Seniors Day this Friday at high school

This fall there are 23 seniors on the Madras High School White Buffalos varsity football team. This Friday, October 25—Seniors Day at the high school—they will play a final regular season home game, as family and friends pay tribute for the winning season.

Like the record number of seniors on the football squad, overall attendance is up at the high school. And with this comes the recent high graduation numbers. The Class of 2019 saw eighty-seven students from Warm Springs graduate from Madras High School—the most ever.

Explaining this success, school liaison Butch David said, "We have a lot to do here—The kids stay busy, and they want to come to school."

Excellence in the core curriculum is the reason to go to school; yet a brief tour of Madras High shows there is much more going on—The goal of all programs being to open doors for every student to follow his or her own dream.

After graduation a student's goal might be higher education, or military service, or one of any number of career paths. And the high school has many teachers and mentors to help in any and all

New at the high school this year is principal Brian Crook. Mr. Crook brings 23 years of education experience from the Bend-LaPine District.

An overall goal at the school, Crook says, is to continue the graduation rate success. "We're at around 92 percent, so it becomes harder now to improve on that. We can always try for 95 percent," he said.

Joining Mr. Crook at the high school this year is assistant principal Mark Stewart, who comes to Madras with 14 years experience in the Sisters district. "He's been a nice addition to the high school. He's fitting in well with our staff," Mr. Crook said.

New this year at the high school is the Academic Support Center, and the Mentor program. The Academic Support Center gives some students extra time and support. This is especially helpful for ninth-graders, as they make the transition to the high school, Brown said.

The Mentor program is also helpful for freshmen. The student can have a mentor, whether it be a teacher or some other school staff person, to talk about grades, behavior, or any issue that may come up.

This year Lindsey Buccafurni is coordinating the Futures Center. This is the post-graduation planning program established a few years ago by Kathy Sisk.

Lindsey joins the Futures Center from her previous work as enrollment counselor at Central Oregon Community Col-

District budget meetings

Tribal Council has set the district meetings on the 2020 budget proposal.

The Seekseequa District meeting is scheduled for Tuesday evening, October 29 at the Seekseequa Fire Hall. Dinner will be at 6 and the meeting at 7.

The Simnasho District meeting is set for Wednesday, October 30 at the Simnasho Longhouse. Dinner at 6 and the meeting at 7.

The Agency District meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, November 5 at the Agency Longhouse. Dinner at 5:30 and the meeting at 6.

These dates are set, though are subject to change at district Council members' discretion.

The budget as posted this month by Council includes $1.4 million in projected cuts.

The goal has been to share the cuts as equitably as possible within the organization.

The Senior Pension remains at the current level, under the proposal.

A Happy Halloween from Warm Springs artist Travis Bobb.

For Halloween on the rez

Halloween fun times in Warm Springs start this Wednesday evening, October 23, as Recreation hosts the Great Pumpkin

Stop by at the Community Center for the fun: Carvings begin at 5:30 p.m., and judging at 7:30. For sale will be burgers and fry bread, Mummy dogs and homemade chili. The pumpkin carving contest categories include:

Best Classic Addams Family

Spookiest. Most Creative. Best Silliest Pumpkin. Best NDN

Simnasho this Sunday, October 27 will introduce a new event: It's the Red Lake Costume Run For the Health of It. This is a free event, though cash donations are encouraged for #TeamRylan. Volunteers welcome.

The Costume Run events include a 15-mile team relay run, a 5k run/walk, and a 1-mile fun run/ walk. Registration opens at 7:30 a.m. with start time at 8:30. In addition to the races there will be a costume contest, haunted house, snacks, water, prizes and t-shirts for participants, while supplies last.

Nite Out

Recreation and the Community Wellness Center are then hosting the Spooky Indian Nite Out and Drummerz Jam Session on Monday evening, October 28. Potluck dinner is at 5:30, and the powwow at 6:30.

Then on Halloween will be the Employee Costume Contest at the Community Center, from 11:45 a.m. to 12:45 p.m.

And Halloween evening will see the Spooky Ooky Addams Family Style Kooky Halloween, hosted by Recreation at the Community Center. There will be a costume contest with categories:

Best Overall Spookiest. Best Cutest/Silliest. Best Classic Halloween Character. Most Creative Costume. Best Duo (any two characters).

Trunk-or-Treat—hotsed by Health and Wellness, and Recreation—will be from 4 to 6 p.m. at the ball fields. Set-up starts at 3. This year there are prizes for first, second and third-place Best Decorated Trunk, following the theme of Spooky Ooky Addams Family Style Kooky Halloween.

For Trunk-or-Treat, Victory Lane and the northeast corner of the parking lot entrance will be blocked to vehicle traffic, allowing walkers on at 4 p.m. for safety of the youth.

The Halloween Carnival at the center then starts at 6.

At Early Chilhood Center

The Early Childhood Education Center will host the Annual Lil' Pumpkins Parade on Halloween morning from 10:30 to 11:30.

This is a fun time for ECE classrooms to go trick-or-treating through the hallways of ECE, and then parade across to the Warm Springs Clinic.

Geo Visions provides unique service

Warm Springs Geo Visions provides a unique service in the region, and is a growing enterprise of the Confederated Tribes. Geo Visions works for the protection and preservation of cultural resources of the tribes.

Projects of the enterprise include archaeological research at specific sensitive sites, with oral history research and indigenous knowledge to give the tribal context to each site.

Many of the projects are within the Ceded Lands of the Confederated Tribes. The Ceded Lands are large—roughly 11 million square miles, ranging from near the Idaho border to the Cascades.

These are traditional lands of the tribes, in part ceded by the Treaty of 1855. The tribes kept the right to use areas of the Ceded Lands that are the usual and accustomed places of tribal generations, from time immemorial.

Clearly, there are countless cultural and historical sites of the tribes within the Ceded Lands. Geo Visions works to ensure the protection and preservation of these significant sites.

Some of the main Geo Visions clients are the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Portland General Electric, the Bonneville Power Administration, the Bureau of Land Management and U.S. Forest Service.

These agencies are responsible for the security of tribal cultural sites within their jurisdictions. Geo Visions helps provide this environmental compliance service.

The Ceded Lands are large, yet Geo Visions foresees a chance for expansion beyond this boundary.

For example, the solar industry is growing in the Northwest, and this requires environmental compliance services, said Angelina Howell, Geo Visions director.

Her vision for the enterprise is as a full environmental compliance service. A step toward expansion in services, and in the service area, could be to open a

At the recent open house, Museum at Warm Springs Education director Tamera Moody and museum development director Angela Smith talk with Alex Atkins of Geo Visions. They were discussing the archaeological artifacts display, plus partnership opprortunities between the museum at Geo Visions.

Geo Visions office in Portland, Ms. Howell said.

All of the large clients, plus potential new ones, are headquartered in Portland, and a Geo Visions office there would facilitate enterprise growth, Howell said.

She looks to the Cherokee Nation as a model: The Cherokee environmental services enterprise is very large, generating multi-millions of dollars in revenue.

Geo Visions is not close to that size, yet the potential is there to follow the Cherokee model, Ms. Howell said.

This would go toward another goal of Geo Visions: To increase job opportunities for tribal members, especially young people interested in the field. Archaeology can involve field work, ideal for people who want to be out of an office; plus work in developing analysis and reports.

Geo Visions is a division of Warm Springs Ventures, the economic development enterprise of the tribes. For now Geo Visions has five employees. Working with Ms. Howell are:

Larry Squiemphen, Geo Visions GIS manager and oral history coordinator, who has been there since the enterprise began 15 years ago.

Lindon Hylton, primary investigator and lead archaeologist.

Alex Atkins, lead crew chief and archaeologist.

Examples of more recent kinds of artificats.

And Brandon Gilliland, junior archaeologist

Geo Visions hosted an open house last week at their office, housed with Ventures at the industrial park.

On hand were the students from the Warm Springs Bridges program. They were specially invited to give them an idea of the work involved in the archaeology field.

At the open house Alex Atkins had a display of arrow heads and tools of obsidian and a substance called cryptocrystalline silicate, or CCS, a material also used for making tools and arrowheads.

Interestingly, obsidian artifacts can be analyzed to determine exactly where they originated. An artifact found in Washington, for instance, can be traced to an obsidian source hundreds of miles away, Mr. Atkins explained.

The students from Warm Springs Bridges visited the Geo Visions open house.

A good year for the roots and berries

Laurie Danzuka of Warm Springs Ventures gave a First Foods presentation at the recent Geo Visions open house. Laurie is a First Foods gatherer for the Simnasho district.

Her display included a kupn, handed down from generations that will in time be handed down in turn, Ms. Danzuka said. "Kathleen Heath handed this down to me and my sister," Laurie said of the kupn.

She gathered roots and huckleberries this year with Nola Queahpama, Suzie Slockish, friends and family. "We had a good year for the roots and berries," Laurie said.

Her presentation included wapus baskets. When out gathering, "The goal is always to have a full wapus," Laurie says.

Like the kupn and wapus, the knowledge of the First Foods is handed down from generation to generation, she says.

Haunted Warewhouse

Warm Springs Fire Management will host the Haunted Warehouse Wednesday and Thursday, October 30-31, at the Forestry warehouse.

Proceeds from the Haunted Warehouse will

Letters to the editor

Developments at Early Chilhood Education

Dear Parents, Guardians and Community,

The Early Childhood Education Center has had many changes recently that we would like you to be aware of.

We have had some change in staffing, and we are experiencing a shortage of teachers and teacher aids.

You may see different teachers or aids in the classrooms: This is to ensure we are meeting the required ratio to adequately serve the children and ensure their safety.

You are always welcome to volunteer in classrooms. If this is something you would like to do, please contact the front office for more information.

We are currently in the process of gathering information required to apply for a new facility, construction or major renovation funding through Head Start and Child Care Development Fund.

This process will take time and we are working with our Education general manager, Tribal Council liaison, funders and Utilities general manger on acquiring the correct documentation to continue this process.

Until this process is complete please understand we are doing everything possible to maintain the building for health and safety of the children.

We have contracted Jefferson County plumbing, who has already started work. We have also contracted Adams Flooring to do repairs in certain rooms, and we have a contract in place with monthly maintenance on pest control through Sprague.

For health and safety reasons the kitchen is still not being used. Simple meals and snacks are being prepped and served from the G-pod area.

Tribal Environmental Health Specialist Russell Graham and our state licensing specialist have both been to the prep area and approved this arrangement.

We are in compliance with Child and Adult Food Program, who reimburses the tribe for the meals we serve. Our meals follow the USDA guidelines and are reviewed by a licensed nutritionist to meet all required components (dairy, meat, etc.).

Upcoming renovations in G-pod are expected to start in November. We have a signed Memorandum of Understanding with the Central Oregon Disability Support Network, who has written a grant to provide services such as speech pathology, occupational therapy and physical therapy to many of the children in our community.

The Disability Support Network has collaborated with others to make this happen, and the grant will help provide roof and room repairs to G2 and G3.

If any parents, guardians and community members would like to see any of our recent reports—such as the Fire Marshall report, Air Quality report, and state reports—they can be found at the front office of ECE.

We would like to thank everyone who is working hard at helping maintain our building, finding resources and collaborations.

Most of all thank you for your patience and understanding through all of this.

If you have any questions or concerns, you can contact the Early Childhood Education Center at 541-553-3241. Warm Regards, Casandra Moses, Manager, Early Childhood Education.

Indian-Preneurship starting soon

The Warm Springs Community Action Team and Tribal Credit are getting ready for a new series of Indianpreneurship—A Native American Journey into Business.

This is a chance to learn the basics you will need to start your business. Indianpreneurship will present business information for community members with varying experience, current or prospective business owners.

Are you unsure about what type of business you want to start, or if you want to be in business? Indianpreneurship will help answer these and other questions.

To register call the Community Action Team at 541-553-3148. Or email:

Dustin@wscat.org

The first series of classes will be on Saturday, November 2; and the next series will be on the following Saturday, November 9. For the first classes the topics are:

Free legal services to members

The Warm Springs Community Action Team is hosting the Native American Program—Legal Aid Services of Oregon.

The program is a state-wide, non-profit law firm promoting equal access to justice: They offer free civil legal services for eligible tribal members. These are the upcoming dates when the service will be available at the Community Action Team office, 1136 Paiute Avenue, Warm Springs (all sessions available from 10 a.m. to noon):

Tuesday, October 29. Wednesday, November 13. Tuesday, December 3 and Wednesday, December 18.

Walk-ins are welcome during the above times and dates. You may also arrange an appointment by calling 1-800-546-0534 or 503-223-9483.

If the Native American Program cannot help with your legal need, they may provide you with another legal resource as available and appropriate to your need.

Flea market

It is Flea Market time coming up at the fair-grounds in Madras. The market will be on Sunday, November 17.

I am reaching out to the Warm Springs community to come and sell crafts and other items.

We have several 8-foot by 10-foot booths still available. In addition we've lowered the cost of the booths from $95 to just $75.

And I have created a discount code just for the Madras show. At check out the buyer would put in the discount code, and receive $5 off. The code is 'madrascofm'.

See you at the market! Thank you.

Aerobic exercise improves brain health

by Alicia Oberholzer W.S. Holistic Health

Top brain researchers have referred to exercise as 'Miracle Gro' for the brain.

This is because studies have shown that aerobic exercise causes a release of proteins that help with the growth and connectivity of neurons.

Neurons are the building blocks of the nervous system and play a key role in transmitting information throughout our brains and bodies.

Exercise has also been shown to impact our brain's longevity, structure, and function.

Scientists have found that participating in an aerobic fitness program can increase the brain's volume, reduce risk of dementia, spark creativity, and improve higherlevel thinking.

Fitness maximizes learning potential

A study at Naperville Central High School in Illinois looked at the impact of establishing a strong health and fitness culture in an academic setting.

While several schools across the country have cut physical education programs in response to budget pressures, Naperville took a chance by trialing a program that allowed students to sign up for Physical Education directly before their most challenging class.

Since the start of this pro-

Alicia Oberholzer

gram six years ago, students who took PE right before English read on average half a year ahead of those who did not; and students who participated in PE before math scored significantly better on their standardized tests.

Exercise elevates mood, reduces anxiety

A large study out of Harvard University found that individuals with depression who performed strength training twice a week experienced significant improvement in their symptoms compared to those who did not.

Several studies have also concluded that aerobic exercise is a helpful tool to reduce anxiety.

This is due to improved blood flow to the brain, as well as the release of important proteins and moodboosting hormones.

How to get started

Next time you have a work, life or school related challenge, set your brain up for success by enjoy ing an hour of movement

Take a walk with friends, toss a ball at the park, attend an exercise class, or go for a run.

This pre-learning exercise can boost your brain's potential to acquire knowledge and develop new skills.

Make a goal of participating in 30 minutes of moderate intensity aerobic exercise daily. Examples of aerobic exercise include walking, biking, or swimming.

If 30 minutes sounds too challenging, start daily consistency and work your way up to the half hour duration.

You can also break up the sessions throughout the day, such as 15 minutes performed twice a day or 10 minutes three times per day.

Strength training can be performed at home, as there are several exercises that do not require any equipment. Examples include squats, lunges, pushups, planks, etc.

If you prefer to add resistance, all the equipment that you need is available for free use at the Warm Springs Community Cen-

There are even complimentary personal trainers to help get you started and keep you safe in the weight room.

Water work continues

Warm Springs Public Utilities this week began work on the Agency domestic water system.

Utilities is working with the contractor Gelco to finish the replacement and upgrade of the pressure reducing valves.

The work is expected to be complete this week.

Utilities intends to have the reservoirs filled, so as to minimize potential water outages.

Please be aware that some users may experience outages for short periods of time while the pressure reducing valve work progresses.

If the situation calls for it, the Water division of Utilities will issue a boil water notice in compliance with EPA requirements.

If you have any questions or concerns, please direct those to the Public Utilities Department at 541-553-3246.

'Essential Understandings' looks at Language

The Warm Springs Education Branch this year developed the document that will guide the teaching of the tribal curriculum in the public schools of the region.

The curriculum is scheduled for implementation in the school district in the fall of 2020.

Education developed the Warm Springs document with its Culture and Heritage Department, elders, and state and other tribal partners.

The document is Essential Understandings of Oregon Native Americans—Tribal History, Shared History. This is the introductory document that will lead to the curriculum to be taught in the public schools, in response to state and federal education laws.

Essential Understanding 7 is Language. Here is the text Essential Understanding—Language:

Tribal languages have endured direct attack, and although some were not able to survive, many have endured

Languages connect tribal people to place, and maintain connections to ancestors. Language remains a direct conduit to important aspects of traditional tribal life.

Language carries more than words; it carries worldviews and ways of being. Each tribe has their own district language(s), which include varied dialects.

Background

Tribal languages have been and continue to be attacked through direct governmental policies and strategies, including tactics of assimilation, boarding schools, forced religions, and settler colonialism.

While some languages are sleeping, many languages are thriving, and more continue to be revitalized in the hands of tribal members Essential Understandings of Oregon Native Americans who work diligently to retain one of our most important cultural connections.

Because of disease, boarding schools, forced assimilation and other destructive efforts, Oregon indigenous languages are in various states of revitalization.

The Native American Languages Act of 1990 was enacted by Congress to declare that the cultures and languages of Native Americans is unique, and the United States has the responsibility to act together with Native Americans to ensure the survival of these unique cultures and languages. It also accorded a special status to Native Americans, a status that recognizes distinct cultural and political rights, including the right to continue separate identities.

The act states, "It is the policy of the United States to preserve, protect and promote the rights of freedom of Native Americans to use, practice and develop Native American languages."

Senate Bill 690 (2001) directed the Teacher Standards and Practices Commission (TSPC) to establish an American Indian Languages teaching license. Each American Indian tribe may develop a written and oral test that applicants must successfully complete in order to determine their qualifications to teach the tribe's Native language.

This allows a holder of such a license to teach in a school district, public charter school, education service district, community college or state university.

SB 690 prohibits the TSPC from requiring an applicant to hold a teacher education academic degree, complete a specific amount of education, or complete a teacher program to receive an American Indian Languages teaching license.

However, the measure requires that a holder of the new license employed by a school district, public charter, or education service district participate in a technical assistance program with an experienced teacher.

An estimated 25 to 35 Native languages have been spoken in Oregon, though only nine are spoken fluently today.

Native Americans consider the loss of languages to be an urgent program, and have taken steps to record, catalog and develop teaching curricula and training for Native languages.

Native Helpline awarded $2.7 million to expand services

The U.S. Department of Justice has awarded the StrongHearts Native Helpline two grants from the Office of Victims of Crime

The total of the two grants is almost $2.77 million. The funding will help StrongHearts to enhance domestic violence and sexual assault response services.

About StrongHearts Native Helpline

Created by and built to serve tribal communities across the U.S., the StrongHearts Native Helpline is a culturally-appropriate, anonymous, confidential and no-cost service, dedicated to serving Native American survivors of domestic violence and dating violence, along with their concerned family members and friends.

By dialing 1-844-7NA-TIVE (1-844-762-8483), callers can connect one-on-one with knowledgeable StrongHearts advocates who can provide immediate support and a connection to Native resources, enabling survivors to find safety and live lives free of abuse.

StrongHearts is available daily from 6 a.m. to 9 p.m. Pacific Time.

Callers reaching out after hours may connect with the National Domestic Violence Hotline, 1-800-799-SAFE by selecting option 1. Also see:

www.strongheartshelpline.

StrongHearts will use the recent $2.7 million-plus in grants to extend the helpline's operating hours to 24 hours a day, develop advocacy training and services to assist survivors of sexual violence, as well as implement digital chat services to help increase accessibility and address caller safety.

Launch dates for the digital chat service and 24-7 operating hours will be released at a later time.

"Considering Native women are 2.5 times more likely to be raped or be a victim of sexual assault than other groups, the StrongHearts Native Helpline serves as a potential lifeline for survivors of these crimes," said Lori Jump, Assistant Director for StrongHearts.

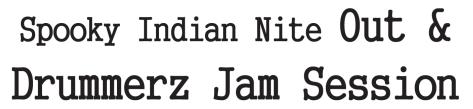

"We also know in remote areas, some victims may not have phone service or may fear their abusive partner overhearing them in an attempt to call, so providing a digital chat service option is crucial for increasing access for everyone in our communities."

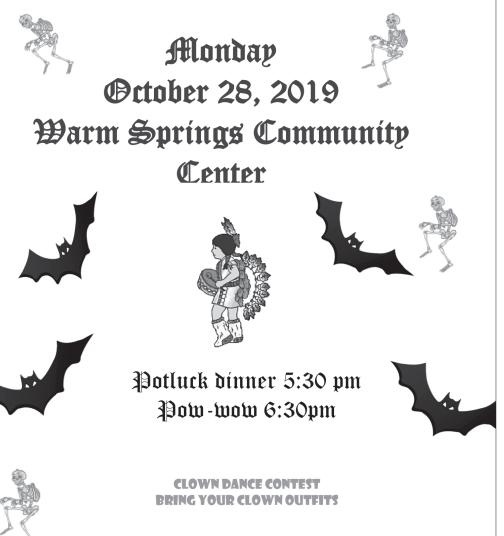

American Indians and Alaska Natives suffer from the highest rates of violence in the U.S., according to the National Institute of Justice.

In March 2017, the StrongHearts Native Helpline began providing callers culturally-based support for domestic violence and dating violence, along with a connection to Native resources.

Grounded in an understanding of Native cultures, tribal sovereignty and traditions, Native advocates are specially trained to provide callers with emotional support, crisis intervention, personalized safety planning, and a referral to a Native and Tribal service provider if needed. Read the Spilyay

Marie Knight on replica basket weaving

Two sessions are coming up on weaving replicas of traditional Plateau-style root baskets, or wapus.

The classes, taught by Marie Knight, will be in Portlnad, at Seagrape bath + body, 319 Northeast Wygant Street.

The first session— Starting Your Basket will be from 10 a.m. to noon on Ssaturday, November 2.

The second session—Finishing Your basket—will be at the same time on Sunday, November 10.

For tribal members the sessions are free.

Patricipants will learn how to weave small round replicas of the traditional root baskets.

The actual wapus baskets are used for harvesting camus, piaxi, luux and other roots and traditional medicines found in the region.

The miniature baskets make perfect gifts and keepsakes.

The November 2 weaving session will include a short information presentation on the differet styles of roots baskets.

Yakama, Lummi call for dam removals

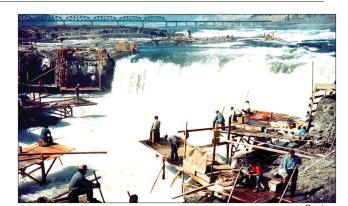

On Indigenous Peoples' Day this month the Yakama and Lummi Nations urged the removal of the lower Columbia River dams.

The statement is part of a broader call for federal repudiation of the offensive doctrine of Christian discovery, which the U.S. uses to justify federal actions that impair the rights of Native Nations.

Yakama Nation chairman JoDe Goudy spoke at Celilo Village on Indigenous People's Day.

"The false religious doctrine of Christian discovery was used by the United States to perpetuate crimes of genocide and forced displacement against Native Peoples. The Columbia River dams were built on this false legal foundation, and decimated the tribal fisheries, traditional foods and cultural sites," Mr. Goudy said.

Before the dams, Celilo Falls fisheries.

High school: New at Futures Center

Lindsey helps with planning for higher education from choosing a college, to financial aid help, etc.—or any other plan a student might have in mind.

At the Futures Center she hosts meetings among students, representatives of colleges and other organizations. To give an idea of the services at the Futures Center, here is a look at a recent calendar week at Futures:

Monday—A visit with the Oregon National Guard. Tuesday—The University of Oregon.

Wednesday—Education benefits for Native students with Carroll Dick, Warm Springs Higher Educaton.

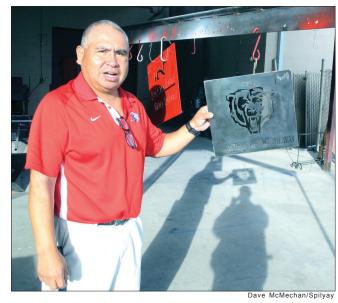

Thursday—Central Oregon Community College Automotive program.

Thursday evening—Financial Aid night.

Friday—Central Oregon Community College Health Careers.

(The Spilyay in coming weeks will be looking at different programs at the high school-JROTC, Wood Shop, Small Engine Repair, Future Farmers of American, to name a few.)

If you are experiencing issues with your Warm Springs Telecom services, please call 541-615-0555. You must call in for technicians to respond, troubleshoot and resolve your issue.

School liaison Butch David shows example of the work produced at the high school Shop class.
