Celebtrating addition to conservation lands

The Confederated Tribes Branch of Natural Resources manages thousands of acres of fish and wildlife conservation areas—west from the Willamette Valley eastward to the John Day River. These conservation areas are in addition to the Natural Resources restoration projects on the reservation, the Log Springs project, for instance.

A recent addition to the tribes’ off-reservation conservation areas is the Dunstan Homestead Preserve—a 1,200 acres of critical habitat along the upper reaches of the Middle Fork of the John Day. The area is at the heart of Chinook salmon spawning and rearing teritory.

The Nature Conservancy and the BLM are main partners in the acquisition and future management of the Dunstan Preserve.

The Dunstan Homestead Preserve adds to the tribes’ other conservation areas on the John Day—the Pine Creek, and the landmark Oxbow Conservation Area.

The Nature Conservancy purchased the Dunstan Preserve in 1999 from the Dunstan family, who had owned the land since 1899.

For years, the Nature Conservancy has worked collaboratively with neighbors, local partners and the tribes to restore habitat and advance research, monitoring and land management on the property and surrounding area. With the addition of the Dunstan Preserve to the tribes’ existing properties—also purchased in partnership with BLM—nearly 3,000 acres of important fish and wildlife habitat are now permanently protected along the Middle Fork John Day.
