A playground from the heart

One of the exciting developments at Children's Protective Services is the new playground. The playground equipment itself—the slide, swings, even a new trampoline—is very colorful and state of the art. And how it all got there is equally inspiring. It's taken some time and patience, plus the generosity and kindness of many people.

The idea for a new CPS playground has been around for a couple of years now, said Cecilia Collins, program director. Then about a year and a half ago Cecelia met at CPS with Melissa William, executive director of Every Child Central Oregon.

Staff of the Children's Protective Services, here Health and Human Services general manager Caroline Cruz, will host the Dedication and Honoring next Monday, November 8 at noon.

Every Child works with communities in the region to support children and families impacted by foster care. Visiting CPS last year, Melissa agreed with Cecelia the empty lot behind CPS, located also by the Vern Jackson transition house, would be the ideal spot for a playground.

The next step was contacting many people around the region who would be willing to help. There was one large and generous donation from a Bend person who wishes to remain anonyouns. And there was RH Construction team in Bend: The company donated time and staff to build and oversee the project. And many others saw the value of this project and gave what they could:

Rudy Clemens of Feather River Builders donated time to excavate and clear the property. Luis Haro and HE Equipment donated equipment to dig and prepare space. Miller Lumber and Mike's Concrete donated supplies.

Member show at Museum at Warm Springs

The Twenty-Eighth Annual Tribal Member Art Exhibit opened this week at the Museum at Warm Springs.

Twenty-seven artists of the tribes are featured in this year's exhibit. On display are more than 50 exquisite examples of paintings, drawings, mixed-media, beadwork, weavings, video and photography.

The exhibit is curated by Angela Smith. Susan Brunoe, longtime museum member and supporter, was this year's judge.

Art and Basketball

I he community basketball court on campus has a bright new look, thanks to an Art and Basketball Youth project of the Warm Springs Community Action Team and Papalaxsimisha. Charlene Dimmick worked with young painters to create the new court design. Video journalist Brutis Baez recorded as the team completed the colorful project.

The Community Action Team and Papalaxsimisha worked with the Oregon Community Foundation to fund this court painting. The team dedicated the newly decorated court on Halloween afternoon.

The mural was designed by Ms. Dimmick, with support from Mallory Smith of the Community Action Team, the Art and Basketball Youth project manager, and Papalaxsimisha's Jaylyn Suppah and Jillisa Suppah.

Five youth worked Charlene and others on the court mural, as part of community placemaking, designed to give young people tools and inspiration to build the community they envi-

Shelter-to-Independent living progress

The Shelter to Independent Living project should be finished by the end of the year. Warm Springs Health and Wellness general manager Caroline Cruz organized the project, designating funds generated by state Measure 110, passed by voters in 2020.

Measure 110 decrimanilizes personal possession of some controlled substances, though the substances remain illegal under federal law.

Through the law, revenue from the state marijuana tax is used to support treatment, and conditions that can lead to addiction. Homelessness falls within this provision.

The decriminalization of controlled substances in the state does not apply on the reservation. Revenue related to these laws, however, is available to tribes.

The Shelter to Independent project will include the shelter homes currently located by the former elementary school. They will be moved to the Shelter to Independent site, behind the Behavioral Health Center.

The facility will include laundry and shower facilities. There will be two on-site residents living by the shelters. Shelter to Independent will be alcohol and drug free.

The new facilities should be a good complement to the Supportive Housing project, being developed by the Warm Springs Housing Authority.

This coming Monday, November 8 at noon will be the Blessing of the Playground and Honoring of Volunteers at the CPS playground site. The Confederated Tribes' covid protocols will be observed, such as masks will be required. There will be sack lunches and cupcakes. The public is invited.

More job gains in region including reservation

Employment numbers in the region-including Jefferson County and the reservation-improved greatly during September. The latest numbers from the Oregon Employment Department show monthly hiring in the region exceeded seasonal expectations.

Jefferson County: Unemployment was at 6.1 percent in September, down from 6.3 percent in August. The unemployment rate remains two points higher than before county rose by 50 jobs in September. As of September employment levels remain down only 1.9 percent from the pre-covid peak in February 2020.

Construction remains the fastest growing major industry sector in the county. The retail sector added 60 jobs; and manufacturing,

There were also significant employment gains in local government over the past year with the tribal organization and education both hiring.

Deschutes County: The searemains higher than before the first impacts from Covid-19 in February 2020 when it was 3.3 percent.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that Deschutes County added 800 jobs in September, stronger gains than typical for this time of year.

A handful of industries posted significant job gains over the past year, including financial activities (plus 480); education and health services (plus 400); manufacturing (plus 380); other services (plus 370); and construction (plus 160). Crook County: The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 6.5 percent in September, another significant decline from 6.8 percent in August. The unemployment rate remains around 2 percentage points higher than before the first impacts from Covid-19 in February 2020 when it was 4.4 percent.

the first impacts from Covid-19 in sonally adjusted unemployment February 2020, when it was 4.1 perrate dropped to 5.1 percent in Sep-Covid testing, vaccination across Indian Country tember, down from 5.4 percent in Nonfarm employment in the August. The unemployment rate Across Indian Country in the U.S., the Indian Health Service has conducted 3,183,730 covid tests through October. Of the total tested, 269,629 have returned positive for covid, since the pandemic and testing began.

October saw a significant increase in positive cases across Indian Country, IHS reported.

Based on the cumulative percent positive, the highest rates have been in five IHS areas. Two of them include the state of Arizona, indicating a disproportionate toll of Covid-19 in the state:

Navajo Area, 13.6 percent positivity. Phoenix Area, 12.7

percent. Oklahoma City Area, 12.4 percent. California Area, 10.4 percent. Albuquerque Area, 9-.6 percent

The Portland IHS area saw a percent positivity, a comparitively low rate.

Based on the 7-day rolling average positivity, all 12 IHS areas are seeing high Covid-19 rates, marking yet another instance of surges across every region of Indian Country.

Notably, the 7-day rolling average positivity for the Alaska Area has steadily grown in recent weeks. The region recorded its highest-ever rate with the release of data in October.

Throughout most of the pandemic, the Alaska Area had seen the lowest covid rate. Overall, 9 percent of IHS tests have been positive since the onset of the pandemic, the data shows.

Vaccine distribution Across Indian Country, IHS is distributing all three covid vaccines currently authorized or approved in the U.S, includ-Pfizer-BioNTech, Moderna, and Janssen/ Johnson & Johnson. The IHS administration rate is 78 percent. The Albuquerque Area has a greater than 100 percent administration rate, which may be due to vaccine overfill in the vials for both Pfizer and Moderna products.

Covid booster shots now available

The clinic is now scheduling covid vaccine booster shots. You qualify if you are in one of the categories:

- · If you are 65 or older. Call the clinic vaccine line at 541-551-2131 to schedule an appointment.
- In the coming days and weeks, Warm Springs and Community Health will be working to get all of our 65 and older boost doses scheduled and administered.

- · If you are 18-64 years old and meet the criteria for a boost dose (below), please call and let the clinic know you are interested in receiving your boost dose. Once identified, the clinic will work you into our vaccine clinic schedule. This applies
 - · You are 18-64 at high risk of severe Covid-19 (that is, with an underlying medical condition).

• If you are 18-64 with frequent institutional or occupational exposure to Covid-19 (that is: A long-term healthcare facility, healthcare workers, first responders, education staff, corrections, etc.).

Letters to the editor

Huge thanks

We would like to extend a huge Thank You to all the departments and community members who participated in the Early Childhood Education Halloween events last Friday. You made these events a great success.

We appreciated all of the donations of candy, costumes, and most importantly the time each parent and family and community members had taken to be involved in our events.

A great big Thank You to all the departments who took the time and participated, such as McGruff the Crime Dawg, the Warm Springs Police Department, Ron Gregory for assigning our police officers to assist in our Lil' Pumpkin Parade, Fire and Safety, Fire Management, the Prevention team, Housing, Tribal Council, Behavioral Health, Credit, Prevention, KWSO, the Community Action Team, Emily Courtney/Pictures, OSU Extension, Elders Judy Charley, Jeffery Saunders, Shirley Saunders, Sylvia McCabe, Lucy Smith, Melinda Frank, Lori Fuentes.

All of our own ECE staff, Head Start teachers, Day Care teachers, ECE administrative staff, and the Food Program staff—Thank you so much! Everyone did a great job.

Note: ECE will be celebrating Indigenous Week November 16-19.

Welcome supplies donation to tribes

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints in October donated 24 pallets of food and supplies to the Confederated Tribes.

Missionaries from the church and tribal members unloaded the supplies that the church sent from its Bishop's Storehouse in Salt Lake City.

The church maintains 15 farms, five canneries and 110 food distribution centers called Bishops' Storehouses, all staffed primarily by local volunteers.

The church also has five additional processing plants that specialize in meat, milk, bread, grain and pasta, and soap. These facilities help provide assistance to church members in need and to local community partners.

The church in 2020 also provided the Confederated Tribes a smaller supply of food at the beginning of the Covid-19 pandemic.

Earlier last month, Mitch Wilcox, president of the Redmond Stake for the church, contacted Danny Martinez, the emergency response officer for the tribes.

Mr. Martinez said he was grateful for the help, as the tribes have been providing meals to quarantined families on the reservation since the beginning of the pandemic.

Dan relies on Dorothea 'Dot' Thurby as the manager of the social needs organization for the tribes.

Dorothea wishes to thank the church and volunteers for the generous help.

The donated food, along with cleaning supplies, will be distributed by Ms. Thurby's team as needed for quarantined families and those who find comfort in the warming shelter provided.

Looking back, in 2020 the church overall sent more than 800 truckloads of food to 380 food banks, homeless shelters and charitable agencies throughout the U.S.

Amazingly, in total these trucks supplied over 26 million meals to those in need. These truckloads came from several of the church's 110 bishops' storehouses in the U.S. and Canada.

The main warehouse distribution center is located in Salt Lake City, with five additional regional hubs located in Oregon, California, Indiana, Georgia and Canada. The food was delivered by 46 dedicated longhaul truck drivers for Deseret Transportation, who drove more than 1.6 million miles during the Covid-19 pandemic.

To Veterans, families of the tribes

Attention all Warm Springs Veterans and Familes:

It appears that a local memory care facility in Hillsboro was referring veterans and surviving spouses to a private legal group out of Tennessee that charges families a 'pre-consultation filing fee' for both Pension and Compensation: $1,000 for compensation, and $800 for pension.

Then the memory care facility would absorb the fee if they got into the home with the benefit.

There is no charge when filing for either pension or compensation through the VA. Please be aware that this may happen in our area as well, and please let me know if you encounter a situation like this. Thanks,

Frankie Williams, Tribal Veterans Service Officer, 541-460-0605. frankie.williams@wstribes.org

Note: This year Veterans Day is on Thursday, November 11. The tribal organization is closed on that day in honor of the veterans and their families

Inspiring Alumni

ALYSSA MACY CLASS OF '93

Dr. Janice White Clemmer and Alyssa Macy were honored recently at the Madras High School Homecoming. With fellow graduates Judge Dan Ahern and Stephen Hillis, Dr. Clemmer and Ms. Macy were honored as Inspiring Alumni.

They were introduced during a break at the high school Homecoming game, and presentations were shown on video in the high school classrooms.

Alyssa was the tribes' chief operations officer for a number of years. She now the chief executive officer of the Washington Environmental Council and Washington Conservation Voters.

of Commerce with the Champion for Children Award

This is a new chamber award created by the Jefferson County School District 509-J.

Ms. Danzuka is the chairwoman of the school district board. She works in Warm Springs at Ventures.

At the awards ceremony last week, Louise Muir presented the Business of the Year award to Black Bear Diner owners Joe and Nancy Davis, in appreciation for their support of local events, youth programs, senior citizens and veterans in Jefferson County.

Other award winners are Senior Citizen of the Year Shawn Stanfill, Volunteer of the Year Jenniffer Grant, Community Champion of the Year Angela Rhodes, and Public Servant of the Year Sheriff Marc Heckathorn.

At State meet

Isaiah Wapsheli and fellow Madras High School junior Hannah MacDuffee qualified for the 4A State Championships. They both had top-five finishes at the Tri-Valley District meet in late October. The state meet is this Saturday, November 6 at Lane Community College in Eugene.

You can call to schedule a Covid-19 vaccination, get on the list for a booster shot, and get your child ages 5-11 on the list for a vaccination. Call the clinic at 541-553-2131.

Community update: Covid-19 vaccine, cases update

As of early this week, there were 20 people on the reservation with active covid, and 24 close contacts receiving daily monitoring.

There were three people hospitalized with Covid-19; and zero on ventilators.

The Warm Springs Health and Wellness Center has conducted 15,348 total tests. Of the total, 14,293 have come back negative since the pandemic and testing began.

There have been a total of 1,019 positive cases among the tribal community. The overall positivity rate has been 6.64 percent.

St. Charles Medical has been at more than 78 percent capacity.

cent capacity.

The Warm Springs Indian Health Service and Community Health have given 2,993 primary covid vaccinatins.

Total number of Primary Covid Vaccinations given: 2993, including Moderna, Pfizer and Johnson & Johnson.

Total number of second vaccinations was at 2,525. This includes both the Moderna and Pfizer vaccines

The booster shot count was at 159, including the Pfizer, Moderna and J&J.

The clinic is now scheduling booster vaccines. If you are 65 or older, call the clinic vaccine line at 541-553-2131 to schedule an appointment.

The goal at IHS through early November is to get the booster to all of the community's 65 and older population, for those who coose to have the dose.

If you are 18-64 years old and meet the criteria for a booster dose, please call and let the clinic know you are interested in receiving your boost dose.

A person between 18 and 64 would qualify for the booster if he or she is at high risk of severe Covid-19—such as those with underlying medical conditions.

A person would qualify if he or she is in frequent institutional or occupational place of exposure to Covid-19. This would include a long-term healthcare facility resident, healthcare workers, first responders, education staff, corrections, etc.

Please get vaccinated, along with masking, social distancing, avoid gatherings, wash hands.... Be safe.

In the state of Oregon, health officials this week announced 1,420 new coronavirus cases.

A new state forecast indicates that while hospitalizations will continue to decline, that decline will be slower than it has been in the weeks since hospitalizations peaked last month.

By around Thanksgiving, total beds filled with Covid-19 patients is projected to fall to about 400 from the current 513. The projection was developed by the Oregon Health Sciences University.

Aja K. DeCoteau is the new CRITFC executive director

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission is pleased to announce that Aja K. DeCoteau was selected as the organization's new executive director at its October meeting.

"This is a great day for CRITFC and its member tribes," said CRITFC Treasurer Jeremy Takala, (Yakama).

"It is an honor as we see more and more Native American women take leadership roles nationally, in our tribal governments, and in the care and management of our First Foods. I believe Aja will carry on the tribal vision of putting fish back in the rivers that this organization has been working toward for nearly 50 years."

DeCoteau had been serving in the executive director role on an interim basis since April; however, this is the first time the organization has a woman serving as its official executive director.

"Our resilience is how the tribes have overcome challenges," said CRITFC Vice-chair Ron Suppah (Warm Springs).

"We bend and change, but always stay true to our culture and values. Our selection of Ms. DeCoteau is a positive change and I know that the future of CRITFC is in good hands."

The selection committee, comprised of leadership from all four of CRITFC's member tribes, was impressed by Ms. DeCoteau's expertise shown in her career, as well as the leadership abilities exhibited while serving as the organization's interim executive director.

"Aja has shown her skill in the needs and demands of this role over the past six months," said CRITFC Secretary Jeremy Wolf (Umatilla). "I want to express my pride and congratulations, not only in her abilities, but also the unique perspectives she will bring to our work."

DeCoteau is a citizen of the Confederated Tribes and Bands of the Yakama Nation and has other tribal lineage with the Cayuse, Nez Perce, and Turtle Mountain Band of Chippewa Indians. She grew up in Wapato, Washington on the Yakama Reservation. She has worked in natural resources her entire career.

For the past 12 years, she was the manager of CRITFC's Watershed Department, where she led a team focused on the implementation of Wy-Kan-Ush- Mi Wa-Kish-Wit—the tribes' salmon restoration plan, activities that impact ecosystems at the watershed, river basin, and regional landscape levels and coordinated the organization's climate change research and response.

"Since I was a child, my family, elders, and tribal leaders have taught me the significance of salmon as one of our First Foods and the importance of tribal treaty fishing rights," Ms. DeCoteau said.

"As tribal people, our natural resources are our cultural resources, which is why I have dedicated my career to protect them. I am honored and excited to lead CRITFC and work together with our member tribes to bridge traditional knowledge, scientific expertise, and cultural connection to ensure that we have salmon and other natural resources for generations to come."

As CRITFC's executive director, DeCoteau will work closely with its governing body to lead the organization's strategic direction and a team of more than 130 employees in four locations in Oregon, Washington, and Idaho to put fish back in the rivers, protect treaty fishing rights, share salmon culture, and provide direct services to tribal fishers along the Columbia River.

"I thank Aja for her time, commitment, and dedication, not only the service to her tribe, but to Native Americans and the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission," said CRITFC Chair Quincy Ellenwood (Nez Perce).

"There is a long road ahead of us and I have the ultimate confidence in her and look forward to working with her."

DeCoteau also sits on the Board of Trustees for Earthjustice, the Board of Directors for the Columbia Land Trust and the Portland Energy Conservation, Inc, and the Board of Advisors for WorldOregon. She received her Bachelor of Arts in Environmental Studies and Native American Studies from Dartmouth College and holds a Master of Environmental Management from Yale University, School of the Environment.

Spawning season on the Deschutes

After a long, hot and very dry summer, the region is finally headed into fall. The hope is for more rain, and some cool weather.

Fall weather also means it's also spawning season on the Deschutes.

The Confederated Tribes and Pelton-Round Butte biologists have been busy in the field conducting redd surveys in the Metolius, and tracking returning adult fish as they travel through the upper basin.

The team recently received some help in this work from fellow fish biologists from around the region at this year's conference for the Association of Power Biologists.

Scientists attending the event spent a day searching for Chinook redds, kokanee and sockeye in the Metolius River.

This was a great chance to connect with other experts from around the country and share some of our own research and best practices.

Following the fish

Radio-tagging returning adult fish at our Pelton trap allows us to track where fish go as they migrate upstream to spawn. Here's the story of one Chinook we've been monitoring this year:

This fish was captured at the Pelton trap, radio-tagged and released into Lake Billy Chinook on May 24.

Of the three tributaries— Crooked, Deschutes or Metolius the fish chose to migrate up the Crooked River.

On May 29, it passed through the Opal Springs Fish Ladder and continued its upstream migration despite low flows in the Crooked.

In September, biologists tried to get eyes on the Chinook again to verify its location.

Fish biologist Terry Shrader operated a radio-receiver and antenna, guiding fellow biologist Becky Burchell, equipped with snorkeling gear, toward the Chinook's location. Unfortunately, Becky was unable to spot the fish due to poor visibility in the water that day.

$760,000 funding for CRITFC program

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission is receiving $760,000 in funding to improve and expand the Coastal Margin Observation and Prediction program.

The funding is included in the recent federal Commerce, Justice and Science appropriations bill, as supported by Oregon's U.S. Senators Jeff Merkley and Ron Wyden.

The Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission treaty tribes—including the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs—assumed stewardship of the Coastal Margin Observation and Prediction program last year.

CRITFC and tribes see the facility as a perfect complement to the effort to combine cutting edge scientific research with traditional ecological knowledge in the estuary and ocean environments.

"Our co-management ethos dictates that wherever the salmon go, we go with them," said CRITFC chairman Quincy Ellenwood.

The work of the state's senate delegation to expand the important work of Coastal Margin Observation and Prediction program is greatly appreciated, Mr. Ellenwood said.

The work furthers the understanding of the linkage between the Columbia River and the Pacific Ocean, both in terms of how it impacts the region's salmon runs and how it helps quantify the effects of climate change on this important and delicate ecosystem.
