There could be a second wave of offers this year through the Warm Springs Land Buy Back program. Response time for the first offers closed in late April. A second wave of offers could increase the number of successful transactions, said Randy Scott, Warm Springs Land Buy Back coordinator.

There has been no final order to the evening.

For the first wave of offers, the program approved the expenditure of close to $600,000 for the purchase of fractional allotment interests at $6,000 acres on reservation land. Land interests acquired through the program go to the Confederated Tribes. The amount spent on acquiring interests during the first wave was low compared to the total of roughly $4 million that is disbursed through the program.

Funds left unspent revert to the tribes or members who own fractional allotment interests. For this reason the hope to is have a greater response.

The Buy-Back Program implements the land consolidation component of the Celilo Settlement. The settlement provided $1.9 billion to purchase fractional interests in or restricted land from willing sellers at fair market value.

2018 Lil’ Miss Pageant

There is much to like about the Lil’ Miss Warm Springs Pageant. “It’s great seeing all the support, the family and friends who show their support,” said Noreena Sampson, Recreation times coordinator, who also helps with Lil’ Miss Warm Springs.

A lot goes into making the pageant happen. There are meetings every week leading up to the evening. It takes a park to the Confederated Tribes (CTOs), which own the land. The tribes would benefit by developing a similar solar farm, or farms on the reservation. This could be a promising renewable-energy project for the tribes, reducing reliance on fossil fuels, said Councilmember Carma Miller.

An area on the reservation that have been mentioned for their potential include: The flat above the former mill site, and the plateaus above Grouse Heights, as two examples.

A project could involve several hundred acres. The Cypress Creek Renewables farms in Bend—called the Nefi Solar Farms—toal approximately 70 acres each in size. A project on the reservation could be of similar dimension. Any potential site would go through the rigorous environmental, cultural resource and community review of the Confederated Tribes, said Jim Manion, Power and Water general manager.

The solar farms at Bend generate 14 megawatts of energy, enough power for about 6,000 homes. An incentive for the company to begin work on the second phase is the abatement of the asbestos and lead paint—was finished, allowing the company to begin work on the second phase.

Phase two is the abatement of methamphetamine contamination. Earlier this year, areas of the longhouse—restrooms and the kitchen area—tested positive for meth contamination. This can pose a serious health hazard, especially to children, elders and people with respiratory issues, for example.

Last month Tribal Council allocated a total of $390,000 for meth abatement of public buildings on the reservation. The abatement budget for just the longhouse was $192,000, though the work could exceed this amount, said Alyssa Macy, chief operations officer.

There are other building spaces around the reservation that also requires some meth abatement work. The last tribal abatement and meth abatement work came from a tribal capital projects fund.

Reneable energy idea for reservation

Wart Springs Power and Water Enterprises has been researching the possibility of developing a solar farm on the reservation.

Power and Water has worked with an experienced partner, Cypress Creek Renewables, on some of the preliminary research, keeping Tribal Council informed as time to time.

Tribal Council met this week with Cypress Creek for a tour of the solar farms east of Bend.

The site visit was to give the tribes an idea of the potential for developing a similar solar farm, or farms on the reservation. This could be a promising renewable-energy project for the tribes, reducing reliance on fossil fuels, said Councilmember Carma Miller.

Vets Parade and Expo

Miss Warm Springs Thyreicia Simitustus leads the Welcome Home Vietnam Veterans Parade. Hosts of the Parade and Expo were the Eugene "Cougar" Greine Sr. American Legion Post and Auxiliary No. 48, and the Confederated Tribes. At the conclusion of the parade were lunch at the Community Center, and the veterans expo.

Thyreicia’s family and friends de- voted to honor a celebrated warrior. They requested a donation of salmon from Natural Resources for the Coronation, and Tribal Council approved the request. The Coronation will be held at 6 p.m. this Saturday at the museum, and will include dinner and auctions. Donations for the Coronation and Banquet are $20 per person, $10 for senior citizens and children under 10.

Clean-up at longhouse

The cleaning and abatement project at the Agneye Longhouse is nearly finished. The contractor has said the work should be done by the middle of this month, said Secretary Terry Stimson.

She gave an update on the longhouse on Monday at Tribal Council.

The first part of the work—abatement of public buildings on the longhouse—was finished, allowing the company to begin work on the second phase.

Phase two is the abatement of methamphetamine contamination. Earlier this year, areas of the longhouse—restrooms and the kitchen area—tested positive for meth contamination. This can pose a serious health hazard, especially to children, elders and people with respiratory issues, for example.

Coronation Saturday for Miss W.S.

Miss Warm Springs Thyreicia Simitustus has been involved and hopes to attend parades and other tribal events in 2018, representing the Confederated Tribes.

There is a need for funding for her travel expenses, though, as there is no tribal budget for Miss Warm Springs.

Thyreicia goes to Central Oregon Community College, and also works part time, so her time for fundraising is limited.

To raise the travel money, Thyreicia’s family and friends decided to honor a celebrated warrior. They requested a donation of salmon from Natural Resources for the Coronation, and Tribal Council approved the request.

The Coronation will be held at 6 p.m. this Saturday at the museum, and will include dinner and auctions. Donations for the Coronation and Banquet are $20 per person, $10 for senior citizens and children under 10.

Tribes look to resume aggregate mining

There are three sites on the reservation that appear to have good potential for a crushed rock market. The sites have been mined in the past and there has not been any exploration for some time.

Tribal Management

The tribes will host a mining summit on bed rock extraction during the month. The mining will be from noon May 12 to 9:30 p.m. on May 13.

The tribes plan to attend the Tribal People’s Friendship Feast this Thursday. The feast begins at 11:30 a.m. and ends at 3 p.m.

There are also discussions on the reservation about the potential to locate a rooftop program at the Warm Springs Development Office.

The mining could be under the warm Springs Vocational Training office.

There would be a potential for four to six new jobs with the mining and rock crushing operation. Mr. Irwin said.

The tribes are focusing on the reservation’s overall need to serve OODT program.

Council okays 2018 fishing regs

Tribal Council in April adopted the off-reservation fishing regulations for 2018, regulating fisheries in the river’s usual and accustomed fishing places. The regulations, approved by Council resolution no. 12,461, were adopted as recommended by the Fish and Wildlife Committee. The committee also has the designated authority to add, rescind or modify off-reservation fishing regulations on an in-season basis without additional approval of the Tribal Council, the resolution says.

Resolution no. 12,461 says the regulations as approved on March 29 for 2018 and future years unless modified by the Fish and Wildlife Committee or by Tribal Council.

Casked Lands areas covered by the regulations—available at the Branch of Natural Resources—include Shevits Falls, Hood River, the John Day River, Eagle Creek above Bovinaille dam, and other usual and accustomed fishing stations. The regulations of resolution 12,461 do not include the Columbia River mainstem fisheries, which are managed by separate regulations.

Shoni Schimmel has returned the New York Liberty professional women’s basketball team. She has been in training camp with the team since last week. Mrs. Schimmel was a WNBA All-Star guard two years ago, then took one year off to be with family. “I’m excited to be coming back from high school to college to the pros,” Schimmel was saying last week. Her grandmother had been sick and recently passed away, she said.

Before going back to New York, Shoni had been living at Central Oregon, often practicing at the Warm Springs Community Center gym.

She was the eighth pick in the 2014 WNBA draft, having been a star player at Louisville.

Girls State

Girls State is an elite program for young women who are at least 15 years old. The program provides an opportunity for girls to experience the workings of government, learn about the duties, privileges, and responsibilities of citizenship.

Twelve girls who are outstanding students and who have demonstrated leadership qualities are selected to attend Girls State. The girls are chosen based on their academic performance, community involvement, and personal qualities.

Participants in Girls State receive a comprehensive course in American government, including a mock state legislature, a mock presidential campaign, and a mock Supreme Court. The girls also have the opportunity to interact with elected officials and participate in community service projects.

Girls State is a highly competitive program, and only 12 girls are selected each year. The program provides a valuable opportunity for girls to learn about government and develop leadership skills.

As of this publication, the Girls State program has been in existence for over 50 years, and many of its graduates have gone on to successful careers in politics, law, business, and other fields.

I would like to give a great thanks to the wonderful and kind people of Warm Springs who invited the Vietnam Vets of Central Oregon to participate in the Parade and Expo, April 28.

I have attended this event for the past three years and continually marvel at the thoughtfulness and spirit of our hosts.

To say the Vietnam Vets of America have issues concerning the War is a vast understatement. The men and women who were part of the war effort experienced unimaginable events in their lives.

We seldom received a proper welcome home when we returned from the war. I for one was spit on at the airport and called a ‘baby killer.’ But events such as the Parade and Honoring the Vietnam Vets in Warm Springs continues to help heal, and allows all of us to feel better about ourselves.

I cannot tell the community of Warm Springs how heart-felt your celebration meant to all who attended.

Bravo Zulu.
