Forestry, Council look at 2020 timber sale

Timber practices on the reservation have changed greatly over the recent decades. The 2020 Willow Summit timber sale is a good example.

Natural Resources and Forestry reviewed the sale last week with Tribal Council. Some of their discussion illustrates how the forestry practices have changed, specifically how the allowable cut has by necessity been reduced.

The Willow Summit sale will be in the northwest area of the reservation, by Willow Springs and Summit Butte, the features that give their names to the sale, said Matt Jimenez, the tribes' area forester.

The sale will involve about 26.5 million board feet of timber, with revenue going to the tribes' general fund, including areas such as the Senior Pension, funded through such projects.

Forestry and Natural Resources began looking at the aspects of this sale back in 2018, Mr. Jimenez said. The inter-disciplinary team developed a target area of about 17,000 acres from which to develop the sale. Trees in the area are from plantings of decades ago, now coming within the harvestable inventory.

Over the past two years the team has developed a plan for mitigation of impacts to huckleberries, wildlife and fisheries, fire, etc.

Some of the discussion with Council showed how the reservation timber practice has seen a dramatic change: Most obviously, the 26.5 million board feet is within the sustainable level as determined by Natural Resources, Forestry and the committee. Sustainability means the harvest of timber is below the amount of the forest growth.

The board feet of the Willow Summit sale can be compared with sales of three decades ago, for instance, when the reservation allowable cut was more than 100 million board feet.

To ensure long-term reservation forest health, "It is getting harder to develop a sale," Mr. Jimenez said, as sustainability now is a top priority of the tribal forest practice.

From Housing

The Warm Springs Housing Authority invites the community to an information session on from noon to 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday, February 19.

The meeting will be in the gymnasium of the former elementary school. Lunch will be served.

Topics will be current and upcoming Housing projects, including items such as permanent supportive housing, a project to help address homelessness; and a tax credit housing development, among other subjects.

Forty-Third Lincoln's

The Confederated Tribes and Simnasho community this month hosted the Forty-Third Annual Lincoln's Powwow.

These are some of the images from Saturday at the powwow, as captured by photographer Jayson Smith.

(Powwow results in the next Spilyay Tymoo.)

2 art awards this year

Through an exchange this year, the Oregon Folklife Network is partnering with a prestigious European museum for the event Exploring Indigeneity, Place, Traditions and Transmission. The Folklife Network for its part is examining Pacific Northwest Native American heritage, through women's traditions or regalia making and storytelling.

The Folklife Network has chosen Roberta Kirk as a representative of the Northwest, for her work with Wasco bead-, shell work and regalia. As part of the program, Ms. Kirk will travel to Romania, in southeastern Europe, presenting at the Alexandru Stefulescu Gorj Museum.

Roberta was chosen for this honor along with Esther Stutzman, of the Coos-Kalapuya, who will demonstrate storytelling and language revitalization. Through the exchange, the Romanian artists will present traditional folk costumes, rug weaving, icon painting and woodcarvings: These will be at the University of Oregon's museums, and U of O Knight Library in May.

In itself this honor would make for a memorable year. Yet Ms. Kirk this month also heard from the First Peoples Fund—a national organization supporting Native American artists and culture bearers. The First Peoples Fund selection committee named four individuals as recipients of the 2020 Jennifer Easton Community Spirit Award.

This year Roberta joins three other artists as the recipients of this award. With this Community Spirit award the First People's Fund "recognizes exceptional artists who have shown a continued commitment to perpetuating their art, and sharing within their communities."

With the First Peoples Fund Community Spirit Award, Roberta will be presenting her beadwork, leatherwork, fashion design and culinary arts. The other award recipients—two from Washington and one from New Mexico—will show basketry techniques, weaving, painting and sculpture.

With these two recognition honors 2020 clearly will be a memorable year of culture and traditional arts for Roberta Kirk.

Council, staff discuss 'IRMP III' process

The Integrated Resource Management Plans of the Confederated Tribes provide a framework for planning and managing the lands of the reservation. At this point there are two Integrated Resource Management Plans: IRMP I and IRMP II, guiding the management of the forest land of the reservation, and the rangeland of the reservation.

The third component of the overall approach calls for what has been called 'IRMP III,' which would guide the management and use of land in the residential, commercial and industrial areas of the reservation, particularly the Warm Springs area.

The first two components—Forest, and Rangeland—have been in effect for a number of years, as approved by Tribal Council. The third component, regarding the zoning and management of the residential and industrial areas, is yet to be reviewed, modified as needed, and adopted by Tribal Council.

This is an important part of the reservation planning: The third component of the integrated planning would "provide a balanced approach between protection and utilization of tribal resources within the community and industrial areas..." according to an previous draft resolution of Council.

Governmental Affairs director Louie Pitt, and Natural Resources general manager Robert Brunoe updated Tribal Council last week on the status of 'IRMP III.' The document could eventually go by a different title, such as 'Community Zoning,' as it would effectively formalize existing zoning designations.

Tribal Council members said that approaching the existing draft document would be much more productive if the tribes had a tribal planner on staff. The planner position has been vacant for some time, since former planner Lonny Macy left.

"We need a planner if we want to get a finished product before the community," said Councilman Wilson Wewa. The draft document is more than 100 pages long. The introduction itself indicates why a planner would be essential in its review, and eventual adoption and implementation:

"The Integrated Resource Management Plan for the Community and Industrial Areas (IRMP III) contains six chapters and appendices.... This management plan provides guidelines for the stewardship of human and natural resources within the community and industrial areas, and serves as a basis for making management decisions on the Warm Springs Reservation...."

An issue is that the existing pay scale for the tribal planner is not competitive with many off-reservation communities such as cities and counties. An immediate issue then, in adopting the 'IRMP III' document, would be to find a way to adjust the tribal planner pay scale to attract the qualified candidate.

Back to Boards classes are held Thursday and Fridays the third week of every other month. This Maternal Community Health program provides fabric and boards for the expecting and recently delivered mothers. Classes are from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Family Resource Center conference room. The next classes are Thursday and Friday, February 20-21. Breakfast and lunch are served. If you have any questions please feel free to contact Sheryl or Allie at Community Health 541-553-2460.

Boards, committee positions

Tribal Council announced openings for eight tribal committees and boards. These include the Water Control Board, Telecom, Composite Products, TERO, Ventures, Warm Springs Power and Water, Credit and the Cannabis Enterprise.

The deadline to apply is February 18 for the Cannabis Board; and February 24 for the others. Send a letter of interest and a resume to Secretary-Treasurer/CEO Michele Stacona. PO Box 455, Warm Springs, OR 97761.

5 CP Enterprise board positions

The Tribal Council of the Confederated Tribes is seeking to fill the five positions on the Warm Springs CP Enterprise—the Cannabis Project—board of directors. The five positions are in three classes:

Class I shall consist of two individuals with the terms ending on December 31, 2022.

Class II shall consist of two individuals with terms ending on December 31, 2020.

Class III shall consist of one individual with term ending on December 31, 2021.

Successful applicants must pass a background check, as required by any banking institution.

Letters of interest and resume of interested applicants should be submitted to Michele Stacona, Secretary-Treasurer/CEO. PO Box 455. Warm Springs, OR 97761.

Authorization letter may be picked up at the administration building, or will be mailed to all applicants for a criminal and credit background check to be completed by the S-T's office. Information is confidential to the Office of the S-T. Deadline to submit letter and resume: No later than February 18, 2020.

Prevention survey to guide services

Prevention and the Confederated Tribes are conducting an anonymous survey of tribal members. This survey will help the tribes in the collection of information, so that alcohol and drug prevention services and programs can be adapted and targeted to meet our needs.

The information you give will be kept completely confidential. None of your personal identifying information will be connected to your answers.

W.S. Prevention

Some of the items that will be awarded to participants at the conclusion of the survey.

The data will be returned to the tribe in a format that does not allow the information to be traced to any individual tribal member—No one will be able to trace any of your answers back to you.

The Prevention Program has a grant to provide alcohol and drug prevention activities to the community. We want to make sure that the community's voice is heard, so we are asking you to fill out the survey. Here is the link:

surveygizmo.com/s3/5317383/WS-PFS-Community-Survey-2019

The online survey is in addition to paper surveys of community members who are not employees. Please note:

- It should take about 10 minutes and goes directly to our contracted data analyst (answers are encrypted and no email addresses are linked to answers).
- Your responses are voluntary and private.
- Please respond as honestly as possible by checking the box or filling in the blank.

Once your data is collected, there is the option to enter your name (different link than the one containing your answers) into a raffle drawing. Five items with an estimated value of $30 per item will be awarded at the end of the survey collection period.

The survey link can also be accessed through the Warm Springs Prevention Team Facebook Page.

Your valuable input will help us plan prevention activities for our community.

Thank you!

Complete Count staff plan 2020 census

Serving as the Confederated Tribes Complete Count Committee, Health and Human Services general manager Caroline Cruz and Human Resources director Cheryl Tom met with staff last week, planning the community approach to the 2020 census.

When it comes to the census, the tribes—like other rural areas, and especially reservations—are an undercounted part of the state, according to census data. This results in the loss of essential federal funding, as allocated by population. As the census happens only once every 10 years; so missing parts of the local population has a long-term impact.

The 2020 Census begins soon: The official start date is April 1, though tribal individuals and households can begin submitting their information in March.

The count will then continue for several weeks, during which time the hope is that all residents of the reservation are accounted for in the 2020 count.

As we begin the process, the Complete Count Committee team will be reaching out at community events, door-to-door, with literature and on-air information, any and all means to help ensure a fair representation of the reservation. Some points mentioned at the Count Committee meeting last week:

Whenever possible on the reservation, the head of the household should accurately be identified as Native American on the census form.

The tribal households will be submitting their information online. The census form cannot be mailed to the homes, as the post office boxes are the mail centers for nearly all the households.

Making the computers available, and assisting with the submission, will be part of the outreach.

Night Out in February

The NDN Night Out Powwow and Social Dance is coming up next Friday, February 21 at the Community Center.

The evening starts at 5:30 p.m. with a meal, then the powwow and dancing will follow at 6 p.m. All dancers and drummers are welcome. Master of Ceremonies will be Carlos Calica. For More information you can call 541-553-3243.

The Warm Springs Complete Count Committee is asking every household on the reservation to participate in the 2020 Census. On the census form an American Indian can identify as both Native, and as a member of another race—But the only way to ensure that you are included in all the counts as American Indian is to check just that one box on the form.

Number 24

I guess when it’s your time, it’s your time. I’m sure you all know of the NBA’s All Star Kobi Bryant’s helicopter death. I was shocked when I first heard of his death. I was watching CBS News on my tv in Eugene. The crash happened when the helicopter flew into a mountain, going through a lot of fog. It was the third week of January 2020.

I Warm Springs we have many great basketball players. I would be happy to see an Indian from Warm Springs become an NBA player, like Michael Jordan, Clyde Drexler, or even like Kobe Bryant. Thank you.

Heartfelt thank you

A huge heartfelt Thank You out to all family and friends of our Loved One—now our Elder Audwai Lillian Jo Blackwolf—who came together to help in one way or another in the family’s time of need, when she passed on in our home.

Thanks to the St. Charles Hospice Palliative Care Team. They were a huge help to the family in helping take care of her in the home, providing specialty care services from the beginning to the end.

Thanks to our the Vital Stats Department, Michelle Stacona, Secretary-Treasurer, and the Utilities Department staff for their hard work delivering the benches and making casket liner, delivering the casket to the home and driving the bus from our home to ALH to Simnasho Cemetery; and for digging the grave.

Thank you Sandra Greene, Austin Smith Sr., Erland Suppah Jr., and Alvis Smith III.

Thanks to Branch Natural Resources staff for taking care of the salmon and deer request.

Thanks for Norman Lucci, Charlie and Brenda Strom, and Guy Wallulatam for singing and praying with her at St. Charles Hospital in Bend.

Thanks to Gary and Irkie Smith for coming to sing prayer songs with her and the family in the home.

Thanks to our sister Rosie Guerin, and Guy Wallulatam for coming to the home to help take care of her right away after her passing.

Thanks for the Officiators, Fred Wallulatam Sr. and Antone Fuentes, and Ramona Starr and Flossie Wolfe for undertaking.

Thanks to Leona Ike and Flossie Wolfe for making her traditional buckskin outfit.

Lifesaving cause with Firefighter Stairclimb

Firefighter Andrew Glen, Lt. Dan Chapanar, Cpt. Trevor Beebe and firefighter Jeff Whitworth prepare for an endurance training exercise at the Miller Heights Plateau, aka Superman Hill, prior to the March 8 Firefighter Stairclimb.

The Firefighter Stairclimb happens every year at the Columbia Center in Seattle: Wearing full gear the fire fighters climb the 66 flights of stairs of the Columbia Center tower. The mission of the climb: ‘To cure leukemia, lymphoma, Hodgkins disease and myeloma; and to improve the quality of life of the patients and their families.’

Representing Warm Springs Fire Management at the 2020 Firefighter Stairclimb will be Cpt. Trevor Beebe, Lt. Dan Chapanar, and fire fighters Jeff Whitworth and Andrew Glen. They will be among the 2,000 fire fighters to make the March 8 stair climb.

Meanwhile, the Fire Management team members are working their jobs, while putting in extra training toward the March 8 climb. And they are accepting donations for the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society.

Their goal is to raise $2,000 for the Society. The team members have donation information flyers that include a link whereby a person can donate. Or stop by Fire Management to donate. For more information, or as another way to donate, visit: firefighterstairclimb.org

Since its inception 28 years ago, the Firefighter Stairclimb—‘Climb. Conquer. Cure.’ is the motto—has raised over $20 million for cancer research and patient services. Their work supports the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society, helping millions impacted by cancer; funding breakthrough research, and providing support and advocacy for patients.

The Firefighter Stairclimb is the world’s largest ‘on-air’ stair climb competition: The fire fighters are in full gear that weighs up to 60 pounds, including the ‘on-air’ oxygen tank and mask.

Last year Derek Sherrell of the Kingsley Field Fire Department of Klamath Falls finished with the winning time. He made the 66 flights with a time of 11 minutes 3 seconds.

During that same length of time, three people were diagnosed with blood cancer, and one person died from blood cancer.

As we look toward the March 8 Firefighter Stairclimb, please remember their motto: Climb. Conquer. Cure... And Donate!

She looked very beautiful.

Thanks to all the Washuut drummers who sang all the beautiful songs to send her on her journey. Thanks to all the Washuut dancers, and for the cooks Melinda Jim and Family, and Annie Kalama for their wonderful delicious meals they cooked throughout the funeral.

Thank you Jo Ann Smith, Bobbie Marlon, Christine Johnson, Jewel Minnick, Rosanna Jackson, Nancy Blackwolf, Josephine Johnson, Melissa Bryant, Lola Dick, Marena Florez, Taaw Lee Winch and Desirae Boise. Thanks to all the family and friends that traveled to be by the side of her children and siblings she left behind. Thanks to each and every person that contributed something to our services, whether if it was in the home or at the longhouse.

A message from Warm Springs VOCS

The office of Warm Springs Victims of Crime Services—VOCS—wishes everyone a safe and happy February.

VOCS would like to take this time—as February is Teen Dating Violence Awareness Month—to share these recent statistics:

- About 1.5 million high school boys and girls in the U.S. admit to being intentionally hit or physically harmed in the last year by someone they are romantically involved with.
- Teens who suffer dating abuse are subject to long-term consequences like alcoholism, eating disorders, promiscuity, thoughts of suicide, and violent behavior.
- One in three young people will - be in an abusive or unhealthy relationship. Thirty-three percent of adolescents in America are victim to sexual, physical, verbal, or emotional dating abuse.

- In our country 25-percent of high school girls have been abused physically or sexually. Teen girls who are abused this way are six times more likely to become pregnant or contract a sexually transmitted infection (STI).
 - Females between the ages of 16 and 24 are roughly three times more likely than the rest of the population to be abused by an intimate partner.
 - Eight states in the U.S. do not consider a violent dating relationship domestic abuse. Therefore, adolescents, teens, and 20-

- some things are unable to apply for a restraining order for protection from the abuser.
- Violent behavior often begins between sixth and twelfth grades. Seventy-two percent of 13 and 14-year-olds are ‘dating.’
 - Fifty-percent of young people who experience rape or physical or sexual abuse will attempt to commit suicide.
- If you or anyone you know is experiencing teen dating violence, please contact the Warm Springs Police Department, or Warm Springs Victims of Crime, phone 541-553-2293. Or come to our office located at 1108 Wasco Street.*

Buffalos basketball looking to finish strong

February brings a conclusion to the 2019-20 regular basketball season at Madras High School. As of late last week the girls varsity team had an overall winning record of 11-6, with five more games to play.

The girls were on a winning streak at the end of January and into February, taking three games in row before a loss to Corbett.

The girls varsity team plays North Marion away this Friday, February 14. They have a home game next week, February 18, against Gladstone; then away at Molalla. They have a pair of games, February 24 and 25 at home against Estacada.

The varsity boys host North Marion this Friday, February 14, game time at 7 p.m. The boys are then away at Gladstone, February 18; home vs. Molalla, February 20; and then away at Estacada on February 24-25.

The Twenty-Fifth Annual Eagle Watch celebration at the Round Butte Overlook Park—sponsored in part by the Confederated Tribes—is in March this year.

The event had been in February, but moved to late March this year with the hopes of milder weather.

Note: This will be the last year for Eagle Watch.

Eagle Watch weekend features guided walks, wildlife presentations, raptor viewing and hands on activities.

Cove Palisades State Park Ranger Erin Bennet says, “This is not so much an end as a new beginning.”

In 2021 the event will expand, while still focusing on wildlife. A change will be that presentations will include fire in the ecosystem, local history and geology.

This year Eagle Watch will be Saturday and Sunday, March 28-29.

Lillian Jo Blackwolf ~ Ch'ili
November 23, 1972 – January 28, 2020

Lillian was born to parents Kennth W. Blackwolf and Mary Lee (Squiemphen) Wolfe. She was an enrolled member of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Reservation of Oregon.

Maternal Grandparents were the late Autwai Ardis (Scott) and Lawrence Squiemphen Sr. Paternal grandparents were the late Autwai Julia (Ike) and Ellery Wolfe.

Lillian loved to spend time with her children and all of her family, sisters, brothers, nephews, neices, grandchildren, aunts and uncles, grandmas and grandpas. Lillian had a light, and laughter that lit up a room wherever she entered. Her interests included construction work, going to the casino, adult coloring, reading and studying the Bible and Verses, listening to her oldies and modern R&B, Hip Hop/Rap. She enjoyed cooking meals for her adult children and family.

Lillian Jo's smile, her laughter and loving ways will be greatly missed by all of her children, family and friends near and far.

State of Indian Nations kicks off busy week for tribal leaders

The National Congress of American Indians kicked off a busy week of events in Washington, D.C., as NCAI president Fawn Sharp delivered her first address as the new leader of the largest inter-tribal advocacy organization in the U.S.

Ms. Sharp, who also serves as president of the Quinault Nation, gave the State of Indian Nations on Monday morning. The annual address helps NCAI present its priorities, highlight successes and outline challenges facing tribes as they seek to hold the U.S. accountable to its trust and treaty obligations.

“Every single tribal nation across this continent and around this world is full of mighty, unstoppable power,” Sharp has said. She is the third woman in NCAI’s history to win election as the organization’s president.

Since NCAI’s Seventy-Sixth Annual convention, which took place in Albuquerque, New Mexico, Sharp has continued to advocate for some of Indian Country’s most pressing needs. Just a couple of weeks ago, she helped lead a large tribal delegation at a critical court hearing, where the ability of tribes to protect their most valuable and vulnerable asset through the Indian Child Welfare Act, came under attack.

“The rights that we are advocating were not given to us by anyone. They were not given to us by Congress, they were not given to us by any state,” Sharp said at the time.

“These rights exist by virtue of who we are as Indigenous peoples and tribal nations.”

The days since that hearing have been busy for Sharp. In addition to addressing the needs of her people on the Quinault Nation in Washington state, she helped the Affiliated Tribes of Northwest Indians, an organization she once led as president, wrap up a successful winter meeting in Portland.

The travels put Sharp together with another prominent Native woman leader: Rep. Deb Haaland of New Mexico, who is one of the first two Native women in Congress also was in Portland to meet with Northwest tribes.

The pair are sharing the spotlight once again, this time in the nation’s capital. Following Sharp’s address, Haaland delivered a response from a Congressional perspective, reprising a role she played last year after her historic rise to the halls of power in D.C.

Starting on Tuesday, NCAI began its executive council winter session. The event is being held at the Capital Hilton, not far from the White House.

Positive snow level at higher areas of reservation

The snow level at higher elevations of the reservation was above average during the first part of the year, similar to the situation across the state. Tribal Natural Resources general manager updated Tribal Council on the snow level at a meeting toward the end of January.

The January snow survey was an improvement over the December readings, when the level had been below average. More snowfall during the first month of 2020 led to a 120-percent snow level at higher elevations, Mr. Brunoe said. The report is good news for fisheries, he said. Some other items from the late January Natural Resources update:

The tribal farm had a good year in 2019, selling and delivering hay, and working on equipment. The farm operation brought in a little over $206,000 in 2019, according to the report.

Meanwhile, final hunter reporting for 2019 at Natural Resources reflected a good season.

The Community Health Education Team is hosting a feminine hygiene items drive. Please fee free to drop off items at the CHET office located at the Family Resource Center; or contact Jillisa Suppah at 541-615-0036; or email jillisa.suppah@wstribes.org

Long Memory of the Land with Liz Woody

Elizabeth Woody, poet and executive director the Museum at Warm Springs, presented Nature Night—Long Memory of the Land. Ms. Woody made the presentation at the Deschutes Land Trust Nature Night.

Here are some takeaways from her presentation:

During her presentation, Elizabeth shared a brief glimpse into the histories of Indigenous Peoples in Central Oregon:

As a people with rights and memories of this land from time immemorial, she shared her understanding and connection with Native life along the Deschutes and Columbia rivers.

Elizabeth noted that colonization continues to impact the world today, and that loss of language and a land-based culture built up through millennia is a concern.

Engaging these ways of life, Elizabeth shared, is a key to living with the land. Some Columbia River Peoples’ precepts:

As long as nature is taken care of, it will take care of you. Traditional wisdom is ‘systems thinking.’ Do no harm. Take only what you need. Let the rest grow.

To understand a land’s resources respect it enough to know your own life is at risk with its loss. Being ‘in’ it and able to see patterns as interrelationships, and responsibly adapt.

Elizabeth’s published works of prose and poetry include Luminaries of the Humble and her first book of poem, Seven Hands, Seven Hearts.

Elizabeth Woody—Navajo, Warm Springs, Wasco and Yakama—served a two-year term as Oregon Poet Laureate.

She is a published author and fine artist. Elizabeth received the American Book Award, William Stafford Memorial Award for Poetry from the Pacific Northwest Bookseller’s Association, and was a finalist in poetry for the Oregon Book Awards for 1994; among other accomplishments.

Clinic report at Council on coronavirus, flu

Indian Health Services and community health workers updated Tribal Council last week on how the clinic has responded to the coronavirus outbreak: The virus is mainly affecting China, though the disease is present in many other countries, including the U.S.

IHS made an inventory of masks that can be used to stop the spread of a virus; and made orders for additional resources, said Diane Fuller, Nurse. Masks are available at the reception area of the clinic. The response would be similar to the response to a flu pandemic, Ms. Fuller said.

The clinic team was also working on a response plan, were the virus to make its way onto the reservation. Tribal Emergency Management and county health partners are also part of the planning. Public education is another important component of the response plan, Ms. Fuller said.

There were 12 confirmed cases of the coronavirus in the U.S., as of earlier this week. Oregon had not reported a coronavirus diagnosis, though California had seen six confirmed cases, and Washington State reported one case.

Worldwide—mostly in China—more than 1,000 had died from the coronavirus, while more than 42,000 had been diagnosed with the disease. Some even believe these numbers are low, as the outbreak has strained China's health resources.

Regular flu season

Ms. Fuller said the coronavirus is a serious matter, though the regular flu remains a significant health concern: This season a reported 8,500 people in the U.S. had died from the flu, she said.

During the current season, Community Health and IHS had administered approximately 2,025 vaccinations to clients, with 200 coming in January. This is good coverage, though the population of the immediate area is in the range of 6,000 people. So health workers were continuing to encourage people to get a vaccination, especially the young, elderly and otherwise vulnerable.
