Community vaccine update

In partnership, the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs and Indian Health Service are among the models of how best to protect a community against the Covid-19. As Dr. Bud Beamer, Public Health Officer for Jefferson County, recently commented, "With the vaccine, mandatory masking and extensive testing, the Confederated Tribes and IHS have proven that these measures work."

The Indian Health Service and tribes are now beginning a next important phase in the strategy against community spread of the virus: Indian Health Service and the tribes are now working on the rollout of booster shots against covid.

This is a locally coordinated response to recent federal government approval of a third, or booster covid shot for individuals, said Hyllis Dauphinais, chief executive officer of Warm Springs IHS.

Following the Centers for Disease Control guidelines, some of the booster vaccines have now been administered to community members who are immuno-compromised.

Next month the booster should become available to more people.

This rollout could follow the model established during the initial phase of the vaccination, Mr. Dauphinais said: This would mean starting with more elderly individuals, and others who are especially vulnerable to the disease.

At this time, September 20 is a target date for greater availability of the booster shot.

In the meantime, Warm Springs IHS and Community Health are developing a list of people to contact and inform of the availability. "We're ramping up for the third dose," Mr. Dauphinais said, "as the September 20 date approaches." The reason for this, he says, is clear:

"Our mandate from Tribal Council is to save lives. That is the number one goal, as we put this plan in place."

Full approval

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration this week granted full approval to the Pfizer/BioNTech Covid-19 vaccine for people age 16 and older. This is the first coronavirus vaccine fully approved by the FDA, and is expected to open the door to more vaccine mandates. The Department of Defense, and the New York City School District are recent notable examples of groups that are now mandating the vaccine for employees.

Tribal situation

Like all other areas, the reservation has seen a recent increase in Covid-19 cases, as the delta variant continues to spread.

As of Tuesday of this week, there were 17 people in the community with the disease; plus 35 close contacts receiving daily monitoring.

In victory over the Huntington scandal

The Treaty of 1855, signed on June 25 of that year, has always been the only recognized and enforceable treaty between the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs and the United States. And the treaty clearly recognizes the tribal members' rights to off-reservation hunting, fishing and gathering at all usual and accustomed places on the vast Ceded Lands.

Shortly after the signing of the treaty, Indian people fishing along the Columbia River and other areas of the Ceded Lands—as they had done from time immemorial—became a source jealousy and irritation to settlers of the region. The settlers brought their grievance to then-superintendent of the Bureau of Indian Affairs for Oregon, J.W. Perit Huntington.

In response, Huntington was able to obtain a 'supplemental treaty.' This document, from 1865, purported to relinquish off-reservation rights recognized by the 1855 Treaty; and to confine Indians to the reservation without written BIA permission to leave.

From its inception, the 1865 document has been viewed as a fraud: Neither party to the Treaty of 1855—the tribes or the United States—has ever viewed the Huntington scandal as legal. And yet over the decades it remained 'on the books.'

Finally, last year the federal government officially nullified the Huntington document. Former Congressman Greg Walden introduced the nullification legislation in 2019. U.S. Senators Jeff Merkley and Ron Wyden sponsored the bill in the Senate, with support of Gov. Kate Brown. And it passed in October 2020, signed by then-Pres. Trump.

Last week the Tribal Council and staff hosted a gathering to officially mark the nullification. On hand for the event, Sen. Merkley explained that he first learned of the tribes' treaty history 20 or so years ago, when Governmental Affairs director Louie Pitt invited him to Pi-Ume-Sha. And since that time, the senator has always been in support of the Huntington nullification. Senator Wyden, Gov. Brown and others also sent the tribes their best wishes on the occasion (see page 4 for the governor's comments).

Tribal water legislation making progress

Funding for tribal reservation water infrastructure is part of the $1 trillion Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act. The U.S. Senate this month passed the Infrastructure and Jobs Act on a bi-partisan vote. The bill is now at the House of Representatives.

The law would include the Western Tribal Water Infrastructure Act of 2021, with its funding at $250 million. Senators Ron Wyden and Jeff Merkley introduced the Tribal Water Infrastructure Act in 2019, and it passed last year.

The Tribal Infrastructure Act also has strong bi-partisan support; and its inclusion in the overall Infrastructure and Jobs Act brings it closer to becoming law.

In 2019, when Sens. Wyden and Merkley introduced the Tribal Water Infrastructure Act, they cited the condition of the Warm Springs water system as an example of the problems tribes experience as reservation domestic water systems are increasingly old and unreliable. Tribal Council Chairman Raymond Tsumpti Sr. gave testimony before the lawmakers in favor of that legislation.

Then last year came the coronavirus pandemic, and another prolonged water outage on the reservation. Sen. Merkley, chair of the Senate Appropriations Subcommittee, said at the time: "The crisis on the Warm Springs Reservation is a powerful example of how the coronavirus crisis made existing water infrastructure challenges even more serious."

This month 19 Senate Republicans joined the 50 Democrats in passing the $1 trillion Infrastructure and Jobs Act. The House for now continues to work through its process, before the bill would go to Pres. Biden for signing. Some other regional items in the infrastructure bill that Merkley and Wyden helped secure:

- $162 million for Klamath habitat restoration. That area, including Klamath tribal land and resources, is experiencing environmental consequences of extreme drought.

- $6 billion for wildfire risk mitigation and forest health treatments, including an additional $100 million for the Collaborative Forestry Landscape Restoration Program.

Academy would see new classrooms with district bond

Voters of the Jefferson County School District 509-J will see a $24 million bond measure on the November 2021 ballot. The bond would address health, safety and security matters in all of the district's schools.

If it passes, the bond would fund the construction of six new early learning classrooms at the Warm Springs Academy. Madras High School work would include a new roof and insulation; upgrades to the Career and Technical Education area; heating, cooling and ventilation improvements; a new soccer concession and restroom area, and facility and field lights.

The other schools in the district would also see improvements. Full details are available at the school district bond website. You can find the site at:

509jschoolbond.org

The school district has not passed a bond measure since 2012. That bond paid for half of the construction of the Warm Springs Academy, as the tribes funded the other half. The 2012 measure also funded the Madras Performing Arts Center at the high school.

The Sentimental Journey B-17 will be at the Airshow.

The Airshow of the Cascades this year celebrates its Twentieth Anniversary at the Madras air field.

A feature this year will be a visit from an iconic World War II B-17, Sentimental Journey, sponsored by the Flying Legends Victory Tour and the Airbase Arizona Flying Museum.

You can purchase a ticket to take a ride in the B-17, and ground tours are also available.

The Sentimental Journey ground tours will be this Wednesday, August 25, and Sunday, August 29. The main Airshow is this Friday and Saturday, August 27-28.

The Sentimental Journey Boeing B-17 Flying Fortress is one of only five still flying, out of more than 12,000 that were made during World War II. Crews flew thousands of missions in the B-17s, mostly over Europe during the war.

The Madras Airshow will also feature the U.S. Army Golden Nights skydiving team, a F4 Skyhawk jet; and musical performance by Precious Byrd. The show features vintage cars, fireworks, concessions and more.

Veterans and kids under 5 get in for free. RV parking is also available. For more information and tickets see: airshowofthecascades.com

Vaccinated vs Unvaccinated: Active Cases 8.18.2021

The Confederated Tribes Covid-19 Response Team updated the case data for the reservation, as of late last week, August 18. On that date there were 20 active cases among the tribal community: The graph above shows that more than two-thirds of 20 positives were among the unvaccinated. And below, a breakdown of some of the data. See page 5 for more data.

Online learning option deadline Friday

As the start of the new school year fast approaching, teachers and staff at the Warm springs Academy are preparing for your return to in person learning.

There will be a mask mandate for all people who enter the Warm Springs Academy, regardless of vaccine status.

The school district is also offering the on-line CASA learning option for students or families who may not yet be comfortable with the in-class option. You will need to fill out the intent to enroll form online at jcsd.k12.or.us

The form must be submitted by this Friday, August 27. If you would like your student to remain with the in-person learning, no action is required.

Students that were enrolled in the CASA online learning, and want to remain in CASA, will need to fill out the intent to enroll form as well. If you have any questions call 541-553-1128.

Covid mask requirements for youth sports

The Oregon Schools Athletic Association last week issued new mandates regarding athletes in school districts, the coaches and people who may attend a game. The update comes as Covid-19 is increasing across the state, and with vaccines not yet approved for children under the age of 12.

The OSAA is requiring coaches to wear masks during sporting events; and spectators, regardless of vaccination status, also are required to wear masks.

Students are not required to wear masks indoors while practicing or playing in a competitive sport at any level. Students not actively participating during indoor competition are required to wear a mask.

Employment report for the Central Oregon region

Economic recovery in the region, including Jefferson County and the reservation, continued through July. This was true despite the emergency of covid variants, especially delta. According to the Oregon Department of Employment:

The unemployment rate in Jefferson County in July was at 6.5 percent, down from 6.8 percent in June.

This was another improvement, though unemployment in the county remains higher than before the pandemic, when it was 4.1 percent.

Overall employment in the county improved in July, although total nonfarm employment fell by 100 jobs, according to the Department of Employment. The 100-non-farm job loss was fewer than typical for this time of year, according to the department.

The job losses were concentrated in local government-education, as schools closed for summer break. There was modest hiring in leisure and hospitality, adding 30 jobs from June.

In the region overall: July hiring was consistent with normal seasonal patterns; however, recent revisions using payroll tax records revealed that the recovery through the first quarter of 2021 was stronger than initially estimated.

Deschutes County: The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate dropped to 5.6 percent in July from 5.9 percent in June. The unemployment rate remains higher than before the first impacts from Covid-19 pandemic, when it was 3.3 percent.

Deschutes County lost 530 jobs in July, typical losses for this time of year.

Job losses in July were driven by local education declines as schools largely closed for summer break.

Most other major industry sectors continued to hire in July, including leisure and hospitality; professional and business services; and construction.

Crook County: The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 7.0 percent in July, down significantly from 7.4 percent in June.

The unemployment rate remains higher than before the first impacts from covid, when it was 4.4 percent.

Crook County shed 50 jobs in July, typical job losses for this time of year.

SNAP recipients to see emergency covid allotments in Sept.

Most tribal members who receive Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program—SNAP—benefits will receive emergency allotments in September.

The federal government has approved emergency allotments every month since March 2020. This gives SNAP recipients additional support during the covid pandemic. Emergency allotments will be available on September 11 for current SNAP households. New SNAP households will receive the emergency allotments September 30 or October 2.

SNAP recipients do not have to take any action to receive these supplemental benefits as they will be issued directly on their EBT cards

Zone 6 fisheries

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission and member tribes have set two zone 6 fisheries.

The first one is under way now through 6 p.m. this Thursday, August 26.

The second one is from 6 a.m., Monday, August 30 to 6 p.m. on Thursday, September 2.

Gear is set- and drift gillnets with 8-inch minimum mesh size restriction.

Allowable sales: Salmon (any species), steelhead, shad, yellow perch, bass, walleye, catfish, and carp may be sold or retained for subsistence.

Fish landed during the open periods are allowed to be sold after the period concludes.

Sturgeon may not be sold, but sturgeon from 38 to 54 inches fork length in the Bonneville pool; and sturgeon from 43 to 54 inches fork length in The Dalles and John Day pools may be kept for subsistence purposes.

Closed areas: Standard sanctuaries applicable to gillnet gear. The standard Spring Creek Hatchery Sanctuary is in place.

The zone 6 platform and hook and line fishery regulations remain unchanged.

Tributary fisheries and fisheries downstream of the Bonneville dam: Consult your tribe's Fishery Department, 541-553-2001, for current regulations in these areas.

A message from CRITFC: Vaccines work and are safe. Get vaccinated to help protect you, your family and your tribal community. One Community Health is the tribal health partner in the Columbia Gorge. Call them at 541-386-6380 to schedule your free vaccination or call your tribal clinic to get it before heading to the river.

If you have any fishing enforcement problems or need assistance or information, day or night, contact the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fisheries Enforcement Office, 4270 Westcliff Drive, Hood River, Oregon.

Phone 541-386-6363 or toll-free 800-487-FISH (3474). Show pride in your tribe's treaty rights by carrying your tribal ID. Please consult your tribal Fisheries Department for additional details on tribal regulations.

Please wear life jackets for safety, and avoid overloading your boats.

Indian Country vaccine rate

The U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention keeps track of vaccination rates based on various criteria, including race and ethnicity. Based on recent CDC race and ethnicity data, just over one million American Indian and Alaska Native are fully vaccinated against covid.

Indian Country has done a remarkable job vaccinating tribal citizens, said the the National Indian Health Board. In its statement this week, the board gave an example:

The Sac and Fox Tribe of Mississippi had 70 percent of its vaccine eligible citizens fully vaccinated, as early as May of this year.

The rate in Indian Country overall should increase as the Food and Drug Administration begins to fully approve the covid vaccines.

On Monday of this week, the Pfizer-BioNTech vaccine received the first full approval, replacing the previous emergency use authorization.

Full FDA approval provides confidence in the safety and efficacy of the vaccine, and could encourage hesitant American Indian and Alaska Native people to get vaccinated, the National Indian Health Board said.

Summer workers

Julian Rosales

The Cobalt crew of the Heart of Oregon Central Oregon Youth Conservation Corps worked this summer for eight weeks, with five of the crew members from Warm Springs.

The crew worked in the Crooked River Grasslands, Ochocos, Clarno and the Maury units. Some of the jobs that the crew did over the summer: fixing fence exclosures, caging around aspen trees, pulling knapp weed, replacing water troughs and lopping juniper trees.

It was a fun and great summer. The crew did a lot of traveling to get to some of our jobs, and they finished all of them. A unique thing with this job: The crew got to work in tribes' Ceded Lands, with a chance to see a lot of the country.

Julian Rosales this summer is one of the winners of the Heart of Oregon 2021 Summit Award. Julian has worked with the Heath of Oregon Corps Cobalt crew for three summers now.

He won the award because he is a very hard worker, dedicated and consistent. He is also very fun to be around, cracking jokes and teasing everyone, and he can take jokes as well. Julian plans on going to the Job Corp next month to become a welder. Butch David, Corps crew leader.

Museum has to cancel Harvest

The Museum at Warm Springs has postponed its annual Huckleberry Harvest events in Portland until further notice.

Health and safety concerns for event guests due to the renewed spread of Covid-19 in Oregon were major factors contributing to the museum's decision to postpone the late-August events.

"The decision to postpone our events was both difficult and responsible," said museum board of directors president Donald J. Stastny.

"We treasure our friends and members and, while we love to celebrate the museum and its successes, we do not want to put either our friends or tribal members in a compromised situation.

"The current situation with covid has led the museum administration and the board of directors to a decision to postpone our events until the spring. We trust and hope that we will all gather to celebrate then."

County Fair

The Jefferson County Fair Board and county commissioners wish to thank everyone who visited and participated in the 2021 County Fair.

The fair board and county commissioners are asking you to help them improve your County Fair experience.

The fair is a collaboration of partners, including the fair board, Jefferson County staff, 4-H and FFA, and others.

They are asking you to participate in a survey regarding your fair experience. See the website:

Or send your thoughts to the email: bcrow@jeffco.net2021 Fair Survey

Survey questions include items such as:

Are you a resident of Jefferson County? Your age group?

Please rate on a scale of 1-5 what motivates you to participate in the Jefferson County Fair? Rodeo, exhibits, food, live music, etc.

Compared to prior years, please rate this year's food vendors.

And other questions. Please take a few minutes. Your participation is greatly appreciated—Thank you! The County Fair.

Wyden visit

U.S. Senator Ron Wyden stopped in Central Oregon last week to visit a Heart of Oregon Corps project site at Bend Park and Recreation District's Pine Nursery Park.

There, local young people from the Heart of Oregon's summer and year-round conservation programs demonstrated the skills they are developing while they improve local public lands.

The Senator has long been a champion of the establishment of a new Civilian Climate Corps. There is momentum to relaunch a CCC to engage young Americans in conservation work, and it was recently included in the federal Budget Reconciliation process in Washington, D.C.

The Heart of Oregon is currently accepting applications from 16-24 year olds for fall programming. See the site: heartforegon.org

Apply by September 3 for the AmeriCorps public lands program, and by October 5 for the YouthBuild pre-apprenticeship program, geared towards non-traditional students seeking to complete their high school diploma or GED and learn skills in the construction trades.

Nene Springs

The Warm Springs Branch of Natural Resources has issued a public notice that Nene Springs water is unsafe for drinking at this time.

Natural Resources will continue to test the spring regularly and notify the public when the water is safe to drink again.

Covid shots

There is an upswing in Covid-19 cases among the tribal community. The main thing you can do to protect from getting covid is to be vaccinated.

The covid delta variant is proving to be even more contagious than the initial covid strain; and the vaccines are effective against delta.

You should also continue to take all precautions: Wear a face mask in public spaces; maintain distance from unvaccinated people, and wash and disinfect your hands frequently.

If you would like to be tested for covid, check in at the front gate at the Warm Springs Health and Wellness Center, and they will direct you where to go.

IHS has conducted 12,599 tests among the reservation community. More than 900 people have tested positive, and there have been 25 deaths among the tribes.

Close to 3,000 people among the tribal community have received at least the primary vaccine dose. More

To the Tribes from the Governor

Oregon Gov. Kate Brown could not make it to the Confederated Tribes' event celebrating the official nullification of the Huntington document of 1865.

Gov. Brown did support the federal legislation to nullify the 1865 document. While not making it to the celebration last week, Gov. Brown did write to the tribes:

Dear Chair Tsumpti, friends and honored guests:

I wish I could be with you today to celebrate one of our governments' greatest achievements in recent years: The rescission and nullification of the fraudulent Huntington Treaty of 1865. As the late Senator Hatfield pointed out 25 years ago, the 1865 Treaty was a "historic travesty." Its formal rescission was long overdue.

One of the highlights of my time as Governor occurred in January 2019, when I visited with Tribal Council at Warm Springs, so I could declare it the policy of the Office of the Governor that the fraudulent 1865 Treaty was a nullity, with no legal effect whatsoever.

And then, the following year, the moment happened that we all have been waiting for, for so long: Action by Congress to officially nullify the fraudulent Treaty. That was an incredible moment that I was excited to celebrate with all of you.

I am honored that I could play a part in these historic efforts. I am so grateful to the many tribal leaders, staff, and attorneys, who passionately worked for decades to make this moment happen. And I am thankful for the tremendous work of Senator Wyden, Senator Merkley, Congressman Walden, and Attorney General Rosenblum, who all played significant roles in getting this done.

These are challenging times. But this is a moment that should give us much joy and celebration.

Although I am away today, I am with you in spirit. Congratulations and best wishes to my friends at the Warm Springs Tribe.

Governor Kate Brown

than 2,400 second doses have gone into arms, providing excellent protection.

IHS has started giving the booster doses to those who are immuno-compromised.

Late September to early or mid October are target times for the third, booster shots to be available to a wider part of the community.

To Veterans

From the desk of the Tribal Veterans Services Officer:

In the past couple of months, I have had to redo and correct at least three applications for tribal veterans headstone applications that have been done by family members and have been returned for correction or signature.

While the family has the option to file for a deceased veteran's headstone, it would be more expedient to have the Veterans Service Officer file for this headstone. This will have two positive outcomes:

One, it will be done correctly the first time. And two, it will have the Veterans Service Officer's signature on the application, which is required.

There is a saying: 'We never have time to do it right the first time, but we have time to do it over again.'

Let's do it right the first time.

Keeping in mind as students go back to school

Education and health specialists have some suggestions as students prepare to go back to in-person learning.

Schools closed for regular semester classes in March of 2020. Since that time school for all grades has been at-home and virtual, on-line.

Going back to school can be difficult even during the best of times. With the current situation, students are facing a transition back to in-class learning that really has no precedent. Some of the education and health specialists' advice:

First, they say: Remember the fundamentals. A regular pattern of a good night's sleep and eating nutritious meals and snacks goes a long way to fuel flexibility, engagement and problem-solving during the day.

Re-establish morning and afternoon routines. Involve your child in deciding the details. Having opportunities for choice and agency makes handling uncertainty easier for everyone.

Create a visual aid like a calendar to help them understand what to expect in their new routine.

Let them know what might be different at school this year.

Ask your child what they are feeling and how you can support them. Knowing you recognize that this is an exciting and challenging time and you are open to listening is reassuring, regardless of whether they have something to share.

What your child is feeling may not be what you expect. Let them know that whatever they are feeling is okay.

You may not be able to offer answers or certainties. Like adults, kids find it helpful to have someone who will just listen.

If talking is not your child's thing, think about drawing with them, playing/listening to music, playing catch, swinging, going for a stroll. Doing something often inspires communication.

Encourage them to think of what will be good about returning to school.

Your child may be worried about bringing covid home. Reminding them of what your family and the school are doing to reduce the chances of infection can help them feel calmer.

Here is a site to learn more:

childmind.org/article/back-to-school-anxiety-during-covid/

If your children are 12 or older, they can get vaccinated against Covid-19.

If you have questions about the vaccine's safety or effectiveness, talk with your trusted health care provider.

IHS updates its Covid-19 testing, positivity data

The Indian Health Service has updated its coronavirus data, showing results through mid to late August. Across Indian Country since the pandemic began in March of last year through earlier this month: 214,714 IHS-administered tests have returned positive for Covid-19.

That represents an increase of 0.9 percent from the 212,797 cases previously reported in early August.

Altogether since testing became available last year, IHS across Indian Country has administered 2,684,762 coronavirus tests.

The three IHS areas with the highest rate of positive Covid-19 tests remain the Navajo Nation (14.3 percent), the Phoenix area (12.7), and the Oklahoma Area (12).

The IHS also tracks the seven-day rolling positive testing average, showing the more recent trends in covid infection. The Portland IHS area was fifth highest in this category at 7.9 percent testing positivity. The others were:

The Oklahoma City Area (19.2 percent), California Area (15.5), Nashville Area (11.8), Phoenix Area (11.7), Navajo Area (7.5), Bemidji Area (6.9), the Alaska Area (6.2), Billings Area (5.4), and the Great Plains Area (5.0).

National Guard arrives in Bend as covid cases in the region rise

In another sign of the ongoing and growing Covid-19 spread in the region, 150 members of the Oregon National Guard arrived in Bend last week to provide support at St. Charles’ hospitals, from Bend to Madras.

The National Guard members, arriving from all parts of the state, are supporting the health system in non-clinical roles including screening patients and visitors at entrances, running and stocking supplies, preparing and serving food and assisting patients in roles that do not require licensure. Members of the Guard—which has so far committed to supporting St. Charles through September—will is working throughout the health system, covering both day and night shifts.

Warm Springs Holistic Health on rotator cuff strength

The rotator cuff is a group of four muscles that move and support the shoulder joint. The shoulder is often compared to a ‘golf ball sitting on a tee.’ This analogy illustrates the large ball of the humerus—upper arm bone—resting on the significantly smaller glenoid—shoulder socket.

While the natural structure of the joint is designed for mobility, this must be balanced out by strong muscles that stabilize the joint and promote controlled movement.

The four rotator cuff muscles:
Supraspinatus: The supraspinatus muscle lifts the arm out to the side. To strengthen this muscle, take two dumbbells—or soup cans, water bottles, etc.—and hold with your palms facing in and thumbs pointed up.

Lift the weights at a 45 degree angle from your body—not straight in front of you or out to your side, but right in between. Perform three sets of 8-12 repetitions. You should choose a weight that is challenging and fatiguing, but allows you to maintain excellent form.

Teres Minor and Infrapinatus: These two rotator cuff muscles work together to rotate the arm away from the body.

To strengthen this muscle group, use the same weights as the previous exercise. Lay on your side with the arm that you are strengthening facing towards the ceiling. Place a small pillow or towel under your armpit to optimize rotator cuff activation. Bend your elbow to 90 degrees.

You will start with your palm facing your stomach, and slowly rotate your forearm away from your body while maintaining the 90 degree angle of your elbow. You should feel the muscles in the back of your shoulder working. Perform three sets of 8-12 repetitions.

Subscapularis: The Subscapularis muscle rotates the arm in towards the body. Resistance bands can be a great tool to strengthen this muscle.

Start by tying a long band onto an object about five feet away. Face your body 90 degrees away from the attachment point of your band with the shoulder that you are strengthening first positioned closest to the anchor.

Place a small pillow or towel under the armpit of the arm closest to the band to optimize muscle activation. Bend your elbow to 90 degrees and keep your arm pinned at your side.

Bring your palm towards your stomach, rotating your shoulder inwards and then slowly return to resting position. Perform three sets of 8-12 repetitions.

If you have additional questions about the rotator cuff or how to work on shoulder stability, please reach out to the Physical Therapy Team at Warm Springs Holistic Health for more information. We are accepting new patients on a referral basis for both in person and telehealth appointments. Best Regards, Alicia Oberholzer, Warm Springs Holistic Health, 541-541-777-2663.

PRESCRIPTION OPIOIDS: WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

Prescription opioids can be used to help relieve moderate-to-severe pain and are often prescribed following a surgery or injury, or for certain health conditions. These medications can be an important part of treatment but also come with serious risks. It is important to work with your health care provider to make sure you are getting the safest, most effective care.

Chuck Sams nominated to lead Parks Service

Charles ‘Chuck’ Sams III is set to become the first Native American to serve as director of the National Parks Service. Mr. Sams, member of the Umatilla, is of Cayuse, Walla, Cocopah and Yankton descent.

Pres. Biden nominated Sams last week to lead the National Parks. The nomination now goes to the U.S. Senate for confirmation. As Kat Brigham, Chair of the Umatilla Board of Trustees, commented on Sams’ nomination and anticipated Congressional approval:

“This is an historical moment for America, and a monumental milestone for tribal people throughout Indian Country,” she said.

For years now, Mr. Sams has had friends and colleagues among Chuck Sams teaching Whitman College students in 2018. The topic was the Treaties of 1855, and tribal history.

the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs. Natural Resources general manager Robert Brunoe has known him for many years, having first met Mr. Sams in the ‘90s through the Salmon Corps program. Antone Minthorn, a Nez Perce language speaker for the Umatilla tribal Education Department, commented that Sams is the “right person, on the cutting edge” of conservation efforts throughout Indian Country.

“It’s significant. It’s timely,” Minthorn said of the nomination. “I think Chuck really comes from a place where there’s been a lot of activity with the tribes’ growth. He knows the importance of our treaty rights, and has been instrumental in our efforts to restore water, restore salmon and build our economy.”

Besides his work with the Umatilla tribes, Sams has worked in state government and nonprofit natural resource and conservation management for more than 25 years. He and his wife Lori live in Pendleton. The Sams have four children.

School BBQ next Tuesday

The Back to School Barbecue is coming up on Thursday, September 2.

The Back to School Barbecue and supplies giveaway usually draws over 1,000 visitors. This year the event, at the Academy, will not be in the restricted drive-by fashion, as it had to be last year; though the Confederated Tribes’ covid safety protocols still apply.

The barbecue is a great outreach opportunity for departments, programs and organizations. For information see the website: forms.gle/TcaUoAx6CdUr45158

Court again in favor of Yakama

The Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals last week denied a request by Klickitat County, Washington, for a rehearing in the case involving the boundary of the Yakama Reservation.

In an earlier unanimous decision in June, the Ninth Circuit Court ruled that the 1.4-million acre Yakama Reservation includes a parcel known as Tract D.

The land was set aside by treaty more than 150 years ago in recognition of its importance to the tribe and its citizens.

“The Ninth Circuit’s decision is a resounding victory for the rights that our ancestors reserved in the Treaty of 1855,” Chairman Delano Saluskin said at the time.

Tract D consists of 121,465 acres in the southwestern part of the reservation. It includes land near Mount Adams—one of the most sacred places for the Yakama Nation—that tribal ancestors recognize as critical for food, water and other resources.

“Both parties to the treaty joined together to protect the Yakama Reservation from Klickitat County’s challenge, and we are thankful the Ninth Circuit honored the treaty parties’ common understanding,” Saluskin said.
