means of paying this back. The debt came about in 2016, as start-up costs for the new company.

The annual allowable cut on the reservation is 25 million board feet per year. This is the lowest it's been in for some time. The mill required a higher volume, and for a few years the cut was extended to meet this requirement.

The WSFPI mill was the sole buyers of reservation timber for more than 50 years.

When the mill closed permanently last year, Tribal Council created the Warm Springs Timber LLC. The company is wholly-owned by the tribes, and has the exclusive right to purchase reservation timber.

Academy classes start soon

Classes at the Warm Springs Academy begin in less than two weeks. There will be four days of classes during the week before the eclipse, August 14-17. Classes will then resume Wednesday through Friday after the eclipse, August 23-25.

The Warm Springs Back to School Barbecue will be on Thursday, August 31, from 4-6 p.m. at the Academy.

The Summer Bridge program for ninth-graders starting at the high school begins next week. The first day of school for all classes at the high school will be on the Wednesday after Labor Day. In other school district news:

School officials have found a prospective candidate to take over the JROTC program. There had been concern that the program may be discontinued, as the candidate earlier identified had withdrawn.

The situation now looks promising, though there is still the hiring process through the U.S. Army, said district superintendent Ken Parshall.

National TERO convention at Kah-Nee-Ta

Kah-Nee-Ta Resort, the Confederated Tribes and the Warm Springs TERO this week are hosting the 2017 National TERO convention.

Tribal TERO officials were on hand from many tribes, including Blackfeet, Colville, Umatilla, Hoopa Valley, Makah, Navajo, Nez Perce, Northern Cheyenne, Quechan, Seminole, Tohono and Yakama.

The national TERO convention began 40 years ago, with the first convention held at Kah-Nee-Ta.

The convention returns to the reservation as the Warm Springs TERO is now established. For this reason the theme of convention was 'Back Where It All Began.'

The 2017 event started on Sunday with golf at the resort. The convention concludes this Thursday, August 3.

A keynote speaker was Brian Cladoosby, president of the National Congress of the American Indian. The co-founders of the Council for Tribal Employment Rights, and the current CTER general counsel were also among the speakers.

The Warm Springs TERO (Tribal Employment Rights Office) is located at the offices of Warm Springs Ventures at the industrial park next to the Telecom.

For information on services provided at TERO, you can reach them at 541-553-3565.

Tribes prepare as eclipse is fast approaching

The total solar eclipse will be a once in a lifetime experience for most people.

For this reason tens of thousands of people will be arriving in the area the weekend before and on Monday, August 21.

The Native Sol Solar Fest, the NASA balloon launch and other science activities at the Academy are part of the festivities. Indian Head Casino and the Museum at Warm Springs are planning special events for the occasion.

With the influx of visitors comes concern for public safety, including fire safety, roadway access, and possible trespass on restricted areas of the reservation.

The tribes' planning team met this week at Fire Management, discussing the precautions that the tribes can take in preparation for the eclipse.

On hand were tribal management, Warm Springs Fire and Safety, Fire Management, the Police Department, BIA, and the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office. (Look in the August 16 Spilyay for details on the public safety plans for the reservation.)

Meanwhile, here is the latest list of local activities that are planned for the eclipse weekend and day-of, as prepared by Chief Operations Officer Alyssa Macy:

Some key events in W.S.

Indian Head Casino's exclusive Native American entertainment experience will feature local, regional and national Native American music.

Kelly Jackson and her band bring the Native Americana sounds to the stage at 8 p.m. on Saturday, August 19.

Arlie Neskahi and Eagle's Jump combine Native vocals and flute playing for a unique sound. This show starts at 8 p.m. on Sunday, August 20.

Charles Littleleaf, renowned flutist and Warm Springs tribal member, rounds out the musical experience on the day of the eclipse. His show starts at 3 p.m.

For more information on these and other features at the casino go to: indianheadcasino.com/solar-eclipse/

At the museum

The Museum at Warm Springs Artists Village will be on the Saturday and Sunday before the eclipse.

The Artists Village will offer visitors a glimpse into the tribes' living history, as members demonstrate family heirlooms, regalia, artwork and basketry.

The museum and Artists Village will be open on the Saturday and Sunday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The traditional dance performances will be daily at noon.

The museum will also be open on eclipse Monday from noon to 5 p.m. For more info: museumatwarmsprings.org

Native Sol

The Native Sol Solar Fest will be Saturday through Monday, August 19-21, at the field by the Family Resource Center and Behavioral Health Center, 1115 Wasco Street.

Native Aspirations and the Health and Human Services Branch are hosts.

Eclipse: much happening around community

The Native Sol fest includes local vendors, tribal dance exhibitions, family games and prizes, and a pow-wow. Vendors will open at 9 a.m. daily, with tribal dance exhibitions on Saturday and Sunday starting at 1 p.m.

This festival also features musical performances by nationally recognized artists including Blue Flamez on Saturday, and Kelly Jackson Sunday, starting both days at 5:30 p.m.

On August 21 the Native Sol festival will host a pow-wow starting at 11 a.m.

At the Academy

The Warm Springs Academy will host the Planetarium and Student Robotics Competition on Sunday, August 20.

Tribal youth are invited to join the Northwestern Earth and Sciences Pipeline for the planetarium and robotics competition. This will be on Sunday from 3 to 5 p.m. The Confederated Tribes and the Academy are co-hosts

For more info: <http://bit.ly/2wclvRo>

The Academy will also host a star gazing party that Sunday. This will be from 10 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the school football field.

NASA will conduct a high-altitude balloon launch from the Academy on the morning of the eclipse.

Eclipse viewing

Solar eclipse viewing at the Academy will be from 9 to 11:30 a.m. at the football field.

Event organizers will provide free solar eclipse glasses, solar eclipse viewing telescopes, opportunities to take a photo of the Sun, potential live streaming from balloon flights and opportunities to explore the solar system.

Experts will be on site to answer questions.

The balloons will ascend to the edge of outer space. Equipped with cameras, they will be able to photograph the event, relaying the pictures back to the team on the ground.

NASA will then try to retrieve the balloons when they come back to earth.

Jamboree with Recreation

Warm Springs Recreation will host a Super Hero theme jamboree next week.

The jamboree will be on from 2 to 8 p.m. on Wednesday, August 9 at the Pi-Ume-Sha fields.

There will be special performances by the Dragon Theatre Show. There will be blow-up castles from 2-6 p.m., face painting, balloon figures and games from 4-6 p.m.

The Flying Eagle Band will perform from 5-7. Scott ‘Blue Flamez’ Kalama will host a talent show at 7 p.m. Bring your lawn chair and wear your favorite super hero tee!

Eclipse exhibit opening at gallery

Art Adventure Gallery in Madras will open a new exhibit, the 2017 Solar Eclipse Epicenter Exhibit, this Thursday, August 3. The opening reception will be from 5:30

Helping Lacey

Hello, I am planning a fundraiser to help Lacey Miller. She had a stem cell transplant to treat her MS. She has had great success since her transplant, and I would say it was the miracle treatment she desperately needed. However, she has follow up appointments in Chicago she must attend to learn exactly how successful it was, and determine where she goes from here. As you can imagine insurance has been a challenge for her, and even though they did approve this treatment they have now informed her that her former doctor is no longer in network, forcing her to pay out of pocket for her already scheduled appointment in later this month. She has filed the necessary appeals but those things never happen quickly. This has left her trying to figure out how to pay the required

20 percent up front for the MRI. Even if insurance has a change of heart this process has been extremely costly, as it was only being offered in Chicago as part of a trial study. Lacey is a mother of a young child and works as a juvenile probation officer for Jefferson County. She's a very hard worker and cares deeply for the kids she works with. There will be a fundraiser this Saturday, August 5, beginning with a 5 or 10k run/walk, breakfast at 8:30, silent auction and Left Right Center Tournament at 10. This will be at the Mt. Jefferson RAPA Range, 2209 NW Clackamas Drive in Madras. Donation of $35 Sign up at: Eventbrite.com First 50 people to sign up, will receive a free Team Lacey t-shirt! Breakfast: Donation $10. Silent Auction. Left-Right-Center Tournament: Buy-in $20. Lyndsay Hessel

The many healthy benefits of reading for young people

by Craig Graham
W.S. Library director

Parents want the best for their children, and a great way to help your child is to encourage him or her to read. Reading to your child can gift them with a higher ability for learning in general. And they are more likely to do well in school. After all, if a student is struggling to put together words and sentences, how can they be expected to learn the math, science and social concepts they'll be expected to learn when they begin elementary school? A love of reading can slash stress levels, encourages positive thinking, and improves basic speech skills. Reading improves thinking and concentration. Snuggling up with a book lets you and your busy child slow down and recapture that sweet cuddly time when they were a baby, not as a chore but a nurturing activity that will bring you closer together. Many benefits Here are some more positive benefits: Researchers estimate that we learn 5 to 15 percent of all the words we know are through reading. This is particularly important for children, whose vocabulary size is directly and dramatically related to the books they read. Reading improves concentration and discipline: Along with reading comprehension comes a stronger self-discipline, longer attention span, and better memory retention, all of which will help your child when they enter school. Reading improves empathy: Getting wrapped up in the lives of characters strengthens your ability to understand others' feelings, and strengthens friendships and a sense of belonging. Reading encourages life goals: Reading about someone who overcame obstacles may motivate you to meet your own goals. The more you identify with a character and experience the events as if they were happening to you, the more likely you'll be to take positive action. Reading can melt away stress and brighten your day, keeping your brain young. Another recent study found that older adults who regularly read or play mentally challenging games like chess or puzzles are two and a half times less likely to develop Alzheimer's disease.

Reading is fun and can help you save cash. Kids who are exposed to reading are much more likely to choose books over video games, television and other forms of entertainment as they grow older. The average novel costs between $8 and $15 (paperback) and takes about six hours to read. Compare that to going to see a few movies, spending a day at an amusement park or eating a few meals out. Reading is a much more cost-effective splurge for your entertainment dollars. And free from your local Library! Books have the power to benefit children in many ways. As a parent, reading to your children is one of the most important things you can do to prepare them with a foundation for academic excellence.

Important Notice to Tribal Member Hunters

To the hunters in the listed:

Every tribal member hunter who was issued a 2016 deer, elk, cougar, bear, pronghorn or specialty tag needs to complete required information for the Branch of Natural Resources. If you forgot to provide this information, it is important to do so:

Any hunter who fails to report 2016 deer and elk, will not be able to be issued any 2017 season tags, and hunting and fishing rights may be suspended by the Fish and Wildlife Committee.

By completing the mandatory hunter report, you are providing key pieces of information that biologists will use in their game management actions.

Biologists look at harvest, hunting pressure, and the number of people who got a tag but didn’t hunt when they set regulations. This data helps biologists identify key management objectives when setting season dates and tag allocation for specific units and areas.

Your report supports the agency’s goal to sustain the cultural, subsistence, and recreational needs of tribal members in perpetuity.

Additionally, penalties for not reporting are being considered by Branch of Natural Resources and the Fish and Wildlife Committee. This may include paying for tags if reporting standards are not met.

Ways to report

- There are a number of ways to report this essential information:
1. Completely fill out the bottom section of the tag issued to you, even if you didn’t hunt or weren’t successful: Information from hunters who did not hunt or did not harvest an animal is as important as from those who did take an animal. Bring the completed tag to Natural Resources.
 2. Call 541-553-2002 and speak with a Branch of Natural Resources secretary or Wildlife Department staff member who will take your information.
 3. In person reporting can be made at the Branch of Natural Resources office.
 4. You can mail in tags to: Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Branch of Natural Resources: Wildlife Dept. P.O. BOX C, Warm Springs, OR 97761.

CRITFC welcomes new chairman

Nez Perce leader Casey Mitchell is the chairman of the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission.

Mr. Mitchell was elected to the position by his peers from the Warm Springs, Yakama, Nez Perce, and Umatilla tribes.

At 38, he is one of the youngest individuals ever to chair the four-tribe commission. He assumes the position from Leland Bill, a Tribal Council member from the Yakama Nation.

Mr. Mitchell is the Secretary of the Nez Perce Tribal Executive Committee, the tribe’s governing body.

He has spent the past twenty years serving his tribe and community, focusing his efforts on tribal treaty rights and natural resources issues.

He received a Bachelor’s degree in Environmental Science from Northwest Indian College in Bellingham, Wash., afterward teaching Ecology there.

He then returned to the Nez Perce Reservation, working for the tribe’s fisheries program as a biologist in the Watershed, Harvest, and Production divisions, specifically working on fisheries management issues throughout the Columbia River Basin.

“Indian Country is looking at some challenging times ahead,” Mr. Mitchell said

“But let us not be afraid. As a united front we are strong, confident, and ready to uphold our inherent sovereignty and tribal treaty rights. Through the common ground that we all share, we will work to protect the rights that we were given, and to preserve the land, water, and resources for everyone in the region.”

Jaime A. Pinkham, CRITFC executive director, welcomes the new chairman. “CRITFC is thankful for the leadership of the Yakama Nation over the past year,” Mr. Pinkham said.

“The tribes have waded into key battles against reckless coal and oil transportation projects, and secured important advancements of housing for tribal members living along the Columbia River, to name a few.”

Retiring CRITFC chairman Leland Bill commented:

“As tribal leaders we come together to restore fisheries populations throughout the Columbia River system, and to educate others about the tribes and our work.

“It has been a tremendous honor to serve the commission and the four treaty tribes. The commission is in great hands with Chairman Mitchell, and I look forward to working with him as the four tribes continue our fight for tribal sovereignty, tribal treaty rights, and the fish populations that sustain our communities.”

The other CRITFC officers elected are Ryan Smith of Warm Springs, vice-chairman; Jeremy Red Star Wolf, Umatilla, secretary; and Leland Bill, Yakama, treasurer.

The election of CRITFC officers takes place every June with the seats rotated among the four member tribes beginning in July.

Information on CRITFC and its newly elected officials are available online at www.critfc.org

CRITFC, based in Portland, is the technical support and coordinating agency for fishery management policies of four treaty tribes in the Columbia River Basin.

A conversation about diabetes

(The following is a conversation with Montell Elliott, Diabetes Coordinator at the clinic, provided by the Warm Springs Model Diabetes program.)

Question: How long have you worked in Warm Springs and with the Diabetes Management team?

Answer: I have been at Warm Springs Health and Wellness Center for 23 years, diabetes prevention 13 and diabetes program just over a year.

Question: What motivated you to join the Diabetes Program?

Answer: I have enjoyed working with people with pre-diabetes, and learned that what we all want is to prevent the complications of diabetes.

If your blood sugar is high, then it causes the bad things that we call complications, like amputations, eye sight problems or nerve pain.

Even if you are considered to have ‘normal’ blood sugar now, we are all at greater risk of getting diabetes by being Native American, and most of us have family with diabetes. (If you are curious, I am Alaska Native and a member of the Tlinget and Haida Tribe.)

I actually joined the Diabetes Prevention Program partially to learn how to prevent diabetes for myself. I had gestational diabetes while I was pregnant and had to take insulin. The program has helped me prevent diabetes so far in my own life.

In my job, I have also found enjoyment in being an administrator. I enjoy working with employees toward goals of making better programs for patient care. I have been the acting Diabetes Coordinator since February 2016 and the Diabetes Prevention Coordinator for about six years.

Before that I was the recruitment coordinator for the Diabetes Prevention Program. My role as diabetes coordinator is now official and I am part of the executive team at Warm Springs Health and Wellness Center.

In my time off I enjoy being with my family. I am also a Netflix addict and enjoy reading.

Question: What do you think is most important for patients to do for their own health?

Answer: Admit to yourself when something is not right in your body and seek help. Denial is a sneaky thing, and until you admit you have a problem, you cannot do anything about it.

Question: What is your favorite part of your job?

My favorite part of my job is health coaching because I really like to work with people one on one to make a plan towards health.

Question: Why do you think management of diabetes is important?

If you can manage your diabetes then you can live longer, healthier and happier. I think that is what we all want.

A celestial legend as we prepare for the solar eclipse

Evaline Patt came across this story in Celilo Tales, Wasco Myths, Legends, Tales of Magic and the Marvelous by Donald M. Hines. The myth is celestial in theme, reminding Evaline of the solar eclipse coming soon. Here we share ‘The Myth of the Great Bear’:

There were five persons, five brothers. They were the Wolves. They ran all over the country, every day hunting. Coyote watched them all the time. He ate with them, ate what they brought from their hunting: deer meat, elk, all kinds of meat.

Every evening the Wolves talked about seeing something in the sky. One evening Coyote asked the oldest Wolf brother, “What do you talk about? What is it you see in the sky?” The Wolf would not tell. The old Wolf was sly, always afraid. Wise with years, the old wolf of today is hard to trap.

The next evening Coyote asked the next oldest Wolf brother the same question. The Wolf would not answer him.

The next evening Coyote asked the third oldest Wolf what it was that they talked about, what it was they saw in the sky. The Wolf would not tell him.

The next evening the Coyote asked the fourth Wolf brother the same question. The fourth Wolf said to Coyote, “Maybe if I tell you, you would tell my brothers. They would be mad at me.”

One morning the five brothers all got together. The fourth Wolf spoke, “Coyote asked me what we are talking about, what it is that we see in the sky. I said to Coyote, ‘Maybe if I tell you, you will tell my brothers. They would be mad at me.’ What do you think? Are we going to tell him what we see in the sky?”

The Wolves had one little Dog. The youngest Wolf said, “We will go tell Coyote what he asks about. We can do nothing with them. They are way up in the sky, those two things. What do you think, my brothers? Will we tell Coyote?”

The brothers answered, “Yes! We will tell Coyote all about it.” The Wolves were all satisfied to tell Coyote.

One day Coyote came in and they said, “We saw two animals in the sky. We do not know how we can get at them. They are away up high.”

Coyote said, “All right! We will go see! We will go up and see.”

The youngest Wolf asked, “How will we go up?”

Coyote answered him, “It is well. I will show you how we can go up without trouble.”

It was the middle of wintertime. Coyote got five quivers filled with arrows. He shot one arrow towards the sky. The arrow struck the sky, stuck there. Coyote shot a second arrow. It stuck the end of the first arrow, struck the end and held fast. Coyote shot all of his arrows. They reached the ground, a shaft from the sky to the earth.

Coyote had cut rings (spirals) around the arrow shafts so he and the Wolves could hold tightly with their hands. The oldest Wolf always carried the Dog. There were no stars in the sky at the time.

The next sun they all went up the arrow-way. Coyote went first, followed by the five brother Wolves. Many suns, many nights they climbed. They all arrived at the sky, reached there safely. They saw these two animals plainly. They were Grizzly Bears! Coyote said to the Wolves, “No one go near them! They will tear you to pieces.”

The two youngest Wolves went up close. They were not afraid. The two next youngest Wolves followed. Oldest Wolf stayed behind with the Dog. He was always behind, always careful, always afraid.

The youngest went up closer. The Grizzlies did not get mad at them. They all stood there just like a good show.

Coyote stood back. He looked at them. All was a picture to him. Coyote smiled. He walked about looking. He was thinking about it, thinking what he would do. He thought, “I am going to picture this for the different people who are to come. They will look at it. They will think, ‘There is a story about it.’”

Coyote pictured them there. He made they stay there in the sky, five Wolves and a Dog. The two Grizzly Bears had always been there.

When Coyote came down, he took the arrows from the sky, took it away. When he had passed the second arrow, he took it off and so on till he came to the ground. The Wolves could not come down. When nighttime came, Coyote went out and looked at the nice picture in the sky. There they were: two Grizzlies, five Wolves and a little Dog.

Coyote said to the bird Whoch-woch, “Maybe I will die! You tell the new people what I have done. Pretty soon there will be many stars growing in the sky. It is my work.”

Whoch-woch got the story from Coyote to tell to us. From this sun, now we know. You see this bird Whoch-woch, when he flies up singing. He is telling you this story, how Coyote pictured the sky. It is good to know the Whoch-woch. From them, the Grizzlies and the Wolves, came the stars, as Coyote pictured them.

Coyote came this way from the sunrise. He traveled a long distance to this country. One night he looked up and saw many young stars. They were pretty thick, all growing rapidly.

In the meantime he had made Whoch-woch to tell it all everywhere, scatter all around the news of what he had done. He asked Whoch-woch, “What is wrong with those stars up there? Too many of them.”

Whoch-woch answered, “Oh! Those are stars growing full in the sky. They are growing fast. If they grow pretty full in the sky, they may fall down. This earth will become all frost.”

Coyote got scared about his work! Coyote took (made up) his mind, “I will go up again! That is my work! I will go up again”

Coyote took his five quivers of arrows. He shot them upwards, making a trail as before. He climbed again to the sky. He rounded up the stars, like war parties in camp, all different places. You see sometimes stars pointed together, maybe squares. That was Coyote’s work. He placed them that way.

The big white road across the sky, Coyote made that trail. Coyote said to the stars, “You must not grow too fast. You must keep together! If you want to go somewhere, fly as the lightening, speed like the light! You do that! Never grow too fast!”

Coyote put up a knife of stars. Watch that! Coyote put up a bunch of stars. Watch them! Sometimes this bunch comes up in the evening over the mountain as trails the sun. These stars give luck when the bow-and-arrow-woods are in bloom. This luck is for gambling, horse racing, or anything you may gain.

Golf fundraiser helps Native sports film

The Forgotten Warriors Fundraising Golf Tournament is this Friday and Saturday, August 4-5 at Chinook Winds Casino Resort in Lincoln City.

The event will help raise money for a documentary film on the importance of sports programs in Native American communities.

The film, Forgotten Warriors, A Decade of Dominance, portrays the 1971-1981 San Pasqual Valley High School football teams, a reservation school that won several state championships in California.

The documentary focuses on inspiring Native youth, encouraging sports programs and understanding the link to positive physical and mental health.
