Canoe Family planning Paddle to Celilo

The Warm Springs Canoe Family is working on a plan to bring the Tribal Canoe Journeys to the homeland of the Confederated Tribes.

The plan is ambitious, potentially historic, and long-term: The family sees the Paddle to Celilo happening in 2023.

Jefferson Greene presented the idea at Tribal Council last week, with support from N'chi Wanapum Canoe Family members Colleen Johnson, Carina Miller and Becky Picard. For background:

The Tribal Canoe Journeys began 30 years ago, and has grown each year since the first Paddle to Seattle in 1989. Every year since then a different tribe has hosted the destination landing for the canoe family pullers, support crews and guests.

Most of the host tribes so far have been in Washington, with some in British Columbia, Canada.

The Warm Springs N'chi Wanapum Canoe Family has been on the last 11 journeys, forming alliances with other families. And among the other canoe families, N'chi Wanapum is unique.

This in part is because the Confederated Tribes' canoe tradition is based on the mid Columbia Landing scene from the Paddle to Lummi, summer of 2019.

River rather than on the Coast or inland bays of the Pacific Ocean. "And we still have many stories, songs and dances from our canoe days," Jefferson said.

This uniqueness was the inspiration for the Paddle to Celilo 2023. The project is big, and will require many partners along the Columbia in the area of Celilo Village. To give an idea of the scope:

At the arrival sites of recent Canoe Journeys—Lummi, Puyallup, Salish, to name a few of the recent—thousands of people showed up for the landings. At the Paddle to Lummi 2019, more than 18,000 people were on hand for the landing. The Canoe Journey landing celebrations generate hundreds of thousands of dollars in commerce.

Jefferson estimated more than 100 tribal canoes, and 15,000 or more people could take part in the Paddle to Celilo celebration. These numbers would overwhelm the Celilo community itself—as would have happened at the other landing destinations—so partners will be needed among the neighboring communities.

First, the N'chi Wanapum Paddle to Celilo 2023 vision is for collaboration with the Yakama and Umatilla Tribes and Bands, Jefferson said. Next would be the nearby towns and cities. Schools and universities also take part, he said. Councilwoman Brigitte McConville suggested involving the Army Corps of Engineers and Bonneville Power Administration.

Council working on 2020 budget

September is one of the busiest times of year for Tribal Council, Management and Finance, as they prepare the budget proposal for the following year.

This is especially true this year, as the 2020 budget proposal will likely call for a significant reduction.

Council earlier directed all departments to present budget proposals with reduction options of 10-percent, 20-percent and 30-percent.

In fairness, the approach at Council is for the organization overall to absorb the reduction in 2020; rather than having some entities take drastic cuts while others take less so.

Earlier this month Tribal Council began the budget reviews with the various departments and enterprises.

Taking a thorough approach, Council is dedicating many days in September to the budget presentations, before posting a proposal in early October. The district meetings would follow, and General Council.

Earlier this week the presentations included a budget overview with Secretary-Treasurer Michele Stacona, followed by a Chief Operations Officer report by Alyssa Macy.

Caroline Cruz at Health and Human Services, Robert Brunoe with the Natural Resources Branch, and Valerie Switzler with the Education Branch were also scheduled for this week.

A Public Safety report was planned with branch manager Carmen Smith. Also on the agenda: High Lookee Lodge, Public Utilities, Human Resources, Governmental Affairs, Finance, Tribal Court and others. (Funeral arrangements this week may have caused a change to the agenda. You can see the list of entities coming before Council during the rest of September on page 5 of this publication.)

The current year budget was approved at $18.4 million. For next year a preliminary estimate foresees a budget of $14.8 million—a decrease of approximately $3.5 million. Some reasons for the decrease:

The Timber LLC is seeing a reduction in its timber revenue of $1.5 million. And the Carbon Sequestration (Warm Springs Geo Visions) dividend payment for the current year was close to $2.5 million, for 2020 the number is greatly reduced.

Other enterprises—in particular Power and Water, Indian Head Casino and Credit—are projecting greater dividends for the next year, though their increases would not be enough to offset the reduction.

Decisions pending on solid waste questions

The three Warm Springs Sanitation drivers service all of the residents on the reservation.

They also pick up at the Warm Springs Academy, enterprises, the market and other commercial customers.

They have three trucks, plus a new one coming on line in December, approved by Tribal Council. The drivers are busy, often starting at 4:30 a.m. in order to cover the entire reservation.

Maintaining the vehicles is a challenge, and at times costly. So the new truck, to service commercial customers, will be a welcome addition to the fleet, said Russell Graham, tribal Sanitarian.

The vehicles and drivers are critical to solid waste management on the reservation, while the Dry Creek landfill presents a more pressing matter.

The question is the future of solid waste disposal for the Confederated Tribes, Mr. Graham said.

Should the tribes build a new landfill on the reservation? Or transfer the waste to an off-reservation facility?

Madras Sanitary Service, for instance, transfers their municipal waste to a facility at The Dalles. Another off-reservation option would be Bend, though The Dalles option appears to be the more cost-effective, Graham said.

The on-reservation option presents this additional issue: For funding reasons a new on-reservation landfill would possibly have to accept waste—for a fee, of course—from off reservation, such as from Madras.

This would clearly require community discussion and decision.

McMechan/Spilyay

Two of the the tribes' three sanitation trucks.

Another question of importance: Should residents of the reservation pay a monthly fee for pick-up service?

The non-residential customers pay, while the tribes have never charged a fee—$15 a month, for instance—to the many residential customers.

These are difficult questions that will have to be addressed in the fairly near future, as the Dry Creek facility is not a long-term option, Graham said.

Reservation Census Count 2020

The Warm Springs 2020 Census Complete Count Committee is now meeting regularly, planning for the count next year. Their meeting last week included a presentation by Shana Radford, from Umatilla, the Census Tribal Partnership Specialist for Oregon and Idaho, a division of the Regional U.S. Census Center based in Los Angeles.

She gave some history of the Census in regard to Native Americans. The first U.S. Census was held in 1790. American Indians were not counted until the 1860 Census, and this involved only off-reservation Native Americans.

The first time Native Americans on reservations were included in the U.S. was in 1900, Ms. Radford said. As a side note: It was not until 1924 that Native Americans secured the right to vote in U.S. elections, though the struggle for equal representation went on much longer: It was not until 1962 that every state finally guaranteed Native Americans the right to vote.

The U.S. Census is important for Native American communities because it helps guide the allocation of federal resources and services, based on population. At stake is the proportional allocation of $675 billion annually in federal funds—including funding to tribes.

The Census guides the distribution of funds for transportation, housing, emergency response, social services and more.

Council talks health careers with OHSU

The On Track Oregon Health Sciences University team visited last week with Tribal Council, reviewing the history and future of the program.

On Track OHSU, with the university Northwest Center for Excellence, is a student program with the goal of bringing more Native Americans into the health care occupations.

The Warm Springs student liaison is Gordon Scott. For information about the On Track opportunities in the school district 509-J, you can reach Gordon at: scottgo@ohsu.edu

On hand for the meeting with Tribal Council were Mr. Scott and Taw ‘TJ’ Foltz of the Education Committee, Katie Lenahan, program director; and other program leaders.

OHSU On Track works in partnership with the school district, the tribes, the Indian Health Services Warm Springs Clinic, and St. Charles Medical Center. The program began seven years ago, when the OHSU provost made it a priority to recruit Native American students into health care faculty positions.

The reasons for this priority are critical to health in Indian Country. As the OHSU Northwest Center for Excellence explains:

Native Americans face some of the most striking health inequalities in the U.S., living with the highest rates of heart, lung and blood pressure problems, with a life expectancy younger than any other racial or ethnic group.

At the same time, Native Americans represent a small percentage of health care professionals, and medical school faculty.

The solution at OHSU is On Track, working with the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs, and the Klamath tribes, among others.

The program started small, working with middle school students. In time the program began working with Madras High School students. The first high school group of On Track students was small, perhaps 10. Now the high school program involves up to 70

Native American students.

At the meeting last week, Tribal Councilwoman Anita Jackson suggested the program expand to include college students, such as students at Central Oregon Community College. Councilman Raymond Captain Moody pointed out that there are several Native American students in the Wasco County, such as at Maupin and Dufur.

The Chemawa Indian School would also be a good place for On Track, Councilman Moody said.

The presentation was well-received, and the parties are looking forward to working together in the future, a goal being to have more Native American health professionals working at the Warm Springs clinic.

Final market of 2019 this Friday

The final Warm Springs Outdoor Market of 2019 is coming up this Friday, September 13. Stop by for the local vending booths from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., while KWSO will also be on hand selling gear and food.

The market this year has been at a new location, by the Warm Springs Community Action Team on the campus. Also new this year, the Tananawit artists group has taken the lead in hosting the market.

There has been an average of about ten to 12 vendor booths at the market this year, said Emily Courtney, business and marketing specialist with the Community Action Team.

“Things have gone well,” Ms. Courtney said. “I think having the market by the WSCAT building helped in getting visitors off the highway to the market.”

In time the Outdoor Market will likely change locations again, to a space by the Small Business Incubator building by the highway.

Car, Truck & Bike Show for DARE at Indian Head

The Warm Springs Police Department DARE Program—with partner Indian Head Casino—presents the 2019 Car, Truck and Bike Show, Saturday, September 28 at Indian Head Casino.

The show—with food, music and fun—will be from 12 to 5 p.m. There is a $25 entry fee for vehicles, all proceeds go to the Warm Springs Police DARE program. There is a $20 play voucher with the entry. Free entry for current sponsors.

This is Inaugural DARE Car, Truck and Bike Show. Set-up will start at 11 a.m. on show day. If you're proud of your vehicle, show it off and help a great cause.

Sporting notes...

Off-reservation general buck deer rifle season is now open, and Warm Springs tribal hunters are reminded to make sure you have your tags.

This year hunting tags are available online at: hunting.warmsprings-nsn.gov/

Or you can still go to the Branch of Natural Resources office for a paper tag. Tag and bag limits:

For off-reservation: Include two mule deer tags with three in possession limit. On reservation buck deer rifle season runs September 28 thru October 31 this year.

At the Madras White Buffalo home football game on September 27, distinguished alumni will be honored and inducted into the school's hall of fame. Warm Springs is well represented in this year's inductees.

Honorees this year include Tommy Tucker, who served in the U.S. Army 101st Airborne, and was killed in action in the Iraq War in 2006. Tucker graduated in 1999.

Jarold Ramsey, class of 1955, was an English Professor at Rochester University in New York, with a specialty in Native American Literature.

In retirement Mr. Ramsey has been involved with the Jefferson County Historical Society.

Dan Ahern, married into the tribes, will be honored. Judge Ahern is recently retired as a Circuit Court Judge. He graduated in 1977.

Warm Springs tribal member Dr. Shilo Tippet graduated with the class of 1991. Dr. Tippet earned a PhD in Clinical Psychology from Oklahoma State University, and worked in Seattle with the Veteran's Administration Medical Center before returning to Central Oregon to practice.

Dr. Antonio Pena left high school in 1982 and went on to the University of Washington. He has practiced medicine in Arizona and Texas, and now is in private practice with his brother, who was inducted into the Madras Alumni Hall of Fame in its inaugural year.

This the third induction year of the Distinguished Alumni Hall of Fame.

The hall is designed to inspire students to pursue their dreams, with the inductees all one time students at Madras High School who have gone on to achievements in the region and beyond.

There will be a student assembly on September 27 with those being honore, as well as recognition at the football game in Stampede Stadium that evening.

Scaffold and hook and line fishing

Zone 6 scaffold, and hook and line fishing remains open until further notice.

Commercial sales are allowed for salmon, steelhead, shad, yellow perch, bass, walleye, catfish and carp.

Sturgeon may not be sold but sturgeon between 38 and 54 inches fork length in the Bonneville Pool and between 43 and 54 inches fork length in The Dalles Pool may be kept for subsistence use.

Fish may be sold after the period ends if caught during the open period.

Zone 6 commercial fisheries:

A commercial salmon fishery has been set. It is open until 6 p.m. this Thursday, September 12.

The open area is all of Zone 6.

Allowed gear is set and drift gill nets with an 8-inch minimum mesh size.

Allowed sales are salmon, steelhead, shad, yellow perch, bass, walleye, catfish and carp.

Sturgeon may not be sold but sturgeon between 38 and 54 inches fork length in the Bonneville Pool and between 43 and 54 inches fork length in The Dalles Pool may be kept for subsistence use.

Sanctuaries are the standard river mouth and dam areas applicable to gill net gear including the Spring Creek National Fish Hatchery sanctuary.

NOAA Fisheries makes plans for sea lion control

NOAA Fisheries released a draft plan for public comment to remove and kill as many as 416 California and Steller sea lions each year in a 180 mile stretch of the Columbia River.

The stretch of river is from just downstream of Bonneville Dam at river mile 112 upstream to McNary Dam at river mile 292.

An application for a Section 120 permit to lethally remove the sea lions—an estimated 144 to 286 California and 105 to 130 Steller sea lions—was submitted June 13 to NOAA by the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs, Yakama, Umatilla and Nez Perce; and the fish and wildlife departments of the states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

The request is for a depredation permit for up to five years. NOAA put the draft plan out for comment in the Federal Register August 30 and public comments are due October 29.

The Sec. 120 permit application is also for any tributary to the Columbia River that includes spawning habitat of threatened or endangered salmon or steelhead, NOAA says in the August 30 Federal Register.

“This action is intended to reduce or eliminate sea lion predation on the fishery stocks that are listed as threatened or endangered under the Endangered Species Act of 1973,” it says.

ESA-listed species are Lower Columbia River chinook salmon, Snake River fall chinook, Snake River spring/summer chinook, Upper Columbia River spring chinook, Upper Willamette River chinook salmon, Lower Columbia River steelhead, Middle Columbia River steelhead, Snake River Basin steelhead, Upper Columbia River steelhead, Upper Willamette River steelhead, Columbia River chum salmon, Lower Columbia River coho salmon, Snake River sockeye salmon and Southern Distinct Population Segment of eulachon (smelt).

NOAA and the applicants say that “sea lion predation is having a significant negative impact on the recovery on the above-mentioned fishery stocks. Additionally, the application states that removal of sea lions is also intended to protect species of lamprey or sturgeon that may not be listed as endangered or threatened but are listed as a species of concern.”

Addressing sea lion predation is part of a comprehensive salmon and steelhead recovery strategy, NOAA says.

“As reported in the application, significant actions to address the decline of salmon and steelhead stocks in the Columbia River basin have been underway for several decades, and are progressing each year as a result of the implementation of ESA recovery plans throughout the Columbia River basin.” NOAA says.

“These actions include harvest reductions, hydroelectric system mitigation, habitat restoration, predation management, and hatchery reforms.”

Not everyone favors lethal removing of the pinnipeds. The Wild Fish Conservancy says that habitat destruction, dams and overharvest have far greater impacts.

The Conservancy, which works to recover and conserve wild fish, opposes killing sea lions. The group says habitat destruction, dams and overharvesting have far greater impacts.

Conservancy spokesperson Emma Helverson said that killing sea lions “is a kind of scapegoating when there are a lot of other actions we are choosing not to do that would have a larger impact.”

Sea lions, or pinnipeds, are protected under the Marine Mammal Protection Act.

However, since 2008 some 92 California sea lions have been lethally removed under such a permit at Bonneville Dam where the predators have targeted mostly spring chinook. The number of Steller sea lions at Bonneville now far outnumber California sea lions, according to a January 24, 2019 report on sea lion predation at the dam by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

In the spring of 2018, the report concludes, sea lions ate 3,112 salmonids (spring chinook and steelhead), 3 percent of the run.

And in 2018, the Oregon Department of Fish and Wildlife received a Sec. 120 permit to remove up to 93 California sea lions at Willamette Falls where they were targeting threatened wild winter steelhead and spring chinook. As of late May, ODFW had removed 33 of the pinnipeds at the Falls.

The new plan now out for review would expand the areas where lethal removal of sea lions is legal; it would allow the tribes to kill sea lions and it includes Steller sea lions, which until now NOAA has not been allowed to be lethally removed.

The Section 120 application by states and tribes is the first since Congress passed an amendment to the MMPA in December 2018. That amendment, spearheaded by the Pacific Northwest congressional delegation, passed with strong bipartisan support and offers greater flexibility to wildlife managers when determining if a sea lion should be lethally removed in waters that host ESA-listed runs of salmon or steelhead.

NOAA Fisheries is soliciting public comments on the application and additional information that should be considered by a Task Force that will be making the recommendation. The agency asks that comments are specific:

“In particular, we request information regarding:

Observations of sea lion predation activity on salmonids and eulachon within the geographic area established in section 120(f); and,

Information on areas where numbers of sea lions are concentrated within the geographic area established in section 120(f), including resting/haul out sites and locations where sea lions have been repeatedly observed taking salmonids and eulachon; and Dates when sea lions have been observed within the geographic area established in section 120(f),” the notice says.

The agency also wants to hear from the public the names and affiliations of experts from the academic and scientific community, tribes, federal and state agencies, and the private sector for consideration as potential Task Force members.

Around Indian Country

Land victory for Yakama Nation

A U.S. District Court has issued an order in Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation v. Klickitat County et al., affirming the reservation status of more than 121,000 acres within the southwestern corner of the Yakama Reservation, including Mt. Adams and the Glenwood Valley.

The Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation ceded certain rights to more than 10,000,000 acres of land for the rights reserved in the Treaty of 1855, including the right to the exclusive use and benefit of the 1.4 million acre Yakama Reservation.

The treaty includes a tract of land south of Mt. Adams known as “Tract D” within the reservation boundaries.

The United States outlined the boundaries on a treaty map in 1855, but the map was lost in government files until 1930.

Klickitat County argued at trial, before the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Washington, that the reservation boundaries were changed by Congress in 1904.

The alleged changes, Klickitat County argued, were based on an erroneous survey referenced in a surplus lands act passed while the treaty map was misplaced.

In the ruling Chief Judge Thomas Rice stated in the order, applying the canons of treaty construction, that the Yakama Nation would have naturally understood the Treaty of 1855 to include Tract D within the Yakama Reservation.

“The 1904 Act did not change the Treaty boundaries of the Yakama Reservation and did not effectuate a diminishment of the Reservation,” the Judge ruled.

YouthBuild recruiting for fall

Heart of Oregon YouthBuild is recruiting youth ages 16-24 yrs for our Fall 2019 cohort starting October 14.

YouthBuild works primarily with youth who either have dropped out or are on the verge of being dropped from traditional high school.

The YouthBuild members earn their GED, high school diploma, college credit, and job skills. They work on credit recovery and serving their communities through building affordable housing.

Members in the program divide their time between classroom, field (construction sites), and leadership development.

Through AmeriCorps service at YouthBuild they can earn the AmeriCorps Segal Education Award worth $1,612.43 towards post-secondary goals. This is a one year, 12-month, commitment to the program along with one year of follow-up services.

YouthBuild is hosting information sessions. You must attend one of the information sessions to be considered for the YouthBuild program.

Please bring a government issued photo ID, Birth Certificate, and Social Security card to the information session. You will need these for the program.

Contact Katie Bauer,

program assistant, at 541-526-1380 to sign up for one of the following information sessions:

- Thursday, September 12, 5-6:30 p.m., YouthBuild: 68797 George Cyrus Road, Sisters.
- Tuesday, September 24, 5-6 p.m., Deschutes County Juvenile: 737 SW Cascade, Redmond.

Canoe Journey: Paddle to Celilo 2023

Other host tribes succeeded “in collaboration with surrounding communities and towns, and they succeeded in partnering and pursuing these types of opportunities year after year,” Jefferson said in his Council report. “It takes planning, persistence, optimism, consistency, relations and presentation.”

The N’chi Wanapum Canoe Family of Warm Springs began in 2009, when the Confederated Tribes and Management—atwai Jody Calica was Secretary-Treasurer at the time—purchased the 36-foot canoe. Formal dedication and naming was in 2010 at Indian Park, with sponsorship from the Museum at Warm Springs. Three-hundred and fifty people were on hand for the dedication.

Since the start of the program the family has been on the past 11 journeys, involving close to 400 participants, raising approximately $350,000 to help cover expenses. The N’chi Wanapum mission and vision statements explain:

“The Warm Springs Canoe Project is for Native American youth of the Warm Springs Indian Reservation to connect, interact and bond with their adult community in a positive way inspiring and encouraging one another.

“The project is led by Native American youth of the Warm Springs Indian Reservation while adults and young adults serve as the advisors to encourage a sustainable and empowering project for generations to follow.”

And so far the project has been a success: This year twenty-three full-time participants—and another 35 supporters who joined along the way—made the Paddle to Lummi. Their community fundraising and Museum at Warm Springs helped cover the travel costs, with a grant through Health and Human Services.

As a way to help explain the goal of the Canoe Family, Jefferson concludes with a brief tribal story:

“For thousands of years our people of the big river used canoes to travel up, down and across the river as part of our livelihoods. The canoes were carved from ancient cedar trees, or woven using tule reeds for navigating lakes and small bodies of water. In the midst of moving inland to the reservation... our people slowly began to lose touch with our ancient art in the canoes and the spiritual journeys within.”

The Paddle to Celilo 2023 will help to meet this challenge.

More community notes...

Funeral arrangements for Bertson Simtustus are Private Dressing this Wednesday, September 11; Viewing and Services follow at 2 p.m. at the Madras Baptist Church, 85 NE A Street (across from the bowling alley). Open denomination.

Census 2020 on the reservation - Frequently asked questions

The Census also helps determine the allocation of representation in the Congress.

The Census is a series of questions such as your age and date of birth, your race, and sex. There are questions about the number of people in the household, and the relationship to the person answering the Census question. Is this a house or apartment or mobile home?

Census Day 2020 is April 1. There will be a number of jobs on the reservation, from field counters to clerks and supervisory positions. These are good-paying temporary jobs. (More information on page 9.)

The 2020 Census is coming up sooner than you think.

In an effort to make sure that everyone gets counted, especially on the reservation, the Warm Springs Complete Count Committee is sharing important information about the Census to the community.

More information will follow once Census Day gets closer. In the meantime, here are answers to some frequently asked Census questions:

Question: What is the Census?

The census is a short questionnaire that asks about who you are and where you live. It's the way to count every person living in the United States.

Who administers the census?

The U.S. Census Bureau is the government agency that counts everyone in the country. For the reservation, the Warm Springs Complete Count Committee is organizing the local effort.

How often does the Census happen?

The Census happens once every ten years.

Why is the census taken?

The U.S. Constitution requires that everyone living in the entire country is counted every 10 years.

When was the first Census?

The first census was taken in 1790.

When is Census Day 2020?

Wednesday, April 1, 2020 is Census Day.

What is a Complete Count Committee?

A Complete Count Committee is a partnership among government and community members who work to spread awareness about the census to hard to reach communities.

Why does it matter if everyone is counted?

There are a lot of reasons everyone should be counted: Money is a big reason, as the count is used to allocate federal dollars for services. Fair Representation is another reason. The Census determines the allocation of representatives in Congress.

A third reason is quality of life. Businesses use data from the census to decide where to build facilities that offer employment opportunities; the local government uses data for public safety and emergency preparedness; and developers use the data from each census to help decide where to build new homes or revitalize neighborhoods.

Is it safe to share my information on the census?

Yes. Federal law does not allow the Census Bureau to share private information with anyone. Your answers can only be used to produce statistics/data that is used by others.

Stay tuned for more information about the 2020 Census and get ready to be counted.

Buy-Back review at Tribal Council

Charles Jackson, of the Office of the Special Trustee, updated Tribal Council on the Land Buy-Back Program for Tribal Nations. The program is wrapping up across Indian Country, with a final Buy-Back tribe being the Wind River, Mr. Jackson said.

His report included a break-down of the payouts to all of the tribes that participated in the Buy-Back, including Warm Springs.

According to the report, Warm Springs had a relatively low land Buy-Back rate. However, the Confederated Tribes already have ownership of most of the reservation land, said Councilman Glendon Smith.

The Warm Springs Buy-Back program included 192 individuals, with 766 identified as potential sellers. Total payout was $826,654 for the Buy-Back of 1,350 acres. More than $4 million was available for the Warm Springs program.

The Warm Springs Buy-Back numbers are small compared to some of the other tribes, though circumstances are different for other tribes, sometimes including a patchwork reservation structure of tribal and individual ownership.

Umatilla is such a tribe. For comparison with Warm Springs the number of participants in the Umatilla program was about 1,500 members with total payout of more than $20 million, and Buy-Back of almost 17,000 acres. Overall according to the report:

Total Buy-Back for all the participating tribes was almost $3.5 billion, with the Buy-Back of more than 2.5 million acres. The Buy-Back Program has been part of the Cobell lawsuit settlement with the federal government.
