Water plant to see needed improvements

The BIA has committed $358,000 for repairs at the Warm Springs water treatment plant. "I would say these are critical, needed repairs," said Alyssa Macy, chief operations officer.

Meanwhile, the Indian Health Service and Housing and Urban Development are working with the tribes on a longer term solution to the domestic water system serving the tribal residents and businesses.

Some of the $358,000 from the BIA could be used to purchase one more pump for the treatment plant, said Roy Spino, tribal Utilities water and wastewater engineer.

The plant also needs a better heating, ventilation and cooling system, Mr. Spino said. The HVAC system is needed to keep the electronics at the plant at the proper temperature, he said.

The treatment plant is 30 years old, and the control panels, for instance, date back to the original time of construction. The BIA funding could help with upgrades to the control panel and computer system that operate the plant.

Utilities and tribal Planning are also working on a water meter installation project. Last year they completed a grant-funded engineering report, and now can use the report to seek a grant for the purchase and installation of the meters.

Some neighborhoods—Simnasho, Greeley Heights and Sidwalter, for instance—have water meters, while many homes still do not. The water meters can assist in finding the major leakage spots in the system, relieving some of the burden on the treatment plant.

Speaking with Tribal Council on Monday, Ms. Macy also gave an update on the Children's Protective Services building renovation, and the downtown abandoned building demolition project.

Both are on schedule, and plans are being made for phase 2 of the building removal.

The CPS building will not only see the complete remodel, but will also have new furniture. A goal is to have a type of furniture and the beds that create a home environment for the children, Ms. Macy said.

Pageant this evening

The 2018 Miss Warm Springs Pageant is set for this Wednesday evening, January 31 at the Agency Longhouse.

Dinner will be served at 5, provided by 2017 Miss Warm Springs Katrina Blackwolf.

The community is invited to attend. The candidate this year is Thyreicia Stimustus, 2017 graduate of Madras High School.

She will have a presentation, plus a talent show. The judges will test her knowledge of the tribes.

Thyreicia is also a Lincoln's Birthday Powwow Queen.

For fire fighters

Over the decades, hundreds of tribal members have worked at Fire Management—as fire fighters and camp crews, in fuels reduction, logistics, fire prevention, equipment and vehicles, dispatch and recruitment, administration and staff, etc.

There are 122 people now working at Fire Management. The number changes during the year, increasing in case of a fire event during the season.

For the past few years Luther Clements, now the Fire Management training officer, has been thinking of a way the tribes might recognize the past employees of the department, especially those who have passed on.

So far, he has compiled a list of 64 former Fire Management employees who have since passed away. The recognition could be especially for these individuals, but also for the past and the present employees still with us.

Probably everyone on the reservation has at least one family who at some point worked or now works at Fire Management. And for this reason, the idea of a recognition day could see broad support among the membership.

The idea that Luther came up with is a honor and recognition day starting with a community and Fire Management Grand Entry, perhaps at the Pi-Ume-Sha grounds. The Grand Entry could include banners, or portraits of the loved ones who have worked at Fire Management.

The event could involve many people—current and former employees, family and friends—so a potluck type of setup might be the best way to feed everyone, Luther says. This fall might be the time to hold the first Fire Management recognition day, he said, as the project will involve a lot of planning and organizing.

The Twenty-Fifth Annual Youth Art Show, curated by Natalie Kirk, featured a wall of painted drums, paintings and crafts by students, including an acrylic painting of an eagle by Unique.

The show opened with a performance by Deanie Johnson and her Wasco Dancers, followed by dinner, and a hand-drumming performance in the exhibits gallery. (See more of the show on page 8.)

New management, investors arriving at KNT

The tribes next week will welcome the new Kah-Nee-Ta management and investment team. The company is AV Northwest, with senior partners Tom Hansen and Michael Gaskin.

February 1 is the planned transfer date to AV Northwest, the lease being for a term of 25 years.

At a meeting last year with the Tribal Council, Mr. Hansen and Mr. Gaskin gave some of the details of their plans for the resort and spa.

They are expecting to invest several million dollars into Kah-Nee-Ta, for many needed improvements, plus an expansion at the Village. AV Northwest will also implement a new marketing strategy for the resort.

Some current aspects of Kah-

Courtesy Kah-Nee-Ta

The Village area at Kah-Nee-Ta will feature new services and amenities.

Nee-Ta will remain, for instance the focus on the tribal culture, the member hiring preference, and certain discounts for members.

Some of the planned improvements: A new heating and cooling system, new paint, improvements to the rooms, pools, restaurant and café, to name just a few.

Another interesting part of the plan is a new hydro- and physical therapy center at the Village. The hot springs would be put to use in the treatment of young people who are recovering from muscular and other conditions.

AV Northwest is planning a public meeting in the spring to present their plan.

Tribal Council last year approved the lease agreement with AV Northwest, as recommended by the Kah-Nee-Ta board of directors.

Bringing in an outside investment and management partner was the only way to keep the resort open, as Kah-Nee-Ta for the past few years has been costing the tribes.

Closing the resort would have eliminated up to 180 seasonal jobs.

Tribes hosting fish hatchery co-managers meeting

The Warm Springs National Fish Hatchery will be the focus of a two-day meeting between the tribes and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, co-managers of the facility. This will be the first start-of-the-year summit between the parties since 2011. The hatchery has seen some important changes over the past few years, allowing the facility again to rear the fish on-site. Over the past three years the fish have been taken to a facility at the Gorge, said Mary Bayer, hatchery manager. In 2014 the summer heat required the removal of the fish, as the water temperature reached the mid 70s, while the fish like water about 50 degrees, Ms. Bayer said. The following year the fish were moved in order to allow improvement work on the cooling system at the hatchery; then last year the work involved the electrical system serving the hatchery. The upcoming meeting with U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will be on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 6-

7. Some discussion will happen at Kah-Nee-Ta, with a tour of the hatchery. Roy Elicker, assistant regional director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, will be on hand. Representing the tribes will be the Tribal Council, and Branch of Natural Resources general manager Bobby Brunoe.

Warm Springs homeownership course beginning soon

The 2018 Financial Education Series—Pathways Home: A Native Homeownership Course—is starting soon in Warm Springs.

Heights Community Center. Classes then continue on Tuesday evenings through late March. The Financial Education Series is hosted by the Warm Springs Housing Authority, the Warm Springs Credit Enterprise, and the Warm Springs Community Action Team. To sign up for the course, call 541-553-3148. There is space for about 20 students, with eight signed up so far. The course is required for anyone in the Community Action Team IDA program for home ownership. Subjects include: Financing, purchasing and maintaining a home. Building versus buying. Mortgage loans. Budgeting, plus hands-on practice.

Lincoln’s Birthday Powwow

The Forty-First Annual Lincoln’s Birthday Powwow is coming up the weekend of February 9-11 at the Simnasho Longhouse. Campus ‘old clubhouse’ comes down

Dave McMechan/Spilyay

The campus building removal project is approaching the final phase. The 3 Kings Co. demolished the largest single building among the eight sites—the old clubhouse—in late January. Early to mid February is the timeline for completion.

CRITFC celebrates permit denial

Washington Gov. Jay Inslee this week rejected a permit for a massive oil-by-rail terminal proposed along the Columbia River in southwest Washington state. Gov. Inslee said he agrees with the recommendation of a state energy panel, which in December voted to deny the application of the Vancouver Energy project. The joint venture of Tesoro Corp. and Savage Companies proposed to receive about 360,000 barrels of North American crude oil a day by trains at the port of Vancouver. The oil would be loaded onto tankers and ships for transport to oil refineries up and down the West Coast. “The Governor’s decision shows that the health of the Columbia River and the safety of its citizens matters most,” said Jaime Pinkham, executive director of teh Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission. “The denial of Vancouver Energy’s permit to build the largest oil-by-rail terminal in the nation is a decision that we all celebrate.” Throughout the application process, CRITFC and its member tribes, including Warm Springs, vigorously asserted the interests of the Columbia River and those who depend on it.

Cannabis summit at Portland

U.S. Attorney Bill Williams, District of Oregon, will host an interagency cannabis summit this Friday, February 2. The tribes were specifically invited to the meeting, and a representative from Council will attend. Gov. Kate Brown will also be on hand. U.S. Attorney General Jeff Sessions in early January rescinded earlier memoranda, from the previous administration, that had been guidance for U.S. Attorneys in states that have legalized marijuana. The earlier memoranda had given assurance that federal law enforcement in states with legalized marijuana would focus only on specific areas: organized crime, distribution to a minor, unlawful sale, crossing state lines, for instance. The rescision of these guidelines create some confusion for states such as Oregon. The meeting this Friday will be a chance for U.S. Attorney Williams to share his enforcement strategy with interested parties, in light of the new federal policy.

Important message from Sanitation, Landfill

Warm Springs Sanitation and Landfill will continue to provide trash pickup for all residents; however, we must limit the 96-gallon totes to one per household.

We are running low on totes and must make changes in order to serve more customers.

If you need to maintain a second tote, please call Russell 541-553-4943.

We will need to start charging for the second tote.

Because of expensive equipment costs, we will no longer be giving out totes for replacement or for new residents. The cost of the totes has increased substantially.

We also have variances and special allowances on a case-by-case basis. Again, call Russell at 541-553-4943 for more information.

Tires and hazardous materials

Recently, many of our tribal landfill transfer stations have been receiving increased quantities of tires and hazardous materials such as motor oil and hydraulic fluid.

Courtesy Sanitation/Landfill

Oil and hazardous materials at the landfill.

The landfill transfer stations and the main landfill cannot accept this volume of hazardous waste.

Tires cannot be left at the transfer stations, and must be taken to the commercial entrance to be disposed.

There is a cost for the weight of tires to be disposed. The Confederated Tribes must pay an outside disposal company to handle tires, and the price to dispose of tires has increased. We also suspect some people from the outside are using our landfill transfer stations. If you see something, please call Russell at 541-553-4943, or call the Warm Springs Police Department.

Letters to the editor

Fire fighters

To the community and tribal membership of Warm Springs,

I would like to get the word out into our community that I am gathering input from family, friends and relatives to have a day of remembrance for any individual that has worked in the Fire Management Department and has passed on.

So far I accumulated 64 names, I will not list them out of respect. My intent is to recognize and pay tribute to these individuals and their families.

This is going to take some time and organizing, but I feel it is important to have a gathering as such. My thoughts are a Grand Entry with banners or portraits of our loved ones and a potluck type of even with speakers and presentations.

We've all had relatives at one time or another work at Fire Management. We have elders in the community who have supported the fire fighters for a long time, and I would like to make this a successful event for everyone.

Sincerely,
Luther Clements

Getting Started

Central Oregon Community College is offering an upcoming 'Getting Started' presentation in Bend for prospective students:

The session will be at 5 p.m. on Wednesday, February 7 at the Bend campus Boyle Education Center, room 156.

This is an opportunity for prospective students—seeking a degree or to take a few classes—to meet with a COCC admissions representative for guidance through time-sensitive steps for enrollment, federal funding, choosing appropriate courses and the use of academic support services. You can reach them at 541-383-7500.

To our people

Open letter to our people:
En me' n ia' moo ma', my people:

The elders through the leadership of Viola Governor convinced our Tribal Council to approve a bonus for us all. Our parents and young people need to thank her. It made the Holidays something to look forward to and rest from tomorrow's financial worry.

But; What about tomorrow?

Last October 25, 2017, as the District and General Council meetings on the 2018 proposed budget closed, the Elder Council reminded the Tribal Council about their legal reporting requirements in our Constitution and By-Laws. Are they fulfilling this legal, moral and ethical obligation?

Today the moccasin telegraph word on the rez, the Spilyay Tymoo and frequent Facebook personal observations and statements are how we get Tribal Council information, not directly from individual Tribal Council members. Who is leading our government?

What is the Tribal Council report card for 2017? What can we expect in 2018? What is the state of our economic health? Are we paying our bills? Are we credit worthy? Can we expect more TC travel? What and how will this benefit the people? Since the CP Enterprise has no means to fund the project and federal policy has shifted against us; what happens to the project? Did we collect the Highway 26 telecommunications right of lease (million dollars) payment from CenturyLink owed to us? How many jobs will be created this year? What is the TC vision?

Thouu Cush,
Sal Sahme, and Warm Springs Elder Council

Clinic hours

The IHS clinic is open Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

There is no late clinic at this time.

Dietician talks about managing diabetes

Kacey Conyers joined the Warm Springs Diabetes Management Program three and a half years ago. Kacey answered a few questions about her job and experiences so far in Warm Springs:

Question: What motivated you to join the Diabetes Program?

Diabetes has always been of interest to me. It is still on the rise in the U.S. More than 9 percent of Americans have diabetes.

For American Indians and Alaskan Natives, that rate rises to over 15 percent.

I have chosen to specialize in medical nutrition therapy for the area of diabetes, so I can be of the best help to this community.

What is a hobby of yours? What do you enjoy doing in your time off?

In my time off I enjoy hiking, kayaking, cooking, and reading.

Tell us about your work in the Diabetes Management program. What do you think is most important for patients to do for their own health?

I think it's most important for patients to take accountability for their health and the choices they make. We as individuals get to decide what we fuel our bodies with and how much we move; it's important to not let other people stand in our way of being our healthiest selves.

At Council

The Tribal Council agenda for this last day of month, January 31, included these enterprise update items:

Wednesday, January 31

Kacey Conyers, Diabetes Management program.

What is your role or job with the program? What is your favorite part of your job?

I'm a registered Dietitian, so I work with individuals one-on-one for nutrition counseling, and I help them understand what diabetes is and how it's affecting their body.

I also work with them to create realistic nutrition and lifestyle goals they can achieve to better manage their blood sugar and overall health.

In addition, I teach cooking classes and participate in other community events.

I thoroughly enjoy the different aspects of my job, and all the areas of the community I get to be involved with.

I especially love learning from my patients about different traditional dishes they make and hearing their stories.

One of my other favorite things is when my patients get excited about making healthier choices, and get their friends and family involved in becoming healthier too.

Why do you think management of diabetes is important?

While uncontrolled diabetes isn't usually noticeable at first, but the long term consequences of having chronically high blood sugar can be severe.

It's important to take care of diabetes from the beginning so those complications aren't experienced.

It's very possible to live a long and healthy life with diabetes, and I want people to have good quality of life rather than being sick with complications of diabetes.

Student going to the Oregon State Hoop Shoot

Jaihline ‘Cha Cha’ Ramirez from Warm Springs has really worked on her basketball free throw technique.

A goal for Jaihline is to have her name in the Elks Hoop Shoot National Hall of Fame. She has made great progress toward this goal, with another challenge coming up in February.

Elks Lodges across the U.S. sponsor the Hoop Shoot youth basketball free throw contests, starting at the individual school level. As many as 3 million students compete each year in this first level of the competition.

A student who wins the school competition then qualifies for the next level, the District, followed by Regionals, and then the State Hoop Shoot.

Jaihline won the Jefferson County Middle School Elks Hoop Shoot, and then took first in the Jaihline (center) at the Regionals award ceremony. The trophy will be presented at the State competition. Skytus Smith (at right with District trophy) took second place in his division. He won the Regionals event last year. His parents are Alvis Smith II and Vivian Smith.

Madras Hoop Shoot. Earlier this month she competed at Regionals, held in Prineville, where she again won first place in her age group. Her next challenge will be the Hoop Shoot Oregon Finals, coming up in February. After this would be the National Finals, winners of which have their names entered in the Hoop Shoot Hall of Fame. Besides her free throw skills, Jaihline plays for the Jefferson County Middle School basketball team, and the Central Oregon Basketball Organization, on a team coached by Tony Holliday, Fire Prevention officer at Fire Management. Jaihline’s parents are Joy Ramirez, who works at the IHS clinic, and Jose Ramirez, who works at the mill in Madras. Jaihline last year won her Elks Hoop Shoot school-level competition. This year she is in the 12-13 year age group, and next year will be above the age groups. So this is her last year in the Elks Hoop Shoot competition, inspiring her to put in extra practice on her free throws. This work paid off, as she is now getting ready for the State Finals, February 10.

Extension hosting important clinic for local cattle owners

Warm Springs OSU Extension will hold our annual brucellosis ‘bangs’ clinic.

U.S. Department of Agriculture veterinarians will be here to administer the brucellosis vaccine to heifers 4-12 months of age.

In addition, a de-wormer can be administered to cattle of all ages.

Cattle owners need to call OSU Extension and let us know how many cattle you have and what type of vaccinations you would like administered.

Cattle vaccinations will take place at the Warm Springs rodeo arena or at the rancher’s home. Cost of the brucellosis vaccine is $1 and the cost of de-wormer Ivomec is $3.

If interested, please contact OSU Extension at 541-553-3238 or email: scott.duggan@oregonstate.edu

Contagious disease

Brucellosis is the only vaccine given to cattle that requires a veterinarian to administer the shot. The reason for this is brucellosis is highly infectious and is a zoonotic disease. Zoonotic means the disease is capable of spreading from animals to humans.

The name of the human form of brucellosis is undulant fever, which is a painful disease that causes fatigue and headaches followed by high fever, chills, joint pain and weight loss.

Long-term effects include arthritis, chronic fatigue and recurrent fevers. While undulant fever does not typically kill its victims, it is a serious disease that can plague its victims for the rest of their lives.

Humans contract undulant fever by eating raw meat from an infected animal, or by drinking or eating contaminated, unpasteurized milk products.

Additionally, if you slaughter an infected animal, the bacteria can enter your system through cuts or touching your eyes.

Due to the risk of infection, only trained veterinarians are permitted to administer the brucellosis vaccine. After the vaccine is given, a small metal tag is placed in the ear of the heifer where it remains for the rest of their lives. This metal tag is proof that the heifer is protected from brucellosis.

Brucellosis causes decreased milk production, weight loss, lameness, abortion of calves and infertility in cattle. Signs of brucellosis are slow to appear and difficult to detect in sick animals.

Until cows start aborting calves or having weak calves, there is no visual sign that an animal is infected.

When brucellosis is detected in a herd, cattle must be quarantined and infected animals are humanely slaughtered, as there is no cure for the disease.

Sadly, ranchers can lose their entire herd to the disease, as it is easily spread through bacteria shed in the milk or via the aborted fetus, afterbirth or other reproductive tract discharges. Therefore, brucellosis is responsible for large economic losses if detected in your herd.

Thanks to a national surveillance program, losses have dropped from 124,000 affected herds in 1956 to 700 in 1992 and less than 10 herds today.

The large economic losses sustained in the past are why the livestock industry must remain vigilant.

Thanks to the national surveillance program, the odds of having a positive test in your herd are small. However, if an infected cow is detected, ranchers often have to liquidate their entire herd.

Jefferson County School District 509J graduation rates leap forward

High school graduation rates released by the Oregon Department of Education this week show that Jefferson County School District 509J is making significant improvements. In 2017, the district showed a 12 percentage point increase over 2016, moving from 60% to 72% for students graduating in four years. Madras High School increased to 78% not including graduation rates for the new Bridges High School which opened in September of 2016.

“We are extremely proud to see the results of the hard work and focus from Madras High School staff and students,” said JCSD 509J Superintendent Ken Parshall. “This didn’t happen overnight. Our team has been working to engage students at a deeper level and provide them with the support they need to be successful in school, graduate and explore college and careers.”

According to Madras High School co-principals Mark Neffendorf and HD Weddel, building relationships between students and staff and setting high expectations at the high school has been critical to the district’s success.

“We’ve been able to build a trust with our students and that’s making a big difference. Our culture is inviting and safe and our kids like coming to school,” said Neffendorf. “We are also holding students accountable and setting high expectations for academics and behavior and they are rising to the occasion,” added Weddel.

On January 12, Madras Elementary students from each grade level were recognized with STAR awards for their hard work in reading.

STARs are shining at Madras Elementary

Something special happens when students take responsibility for their learning...they shine like stars. The team at Madras Elementary School has been working with students to set goals for learning and then helping them meet those goals. The students who work extra hard and do their best work are recognized each week as part of the STAR (Students Taking Academic Responsibility) program. Each Friday, one STAR student from each grade level is presented with a certificate for “knocking it out of the park” in reading or math.

“The students are so excited about the STAR program,” said Madras Elementary Principal Deborah Hunt. “It’s amazing to see how proud they are when they make the connection. They understand that when they work hard, they are learning more and growing more.”

According to Hunt, students at all levels can be selected as STARs.

“Some STAR students may be struggling in school and others may be high achievers. This is really about rewarding hard work,” said Hunt.

New Bridges High School principal embraces Madras Community

Brian Crook spent 21 years of his career as an educator with Bend La Pine Schools. First, he worked as a teacher and then an assistant principal for Bend High School. Then he became principal for High Desert Middle School. He enjoyed his work and had no plans to leave when he was contacted by MHS co-principals Mark Neffendorf and HD Weddel about a possible job opening at Bridges High School in Madras.

“I’ve worked in education for 30 years and I’ve loved every job I’ve ever had,” said Crook. “I just knew that the Bridges principal position was a really unique opportunity and I had to do it.”

Crook commutes from Redmond to Madras everyday with his wife Michele, who also accepted a position with JCSD and works as TAG (Talented and Gifted) coordinator and instructional coach for Special Education.

According to Crook, the two have become connected to the Madras community and are exploring options to move there.

“This is such a great community. The Bridges staff is amazing and the students are thriving with the extra support and attention,” said Crook.

Crook explained that the team is creating a culture of trust and hard work.

“Bridges is a place where students work hard and move toward graduation. We have very high expectations for behavior and our students are rising to the occasion.”

Students seem to agree.

“We have time to get stuff done and learn at our own pace,” said Bridges junior Victor Calixtro. “The teachers are very supportive,” added Aundrea Estrada, also a junior at Bridges.

Bridges Principal Brian Crook checks in with student David Benitez and Educational Assistant Brad Padgett.

Bridges juniors Tyler Gephart, Victor Calixtro, Aundrea Estrada and Vincent Lopez work to stay on track for graduation.

It’s never too early to talk about college and careers

Students in all grades at Madras Elementary are learning about life after high school. Teachers and staff are talking about college, trades schools and jobs to help the students explore their futures.

As part of the school’s AVID (Advancement Via Individual Determination) program, Madras Elementary hallways are filled with college banners made by the students. A bulletin board also shows pictures of teachers with the logos of the colleges they attended.

One day each month, students and staff also celebrate College Day. They dress in college gear or wear colors from a college they like. They also learn about different colleges including what classes they offer and how much they cost.

“We want kids to know that if they work hard in school, they have a chance to go to college or trade school,” said Madras Elementary Principal Deborah Hunt.

“I have a big goal to go to Harvard or OSU and study technology,” said Joshua Gregory, grade 5, Madras Elementary.

Gregory and his classmate Isaiah Moschetti were among several students recognized at a January school board meeting for exceeding state test scores.

“I plan to go to college, but I’m not sure yet what I want to study,” said Moschetti, grade 5, Madras Elementary.

Hunt says the Madras Elementary team is also working to put together a career fair at the end of the school year.

“We are hoping community members will come in and talk about their jobs so the kids will see how many different options are out there.”

If you or someone you know might be interested in speaking at a career fair, contact Madras Elementary at (541) 475-3520.

Health funding measure passes

Oregon voters approved Measure 101, good news for the tribal Managed Care program. The measure passed last week by an overwhelming majority.

The referendum asked voters to approve up to $320 million in taxes on hospitals and certain health insurers to help pay for those on the Oregon Health Plan, the state's version of Medicaid.

Many tribal members use the Oregon Health Plan, reducing the reliance on the Managed Care program for some health procedures.

Some state lawmakers said the passage of Measure 101 still does not provide a permanent resolution to the state budget situation.

"The voters have approved Measure 101, voting to protect health care for over 300,000 Oregonians," said Senator Jackie Winters, R-Salem.

"This is a short term fix, and we will need to work to find a bipartisan long term solution. I am hopeful that we will move forward with this bipartisan spirit into the 2018 short session."

News around Indian Country

Paulette Jordan hopes to be first Native state governor

Paulette Jordan, member of the Idaho House of Representatives, is running for Governor of Idaho.

She would be the first Native state governor in the U.S.

She previously served on the Coeur d'Alene Tribal Council. She is the only Democrat elected from northern Idaho.

Rep. Jordan was born into a ranching and farming family in northern Idaho. She is an enrolled citizen of the Coeur d'Alene tribe.

She also has Sinkiuse (known as the Moses-Columbia Band of the Colville Confederacy), Nez Perce, and Yakama.

Jordan attended Gonzaga Preparatory before going to the University of Washington.

While in Seattle, she held a variety of leadership roles in community activism and became involved in local city politics, also serving as an Advisor to the President of the University.

After returning to the reservation, Jordan ran for and was elected to the Tribal Council. From this position, she became the co-chair of gaming for the Affiliated Tribes of Northwest Indians, an organization founded in 1953 so that tribes could act in concert on mutual interests.

She is also a Senior Executive Board representative, Finance Chair and Energy Initiative Chair for the National Indian Gaming Association, serving her third consecutive term.

Rep. Jordan also owns timber and farmland in northern Idaho. She is now running for Governor of Idaho against A.J. Balukoff and Troy Minton in the Democratic Primary.

Yakama concern over possible landslide

The Yakama Nation is asking Washington Gov. Jay Inslee to declare a state of emergency for the Rattlesnake Ridge landslide. It's a steep slope outside of Yakima that is moving slowly and clings above a small community, a railroad corridor, Interstate 82 and the Yakima River.

The tribes have a lot to lose if it goes down: Rattlesnake

Ridge is an important geological feature of the Yakama Nation's traditional lands.

It faces another ridge across a narrow valley. If Rattlesnake Ridge really slides—in the worst case scenario—that could deeply affect the tribes.

First, there's actual tribal property on the top of the ridge. It is unclear what would happen to the tribal property right in case of a landslide.

Then there's the historical value of the ridge to the tribes. The tribes won an important battle there against the U.S. Army in the 1800s.

And there's an old legend about crickets, frogs and the Grizzly Bear, based on the ridge.

Klamath plan to open $6.5 million hotel at casino

The Klamath Tribes continue work on a hotel at the Kla-Mo-Ya Casino in southern Oregon.

The Choice Hotels Sleep Inn will open this summer, according to a press release posted by The Klamath Falls News. The $6.5 million project features 76 rooms, an indoor pool and a conference room.

"I'm going to remain optimistic and keep pushing forward," Jared Hall, the tribe's economic development director, said in the press release.

The tribe broke ground last August. The project is being financed in part by a loan guarantee issued by the Bureau of Indian Affairs.

9 more 'deemed approved' gaming compacts

The Bureau of Indian Affairs has allowed nine tribal gaming compacts to take effect in California, a significant number for the Golden State.

The agreements are considered legal, but only to the extent their provisions are consistent with the Indian Gaming Regulatory Act, according to a notice published in the Federal Register. The Secretary of the Interior otherwise did not outright approve or outright the nine compacts.

"The Secretary took no action on the compacts within 45 days of their submission," the notice signed by John Tahsuda, the Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs for the Trump administration, read.

Allowing a compact to take effect is not an unusual event in and of itself. But the publication of the notice increases the number of "deemed approved" compacts in California by a significant amount.

In all of 2016 and 2017, the BIA allowed nine compacts to take effect, so the number of "deemed approved" compacts has doubled with the publication of just one notice.

Still, the situation pales in comparison to the one seen in New Mexico. In that state, every single tribe is operating under a "deemed approved" compact.

Boys with Braids event with COCC

Boys with Braids is a national movement dedicated to sharing the teachings of why Native boys, men and elders wear braids.

Central Oregon Community College will host a Boys with Braids event on Saturday, February 17. This is free and open to the public. As the COCC notice says:

“Boys with Braids is a community event to bring awareness to the cultural importance of why Native men and boys wear their hair long. Too many young Native boys experience some type of bullying or discrimination due to their long hair.

“Often times parents and their young boys struggle to find the correct words to answer the question, ‘Why do you have long hair?’

At the February 17 Boys with Braids gathering at COCC in Bend—from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. at the Coats Campus Center—a variety of guest speakers will share their personal experiences, and how they have overcome these situations.

If you would like more information, contact Michelle Cary, COCC Native American Student Program coordinator at: mcary@cocc.edu

Or call 541-318-3782.

If you need assistance to attend, please call Joe at 541-383-7775.

Relay for Life

Jefferson County Relay for Life team captains meet the first Monday evening of each month at the Jefferson County Senior Center.

They meet at 6:45. The relay, raising funds to fight cancer, will be July 14-15 at the Jefferson County Fairgrounds in Madras.

Health survey

Warm Springs Behavioral Risk Factor Surveillance survey interviewers are seeking Warm Springs Adults 18 and old to participate in the survey.

It takes about an hour to complete, and you will be sent a $30 gift card for your time.

You can call Christina at Family Preservation to schedule at 541-615-0036.
