The Tread of Youth program—organized into two youth groups: the Warm Springs team and NARA students in responsibility, the importance of eating healthy, cleaning up, and road safety. There were less than 20 youth who were able to get the fire going. The goal is to develop a program where youth are able to take responsibility for their presentation at the Tribal Council on the afternoon of January 16.

A little over two years have passed since the membership, by enterprise input. The tribal council has been working on a solution for the cannabis project, which in previous years has been costing the tribes. The latest on this project also goes to Council on January 16.

The information includes Native student academic achievement, involvement in school clubs, sports, etc. The idea is more fully to engage Warm Springs families in district decisions and performance—“to see what we can do about our kids,” said Ken Parshall, superintendent and Academy principal.

Changes downtown in New Year

The Warm Springs Community Action Team has worked with tribal Planning and Management services where the project has progressed. Services to the develop- ment area could be adver- tised along the highway, bringing more attention to the Warm Springs Commis- sion. Planning and Management services is available in the spring of 2019, Mr. Watson said. This will fulfill a goal identified by the tribes sev- eral years ago. The 2018 Down- town Improvement Plan en- visioned just such a use of the site. Showing its support, the Tribal Council in December provided the Community Action Team with a 10-year lease of the structure.

The staff of the Warm Springs Community Action Team executive di- rector Michael Allerton said that the site would be made available to the public. The site is currently being used by the Warm Springs Community Action Team for office space.

Museum celebrating Twenty-Fifth Anniversary

It was March 13, 1993 when the tribes celebrated the opening of the Museum at Warm Springs. The day marked the fulfillment of a vision decades in the making. “Way back in the 1960s, we could see that the old ways were disappearing,” Warm Springs Chief Delvis Heath said at the time. “The old languages were disappearing, and pretty soon none of our young people would know when they came from or who they were. That’s when we decided to build a museum.”

Tribe Council passed resolution 4084—the Museum Project—in 1974. The resolution included the first museum charter, and established the first board, at the time called the Middle Oregon Indian Historical Society. The ensuing years involved the intensive fundraising needed for the ambitious museum project. The board hired the first executive director in 1987, and in 1988 Tribal Council put a referendum before the membership.

The question was whether to appropriate $2.5 million for construction of the Museum at Warm Springs. At the time, the funding was the most ever for a tribal museum. The Museum at Warm Springs was also the first tribal museum in the state of Oregon. After hiring the first executive director, it took only a few short months to raise another $3.1 million from grant foundations, corporations and individuals.

Benefiting from these monies was the construction, education program and an endowment, bringing the total cost of the museum project to $7,628,900. Construction began in the spring of 1991 by SM Andersen Construction Company of Portland. The building designer was Stamm & Barth Architects of Portland. The exhibits were designed by the Formations Co.

From the day of its opening in 1993, the museum has been under the leadership of the board of directors, who created the mission statement, and a Board of Regents. The mission: ‘The Museum At Warm Springs exists to preserve the culture, history and traditions of the three tribes that comprise the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs. The Museum was designed to provide a welcoming sight to the public as well as a safe conservancy for the traditional trappings of the tribes.’

The design

The architects invited tribal members to participate in the designing and integration of any tribal traditions. Elders of each tribe were invited to meetings to give their ideas.

The exterior is arranged to resemble a traditional encampment among the tall reservation trees. The columns are made of stone, timber and brick—reflect the surroundings and traditions of the tribes. There is a stream outside, continuing as a floor trough through the lobby. The columns are made of tall reservation trees.

Christmas play
Happy New Year, friends and neighbors.
I am thanking all of the people who helped me have a beautiful Christmas play. Peace Came in a Cradle was on December 13 at the Community Center. And thank you to all the families who brought their children to perform for you.
I’d like to thank one person in particular, and that is the Lord. The Lord has blessed me full of heart. Thank you Dennis Thompson. Also thank you to the narrators and singers, narrator for our forest, the ca-sino, Indian Power and Water Enterprises, and to Tribal Council.
All that was donated helped those who attended the play to receive a gift from Santa.

Love and Prayers,
Roma Carney

Note from Prevention
With the start of the new year, Oregon is now enforcing a law that raises the re-quired age to buy tobacco products to 21 years of age. Goo-Ken Brown signed SB 774, known as Tobacco 21, in August. Enforcement and fines begin January 1. Oregon is the fifth state to increase the legal age to purchase tobacco, after California, Hawaii, Maine and New Jer-sy.
Under the new law, retailated tobacco products, such as tobacco products or inhalant delivery systems, such as a pipe or vaporizing device, to people younger than 21. Vioations of the law are punishable by a fine of $50 for each offense, in addition to any other fines, such as court costs, more managers, and $500 for store owners. For managers and owners, the fines double by the third offense.
If you know or suspect anyone in Oregon mad to quit tobacco, call Warm Springs Prevention Program in Infor-
, 541-533-2305, or 541-615-0036.

tion Prevention Initiative (FHPAP).

For the pets
The Band Spay and Neuter Project will return in 2018 to the Warm Springs Reserveation, offering the free services to pet owners.

Traffic to receive a gift from the Warm Springs Region will return in 2018 to the Warm Springs Reservation program. The first clinic of 2018 will be on March 4, and will continue the first Sunday of every month through the year.
The important challenge facing the program: finding a new location to service in the Warm Springs. If you have a suggestion, please call 541-617-1010. Fees service include spay and neuter, vaccination for rabies and parvo, and adoption.

The Warm Springs service of the Band Spay and Neuter Program is made possible by an endowment from a woman who lived on the reservation many years ago, when her husband worked at a doctor’s office. The woman learned more about benefac-tory (HAPPI).

National Honor Society Congratulations to Jazlyn Allen for making the National Honor Society, a straight A student.
We are proud of you, from grandma Loray, Loray, and all the family in Warm Springs.

Emergency alerts
The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs offers emergency text messages to communicate information to community members, and to tribal employees. These messages, closures and other impacts are delayed in a text message that will sign-up to receive the messages. Visit the link: ’CTWSOAlerts’ in the Warm Springs Centennial Community Calendar on the KWSO website.
You’ll need to provide your name, cell phone number, service provider and an email address. Must not have a phone that will work for the emergency messages.

Energy for the Healt of It...
Start off the New year by focusing on good health habits—Eating right doesn’t have to be complicated. Healthy eating includes a variety of fruits and veg-teals, lean proteins, whole grains, and low-fat dairy. If you are overweight, work toward losing 5-7 percent of your weight. This will significantly reduce your health risks.
Get in about 30 minutes of moderate activity every day to assist in weight maintenance and overall health. If you smoke—quit.
Make a priority and shoot for 7-9 hours of that eat every night.
"Looking forward to a great 2018, with Warm Springs artist Travis Bobb.

Oregon voters on January 23 will vote on Measure 101, the Healthcare Insurance Premium Tax to be Voted On. This ballot measure presents a fiscal dilemma for the voters of the state and provides a unique opportunity to the membership of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs.

As stated in the ballot summary: "The aim is to raise additional funds to cover the cost of Oregonians age 21 and older who go uninsured due to affordability, to cover the cost of the state's health system, and to improve health outcomes for Native Americans in Oregon."

I am writing this to you from my new position as the Director of the Jefferson County School District. This is my first attempt at writing a quarterly newsletter. I hope you find this informative.

U.S., Canada negotiating Columbia treaty

The U.S. State Department and the Canadian government are beginning the renegotiation of the Columbia River Treaty. The tribes are a necessary part to the process, as the Treaty of 1855 preserves the tribal interests at the river.

The Columbia River Treaty between the U.S. and Canada was ratified in 1964. The document focuses on flood control and hydroelectric power generation.

It calls for Canada to store water behind four major dams on the river, whose headwaters lie in British Columbia. In return, Canada received electricity generated by U.S. dams, plus funding for flood control.

The treaty has no expiration date, but a provision allows for changes, with 10 years notice, beginning in 2024. In 2014 lawmakers and other stakeholders called for the new talks.

In November, seven members of the Washington and Oregon congressional delegations sent a letter to the Canadian ambassador in Washington, D.C., arguing that the monetary sums are way too high. In the letter, the bipartisan group estimated that Canada receives almost 10 times the benefits that the Northwest receives.
