

On the Fourth of July in W.S.

There will be the fireworks display in Warm Springs on the evening of Monday, July 4. And earlier this week, organizers were working with veterans to plan for a Fourth of July Parade, said Dan Martinez, Emergency Management director.

Warm Springs Recreation is hosting the Fourth activities. Meanwhile, fire safety is always a concern this time of year, especially as temperatures are warming up and the chance of rain is minimal.

The fire danger level for the reservation this week increased to 3.

People who wish to light off their own fire works are encouraged to do so at the Community Center parking lot or the parking area at the Simnasho Longhouse.

Wishing everyone a Safe and Happy Fourth of July!

Great community day for Treaty of 1855

The Honoring Veterans Parade in Warm Springs happened on June 25, the Treaty Anniversary Day, honoring all veterans and this year commemorating the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Vietnam War.

The parade included the Horseback Riders, the Floats and Walkers. Parade entries were in the Traditional Pi-Ume-Sha style, and Honoring Veterans.

The parade, followed by a community gathering at the powwow grounds at the Community Center, was hosted by the Pi-Ume-Sha 2023 committee, KWSO 91.9 FM Radio, VFW Elliott Palmer Post 4217 and Eugene 'Cougar' Greene Sr. American Legion Post 48, the Confederated Tribes and Warm Springs Health and Human Services.

Covid remains a risk in the community

Recent numbers from the Warm Springs Covid Reponse Team showed there were 11 active cases among the community. Last week there were 15 local cases, showing the virus remains a potential health risk to the community. Testing of wastewater also demonstrates the virus is still among us, said Caroline Cruz, Health and Human Services general manager. Fortunately as of earlier this week, no one from the local community was hospitalized with covid.

Vaccination for youth

Very young children are eligible for a Covid-19 vaccination. The Food and Drug Administration earlier this month granted emergency use authorization to Pfizer's Covid-19 vaccine for children ages 6 months to 5 years; as well as to Moderna's vaccine for kids ages 6 months to 6 years. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention soon after recommended the vaccines, which are now available.

Approval of covid vaccination for very young people naturally raises a number of question: Are the vaccines safe? How effective are they, especially against Omicron? Should a child who recently had Covid-19 get vaccinated?

Vaccination in young children has not been high to date. Nationally only about 29 percent of children ages 5 to 11 are fully vaccinated, according to the CDC. This compares to a vaccination rate of 60 percent among kids ages 12 to 17. Parents are encouraged to speak with your health provider in making this important decision.

'Faces from the Land' exhibit at the museum

You will see some familiar faces from the Warm Springs community and around Indian Country at the new Museum at Warm Springs exhibit.

Faces from the Land: A Photographic Journey Through Native America is a traveling exhibition documenting the pride, spirit and identity of Native American powwow dancers throughout the U.S. and Canada.

The exhibit is the creation of Ben and Linda Marra. The exhibit features 36 of Ben Marra's large color portraits of powwow dancers.

Each photograph is accompanied by personal written narratives, composed by the subject, compiled by Linda Marra, describing the tribal significance of their regalia and dance. The striking images along with the text vividly detail the beauty of the powwow, which juxtaposes tradition and modern culture.

Working together as photographer and producer-documentarian respectively, Ben and Linda began to document powwows in 1988.

Always an integral part of Native life, the powwow offers the opportunity for people to gather and celebrate their spiritual connections to ancestors, the planet, community and traditions through drumming, dance and song.

The Marras produce two international calendars annually—Native American Dance and Powwow and Portraits of Native Americans—that are available at a discount to Native youth groups for fund-raising projects.

Their award-winning book, Powwow: Images Along the Red Road, was published by Abrams in 1996 and is in its eighth printing.

The Marras' work has been featured in numerous museums and national magazines, and was included in The Handbook of North American Indians published by the Smithsonian Institution.

Their second book, Faces from the Land: Twenty Years of Powwow Tradition was published in 2009, also by Abrams. For more information visit: benmarra.com Faces from the Land be on view through late September at the Museum at Warm Springs. The museum is now in Regional jobs near pre-covid level

Employment growth is beginning to slow across Central Oregon, including Jefferson County and the reservation.

This is actually good news, meaning that the jobless rate is about where it was before the pandemic.

The slower hiring is the result of the near-full recovery from the substantial covid layoffs of 2020 and 2021. In other words, job gains are becoming more consistent with normal seasonal patterns seen before the pandemic.

As such, unemployment rates are at or near historic low levels.

For Jefferson County, the unemployment rate was at 4.6 percent. The rate is fast approaching levels in February 2020, when it was 4.1 percent, just before the first impacts from Covid-19.

Total nonfarm employment rose by 150 jobs, slightly stronger gains than normal for this time of year.

According to the Oregon Employment Department: "Jefferson County has now largely recovered from the pandemic shock with the seasonally adjusted total nonfarm employment of 6,700 in line with the pre-pandemic peak."

Jefferson County has added 220 jobs over the past year. Job gains were concentrated in leisure and hospitality (up 90 jobs) and wood product manufacturing (up 60 jobs). The only notable job losses over the past year were in professional and business services (down 20 jobs).

For Deschutes County, including Bend and Redmond, the seasonally adjusted unemployment rate was 3.4 percent, a slight drop from 3.5 percent the previous month.

The difference between today's unemployment rate and the record low level of 3.3 percent before the onset of the pandemic is not statistically significant, according to the Employment Department.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics estimates that Deschutes County added 800 jobs just last month, marginally stronger gains than what is typical for this time of year.

The Bend metro area posted total nonfarm levels above 90,000 for the first time as the local labor market continues to expand. Employment levels are now higher than the level just before the pandemic. Total nonfarm employment expanded by 2.5 percent.

Deschutes County is no longer the fastest growing metro area in the state, as several metro areas that have been slow to recover from the pandemic shock saw faster job gains over the past year, including Portland, Eugene, Corvallis, and Albany.

Roughly half of the job gains over the past year in Deschutes County were concentrated in the hard hit leisure and hospitality sector.

Crook County: The seasonally adjusted unemployment rate fell to 4.8 percent.

The pre-pandemic level was 4.4 percent. Crook County added 100 jobs in May, slower growth than typical for this time of year.

Laborers for Kah-Nee-Ta project

Help getting ready for fire season

The 2022 fire season has arrived on the reservation, and Fire Management and Fire and Safety are encouraging everyone to be cautious and mindful of practicing safety to avoid human-caused fire.

Recent years have seen very active summer fire seasons on the reservation. The worst recent fire year was 2020, when the Lionshead Fire burned in August and September. Lionshead in time grew to 200,000 acres, on the reservation and off. Last year was also active, with the S-503 fire, among others, burning several thousand acres.

The Warm Springs Fire Management and Fire and Safety crews each year dedicate themselves to fighting fires, protecting the communities and the forest land.

This year the tribes had some assistance in preparing for the season, after Dan Martinez, Warm Springs Emergency Management director, requested assistance from Team Rubicon.

Team Rubicon serves communities by mobilizing veterans, first-responders and civilians by leveraging skills and experience to help people prepare, respond, and recover from disasters and humanitarian crises. This would obviously include catastrophic wildfire.

“We don’t fight fires, but if we can stop some of the damage that can happen from a fire before it actually happens, that’s why we’re here and we tend to focus on areas that need help,” said Bill Terrill, incident commander for the Warm Springs Team Rubicon operation.

The team focused on areas around the museum, the casino and Highway 26. Dan Martinez said he feels blessed that parts of Warm Springs will be better-positioned to minimize risk, save homes and possibly save lives.

Team Rubicon was founded following the Haiti earthquake in 2010. Over the years the organization has grown to over 160,000 volunteers across the U.S. The team has launched over 1,000 operations both domestically and internationally. You can see their website at: teamrubiconusa.org

Mr. Terrill for Team Rubicon commented, “We are committed to supporting the Warm Springs community in their efforts to reduce the impact of wildland fire that historically sweeps through the reservation every year. We will bring a workforce, skills, and equipment to assist their efforts.

“By improving natural fire-breaks or creating new ones, reducing fuel loads, and building defensible spaces around properties, Team Rubicon and Warm Springs hope to minimize the impact of these fires, save homes, and possibly save lives.”

As a proud partner of the tribes, Team Rubicon was on the reservation this past weekend into Monday of this week.

Longer fire seasons

As is well documented, the American West is burning more quickly than it has in more than a decade. The Southwest, for instance, has already been fighting its two biggest wildfires on record for more than a month. About 3 million acres of U.S. land had already burned as of earlier in June.

And two weeks into summer, a widespread heat wave is already in place; and burning may quite likely get worse.

The changing climate has created a troubling reality, ecologists and foresters are saying: Wildfire seasons have turned into wildfire years, starting earlier in the spring and lasting into winter.

Fair, rodeo in July

The Jefferson County Fair and Rodeo—this year with the theme Summer Nights and Carnival Lights—is coming up Wednesday through Saturday, July 20-23 at the county fair complex.

There will be 4-H and FAA exhibits, food booths, live music all four nights; and the Friday and Saturday rodeo action.

This year visitors will see the new show barn—just one of the many improvements around the fair facilities.

The fair kicks off Wednesday morning July 20, with the Veterans Breakfast under the pavilion at 8 a.m. Opening ceremonies follow later in the morning.

4-H and FAA livestock shows—showing off the hard work and dedication of young people who have been raising their animals—also start opening day.

Returning this year will be Antonio Sombrero, a professional balloon twister. You can have him make you one of his balloon creations, known to those who have seen them as “true artistry.” The Paul Maurer Shows—the carnival and traveling amusement company—returns with 35 rides, fun games, and cotton candy food concessions.

Bands are lined up to take the stage every night of the fair. They include Jessie Leigh, Countryfied, and Stone in Love—a Journey tribute band, among others.

There will be the Family Fun Night in the arena; the tri-tip cook-off on Saturday, and the rodeo on Friday and Saturday nights.

For information you can call the Jefferson County Fair Events Coordinator at 541-325-5050.

$600 to some families

The Oregon Department of Revenue is distributing $600 checks to qualifying households. The money is a one-time assistance payment aimed to support low-income Oregonians, and help those facing a hardship due to Covid-19.

To qualify households must have received the Earned Income Tax Credit on their 2020 tax filing, and lived in Oregon the last six months of 2020.

Over 235,000 Oregonians will soon receive the cash infusion. Payments should arrive through direct deposit or by check on or before this Friday, July 1.

House Bill 4157 directs the Oregon Department of Revenue to address negative economic impacts of the pandemic with one-time financial assistance to low-income households. The payments across the state are expected to amount to nearly $142 million and paid from federal pandemic aid.

Portland man arrested on drug charges, warrant

Warm Springs tribal police officers arrested a Portland man last week on charges of possession of fentanyl and psilocybin. James Paul Bauer, 41, was also wanted on an outstanding warrant.

The incident happened on Wednesday, June 22, when tribal police conducted a vehicle stop on Highway 26 on the reservation, near the community of Warm Springs.

At the time of the vehicle stop, police officers were notified the registered owner, Bauer, had an outstanding arrest warrant issued from Hood River for driving under the influence of intoxicants and possession of a dangerous drug.

Due to the nature of the underlying charges related to the warrant, a narcotics detective attended the scene with a certified drug detection dog. An initial investigation led to the discovery of 34 suspected fentanyl pills, and approximately six grams of what was purported to be psilocybin mushrooms.

Police took Bauer into custody on the Hood River arrest warrant and transported him to the Jefferson County Jail. Bauer was also civilly cited into the Warm Springs Tribal Court with fines amounting to as much as $10,000, in addition to being cited by Jefferson County Court for prosecution under Oregon State statutes.

However, as the possession and transportation of narcotics occurred on the reservation, and involved the possible possession of fentanyl—a drug that has been responsible for hospitalizations and deaths everywhere throughout the state—this matter is also being forwarded to the U.S. Attorney’s Office for possible felony prosecution under federal law.

Warm Springs police want to notify the public that even though there are new laws affecting the State of Oregon regarding the possession of controlled substances, on lands that are under the jurisdiction of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs current tribal and federal drug statutes are in effect.

The protection of the Warm Springs community against the introduction of drugs like fentanyl, heroin and meth are a priority for the Warm Springs Police Department.

The department officers will continue to vigorously enforce all drug laws, which in turn could subject violators to federal criminal prosecution, and civil process within the power of the tribe that could lead to the loss of property, such as vehicles, used in commission of these offenses and stiff fines.

“We hope that the public take these facts into consideration if they intend to be in possession of any amount of controlled substances while coming onto, or transiting through the Warm Springs Indian Reservation, and understand that the lax drug possession provisions contained in SB-110 do not apply to this jurisdiction,” according to a statement from Warm Springs Police.

Even though the Warm Springs community and government embraces prevention, intervention, and rehabilitation as the ultimate means of bringing about a drug safe environment, it also strongly believes in the rule of law as part of its governmental doctrine.

As such, Warm Springs Police continues to work closely with all facets of the drug abuse and mental health agencies operated by this tribe, but will not tolerate drug usage, possession, or trafficking within its jurisdiction no, matter the amount.

Piano concert on Saturday

Save money during summer

We are now seeing the first real heat this summer with temperatures nearing 100 degrees. This year is also the first anniversary of last year's deadly and history-making 'heat dome'.

The Energy Trust of Oregon is a nonprofit that helps utility customers reduce energy use.

Here are five tips to help you save energy and keep your home cool. Plus, with energy prices climbing, these simple home improvements can provide much-needed financial relief.

Power down heat-generating devices: Home appliances, electronics and incandescent light bulbs create heat when on. Power down and consider upgrading to LED—light emitting diode—lights, which operate more efficiently and don't give off excess heat. Skip the oven and use the microwave, stovetop or grill outside, if possible.

Use your windows strategically: Less light means less heat. Close windows, blinds, shades and curtains to keep heat outside.

Light-colored window coverings also help reflect heat away. Close windows and window coverings in hot weather during the day to keep hot air out and open windows at night or early morning to let cool air in.

As a longer-term strategy, consider planting trees or tall shrubs to filter sunlight before it enters your home.

A ceiling fan can help circulate cool air from your air conditioning.

Keep hot air out and cool air in: Sealing air leaks and insulating your home can reduce cooling and heating costs.

Make the most of air conditioning: When no one is home, set the air conditioner or heat pump thermostat a few degrees higher than normal. Check the system air filter regularly and change it when it looks dirty. A dirty filter makes the system work less efficiently and reduces airflow. Make sure all vents and registers are well-sealed where they meet floors, walls and ceilings.

Hannah Mullin, the Energy Trust of Oregon.

For pets of the reservation

The Oregon Humane Society veterinary care team and Fences for Fido partnered with Warm Springs Fire and Safety to host a wellness and vaccine clinic in Warm Springs in mid June.

Fences for Fido is a nonprofit that builds enclosure for pets.

The June pet clinic allowed people to come and receive medical care, vaccines, food and more for their dogs and cats.

The clinic cared for over 100 animals, providing vaccines, wellness exams and more. The Oregon Humane Society also took 18 surrenders of puppies and kittens. Additionally, Fences for Fido distributed 6,500 pounds of food to residents.

To be invited on the reservation to work with the community is sincerely a tribute to the staff members and volunteers who made this possible.

Sam Lee, Oregon Humane Society staff member.

Tribal leader named Treasurer of the U.S.

Another Native woman has made history at the highest levels of government.

Lynn Malerba, the lifetime chief of the Mohegan Tribe, was chosen recently to serve as Treasurer of the United States.

She is the first Native person to serve in the leadership role, which has been vacant for more than two years.

As Treasurer, Malerba will serve as a key adviser to Secretary Janet Yellen, who is creating history of her own as the first leader of the Department of the Treasury to visit Indian Country.

Coinciding with the announcement of Ms. Malerba as Treasurer, she and Secretary Yellen met with leaders of the Rosebud Sioux Tribe.

Malerba will also oversee the newly created Office of Tribal and Native Affairs at her department. The developments direct fresh attention to a federal agency where Indian Country's needs have often been overlooked.

"I am deeply honored that Chief Malerba will serve as the nation's Treasurer and spearhead the department's new Office of Tribal and Native Affairs," Secretary Yellen said while visiting the the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota. "This is an historic appointment.

"Her leadership and experience will deepen our commitment to help expand economic opportunities for all tribal communities," Yellen said of Malerba.

Malerba has already been furthering her expertise as part of the Treasury Tribal Advisory Committee. She was one of the first members named to the panel, which was established through an act of by Congress in order to address long-standing issues affecting taxation, economic development and finance in Indian Country.

The Treaty of 1855 ~

(The tribes this month marked the One-Hundred and Sixty-Seventh Anniversary of the signing of the Treaty of 1855, June 25. The opening Treaty articles appeared in the previous Spilyay Tymoo; and the following are the final articles of the document.)

Article 5. The United States further engage to secure and pay for the services and subsistence, for the term of fifteen years, of one farmer, one blacksmith, and one wagon and plough maker; and for the term of twenty years, of one physician, one sawyer, one miller, one superintendent of farming operations, and one school teacher.

The United States also engage to erect four dwelling-houses, one for the head chief of the confederated bands, and one each for the Upper and Lower De Chutes bands of Walla-Wallas, and for the Wascopum band of Wascoes, and to fence and plough for each of the said chiefs ten acres of land; also to pay the head chief of the confederated bands a salary of five hundred dollars per annum for twenty years, commencing six months after the three principal bands named in this treaty shall have removed to the reservation, or as soon thereafter as a head chief should be elected:

And provided, also, That at any time when by the death, resignation, or removal of the chief selected, there shall be a vacancy and a successor appointed or selected, the salary, the dwelling, and improvements shall be possessed by said successor, so long as he shall occupy the position as head chief; so also with reference to the dwellings and improvements provided for by this treaty for the head chiefs of the three principal bands named.

Article 5.The President may, from time to time, at his discretion, cause the whole, or such portion as he may think proper, of the tract that may now or hereafter be set apart as a permanent home for these Indians, to be surveyed into lots and assigned to such Indians of the confederated bands as may wish to enjoy the privilege, and locate thereon permanently.

To a single person over twentyone years of age, forty acres; to a family of two persons, sixty acres; to a family of three and not exceeding five, eighty acres; to a family of six persons, and not exceeding ten, one hundred and twenty acres; and to each family over ten in number, twenty acres for each additional three members.

And the President may provide such rules and regulations as will secure to the family in case of the death of the head thereof the possession and enjoyment of such permanent home and the improvement thereon; and he may, at any time, at his discretion, after such person or family has made location on the land assigned as a permanent home, issue a patent to such person or family for such assigned land, conditioned that the tract shall not be aliened or leased for a longer term than two years and shall be exempt from levy, sale, or forfeiture, which condition shall continue in force until a State constitution embracing such lands within its limits shall have been formed, and the legislature of the State shall remove the restrictions.

Provided, however, That no State legislature shall remove the restrictions herein provided for without the consent of Congress.

And provided, also, That if any person or family shall at any time neglect or refuse to occupy or till a portion of the land assigned and on which they have located, or shall roam from place to place indicating a desire to abandon his home, the President may, if the patent shall have been issued, revoke the same, and if not issued, cancel the assignment, and may also withhold from such person, or family, their portion of the annuities, or other money due them, until they shall have returned to such permanent home and resumed the pursuits of industry, and in default of their return the tract may be declared abandoned, and thereafter assigned to some other person or family of Indians residing on said reservation.

Article 6. The annuities of the Indians shall not be taken to pay the debts of individuals.

Article 7. The confederated bands acknowledge their dependence on the Government of the United States, and promise to be friendly with all the citizens thereof, and pledge themselves to commit no depredation on the property of said citizens; and should any one or more of the Indians violate this pledge, and the fact be satisfactorily proven before the agent, the property taken shall be returned, or in default thereof, or if injured or destroyed, compensation may be made by the Government out of their annuities; nor will they make war on any other tribe of Indians except in self-defense, but submit all matters of difference between them and other Indians to the Government of the United States, or its agents for decision, and abide thereby; and if any of the said Indians commit any depredations on other Indians, the same rule shall prevail as that prescribed in the case of depredations against citizens; said Indians further engage to submit to and observe all laws, rules, and regulations which may be prescribed by the United States for the government of said Indians.

Article 8. In order to prevent the evils of intemperance among said Indians, it is hereby provided, that if any one of them shall drink liquor to excess, or procure it for others to drink, his or her proportion of the annuities may be withheld from him or her for such time as the President may determine.

Article 9. The said confederated bands agree that whensoever, in the opinion of the President of the United States, the public interest may require it, that all roads, highways, and railroads shall have the right of way through the reservation herein designated, or which may at any time hereafter be set apart as a reservation for said Indians.

This treaty shall be obligatory on the contracting parties as soon as the same shall be ratified by the President and Senate of the United States. Joel Palmer, Superintendent of Indian Affairs, O.T

To better prepare for emergency

To better prepare for a potential emergency situation on the reservation, Danny Martinez, director of tribal Emergency Management, coordinated with the Health and Human Services Branch to participate in an exercise headed by Thunderbird and Whale 2022.

The exercise was for tribal nations of the Northwest. Thirty-two tribal nations of the region participated in the three-day exercise. During the exercise, 1,050 pounds of potatoes, carrots and onions were transported to the Madras Airport by small planes.

The pilots were able to demonstrate their skills in reacting to an emergency Planes arrive with bags of food (above), which were then transported by truck (right) to Warm Springs Commodities for distribution to the community.

by landing the small planes and delivering food for the tribes. The food items were then transported to Warm Springs Commodities for inclusion as part of the food bank given out to local community members.

ticipated: Dan Martinez, Caroline and Papo Cruz, Hazen Bruisehead, Theo Perez, Johnson Bill, Dot Thurby, Persius Bradley and Britany Archer.

Tribes’ Salmon Camp in August

After nearly two years of not holding the summer Salmon Camp due to covid, the Columbia River Inter-Tribal Fish Commission is happy to announce the camp is returning.

Salmon Camp 2022 will be Monday through Friday, August 22-26 at Camp Namanu in Sandy.

The Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs are hosting the camp this year.

If your student wants to learn about the science of salmon, know more about the tribal salmon culture or help with a stream restoration project, Salmon camp is the place to do it.

Five students from each CRITFC member tribe will be selected entering grades six through eight.

Salmon camp is free; however, space is limited and the participants are selected through an application process.

Applications must be received as soon as possible. All meals and lodging are included and a stipend will be provided upon successful completion of the program. See the site: critfc.org/for-kids-home/salmon-camp/

New Indigenous Studies come to Yakima Valley

Yakima Valley College will launch multiple courses regarding Native American and Indigenous studies for the 2022-23 academic year, allowing students to explore the social, political and cultural issues within the communities.

“We serve students and have faculty members from several Native nations from across the United States,” said Jonathan Byrn, instructor of Ethnic Studies and American Indian and Indigenous studies.

“This initiative serves to better represent them on campus and in our curriculum by providing education to both Native and non-Native students on the histories of Indigenous peoples in North America as well as issues faced by contemporary populations today,” Mr. Byrn said.

Three new classes will be offered:

Introduction to American Indian and Indigenous Studies. This is an introduction to the interdisciplinary field that provides a historic and contemporary perspective of social, political and cultural issues that Indigenous peoples in North America face.

Native American History to 1815. This is a two-part survey of Indigenous history in North America that examines major themes like colonialism, decolonization, treaty making, conflict, federal Indian policy, genocide, resistance, tribal sovereignty and self-determination.

Contemporary Issues of Native Nations. This is a course that provides an understanding of the impacts of historical events and trauma, the resiliency of Native nations and the role of tribal sovereignty in the US
