Getting ready for skatepark opening

Workers are putting the finishing touches on the new Warm Springs Skatepark at Elmer Quinn Park. The concrete structure is impressive with a large skating deck area, quarter and half pipes, mini ramps, vertical ramps, spines and extensions, to use the skatepark terminology.

The project has been a volunteer and non-profit effort, bringing a new activity for the youth of the reservation, said Michael Collins, manager of tribal Managed Care. Mr. Collins has been the local lead person in coordinating the construction, working with Tactics skateboards and The Skatepark Project.

The new park replaces the previous wooden ramps that had been in place for almost 20 years. Some other added new features at the park will lights for nighttime skating, and a frisbee golf course.

The grand opening for the skatepark will be next Wednesday, March 29 at 11 a.m. There will be a blessing ceremony, guest speakers, the ribbon cutting, skateboard demonstrations, a DJ, food, giveaways and more.

Portland-based Tactics, a leader in the field, is a retail shop specializing in skateboards and snowboards, with a team dedicated to promoting these sports.

founded by professional skater Tony Hawk and based in California, helps underserved communities create safe and inclusive public skateparks for youth.

There are many sponsors who have made the skatepark happen, including the Confederated Tribes and Jefferson County, and the generous groups mentioned on the Grand Opening flyer (page 2).

Education Language Conference starts Sunday

The Healing Through Our Languages conference opens this Sunday, March 26 at the OSU Cascades Campus in Bend. The Confederated Tribes, Education and Culture and Heritage are hosting the event, with tribal language teachers and guests arriving from around the Northwest and California. The conference opens Sunday morning at 10 a.m. with Washut led by Dallas Winishut of Culture and Heritage, and friends.

On Sunday the conference will also host a field trip to the High Desert Museum, where a Northwest Native Art show—Creations of Spirit—is on display.

The Language conference opening prayer ceremony is at 4 p.m. Sunday, followed by posting of the colors, honor song, welcome dance, and opening speech by Valerie Switzler, the tribes' Education general manager. The Tribal Council chairman and other are also opening speakers before for the dinner at 6 p.m. in the OSU-Cascades cafeteria.

The conference language teaching and sharing sessions begin Monday morning, March 27. The morning keynote speaker will be Jeri Brunoe, youth leadership trainer, prevention specialist and consultant among many accomplishments.

The conference participants then meet in groups by conference topic category: Teacher to teacher; Linguistics Computer Technology; Youth Leadership; and Native Lifeways in Education. The group sessions are throughout the day, followed by dinner and an evening keynote speaker.

Brent Florendo, Academic Programs coordinator of Native American Studies at Southern Oregon University in Ashland, is the scheduled Tuesday morning keynote speaker of the conference. Following the day sessions on Tuesday there will be a salmon bake at the campus, and social dance with the Wasco Dancers and Swan Dancers.

JoDe Goudy, of Redthought.org and former Yakama Nation Council chairman, will give the morning keynote address on the final day of the conference. Wednesday morning will also feature the silent auction winners, closing ceremony, retirement of the flags and Farewell Dance.

If you would like to attend the Healing Through Our Languages conference, please contact Lori Switzler at 541-553-3290. Or email: lori.switzler@wstribes.org

Or contact Gina Ricketts at: gricketts53@gmail.com

Or email Valerie at: valerie.wwitzler@wstribes.org

Warm Springs case shows complex legal question in Indian Country

Legal jurisdiction in criminal cases that arise on tribal lands is a confusing subject, at times even for the experts in the field. This is because a number of unique legal factors come into play when a crime happens on tribal land. Some of these factors include whether the defendant is an Indian or non-Indian; whether the crime is major or minor; whether or not there is a victim of the crime, and whether the victim is Indian or non-Indian, for instance.

Some of the questions remain in dispute to this day, as shown by a case—still making its way through the court system—that happened in 2016 on the Warm Springs Reservation.

Jurisdiction refers to the power of a court over a particular person or matter. Criminal jurisdiction can be tribal, federal or state. Usually, for major crimes in Indian Country the jurisdiction is with the federal government, except in some cases when the suspect is non-Indian and the victim is non-Indian. Then the jurisdiction can be with the state court.

The case of Johnny Ellery Smith v. the United States presents another scenario that may end up at the U.S. Supreme Court, as the case has already been ruled on by U.S. Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals, and then appealed by the defendant to the U.S. Supreme Court. The question involves criminal jurisdiction in Indian Country.

What happened was the defendant apparently attempted to elude police while on the reservation. Tribal police arrested the person, who was charged in federal court. He was charged with violating Oregon state laws. The point of contention is summarized as follows:

“The defendant filed a motion to dismiss the indictment on the ground that the federal government lacked jurisdiction to charge him in federal court for a state law violation alleged to have been committed by an Indian in Indian country.”

The case involves legal interpretations of the federal Assimilative Crimes Act; the federal General Crimes Act; and the federal Indian Country Crimes Act; plus the state law regarding fleeing or attempting to elude a police officer. After much litigation so far, the case is on appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court, a clear indication of the complexity of criminal jurisdiction in Indian Country.

New WSCAT program focusing on tech, workforce

The Warm Springs Community Action Team has developed a new Technology Workforce program, currently in the process of capacity building. Sara Dowty is the Community Action Team Technology Workforce Analyst.

“The program is currently focused on researching the technology needs, and researching technology training opportunities,” Ms. Dowty said. “We’re researching local technology companies, and beginning to create the technology workforce program.” Sara explains:

The new program will be training local Warm Springs tribal members in the field of technology. The plan is to create skilled tribal members in the field of technology, with a positive impact in Warm Springs.

“The technology workforce program plans to create a long-term positive change for the local community,” Sara says.

The program will provide training opportunities to increase technology in IT—information technology—and computer skills. The program will also assist individuals in job placement, and will be a technology resource.

The WSCAT Technology Workforce program is planning to create a solar installation, solar maintenance and solar training program.

This may include collaborating with other businesses in the local area to purchase equipment, provide apprenticeships, internships, or other training opportunities.

Sara Dowty, Community Action Team Technology Workforce Analyst.

“Our project will help bridge the skill gap and create a skilled tribal workforce to ultimately assist in sustaining tribal sovereignty,” Sara says.

WSCAT recently applied for a small grant to purchase technology, to be used to create a computer lab area. “We will be purchasing laptops, hot spots, headphones, and other technology equipment that will be needed for a training program,” she said.

“The goal is to create a computer lab area where the Technology Workforce participants will come and attend computer classes to learn,” Sara said.

WSCAT has identified some of the basic technology and employment needs in Warm Springs and will work with low-income individuals to build the skills needed to be successful.

Importantly for now: WSCAT and the Technology Workforce program are seeking tribal member input.

The survey will be used to help develop the local community-based needs Technology Workforce program: “Tribal member input is vital to creating a program around what the local Warm Springs residents are interested in learning,” Dowty said.

Completing the survey and providing valuable input will be vital in the creation of the new program.

WSCAT’s goal is to provide tribal members assistance by bridging any gaps or barriers that may hinder training opportunities in the field of technology. The information may be used when applying for future grant opportunities to obtain funding for future technology workforce training opportunities for tribal members.

“Your participation in the survey is greatly appreciated,” Ms. Dowty says.

The survey is open for youth working age 14 and over. “It will be particularly interesting to know what technology the youth are interested in as well,” she says.

The Technology Workforce program may focus half of its effort on working age youth to develop their computer skills and interests.

There may be winter, spring and summer computer technology and solar camps. and there may be some digital arts classes for youth as well, as an example.

Regarding the survey: A $5 gift card to the Painted Pony will be provided to the first 50 participants (Warm Springs residents) who provide their contact information while completing the survey.

Upon completion of the survey, if you provide your name and other contact information, you may be able to pick up the gift card during open business hours. Your contact information and responses will remain confidential.

The link to the survey is: forms.gle/yjynMDM9mJbkAiATA

The link is also available via the WSCAT Facebook page.

The WSCAT Technology Workforce program is planning to host a community input meeting on the project.

The meeting, probably a ‘lunch and learn’ event, is tentatively planned for April. If you need any more information about the program or survey, please feel free to reach out and ask:

Letters to the editor

IHS lifts mask requirement

Warm Springs Indian Health Service has lifted mandatory masking requirements for patients, staff and visitors at the clinic.

Because community transmission and infection rates for covid have remained low, the masking requirement has been dropped.

If transmission rates increase to high levels again, masking may be resumed. Masks will remain available at the clinic.

Please note: For anyone entering the Health and Wellness Center with respiratory symptoms, you are asked to mask, cover your cough and, clean your hands frequently to help prevent the spread of illness.

Chieftainship

I am Raymond Tsumpti Jr., son of Wauna Calica (Wasco) and Raymond Tsumpti Sr. (Warm Springs). I've learned that certain members of the Wasco community have stood up to claim that an election should take place for our next Chief of the Wasco people. Unfortunately, the claim has come very late in the process because our late chief had already selected a sub-chief in August 2016 without any objection from the community.

According to the Tribal Constitution, Article four, section eight, the taking of the Oath of Office is subject to all Tribal Council members who are elected into office, and any tribal executive officers appointed by Tribal Council shall uphold and defend the United State Constitution and the Tribal Constitution and By-Laws. In addition, these Tribal Council members can enforce the due process clause and equal protection clause for all tribal members of the Confederated Tribes of Warm Springs Indian Reservation of Oregon.

Since the late Chief selected a sub-chief by traditional norms and customs of the Wasco Tribe, and with his passing the duly appointed sub-Chief is now our Wasco Chief, and shall be sworn in as soon as possible to protect the U.S. Constitutional rights to equal protection under the laws of the U.S. Constitution, and shall not be denied due process of the law in life, liberty and property. In this case, Wissie Smith was selected by the late Chief in our accepted customs and norms of the Wasco Tribe in 2016 without any objection from anyone.

Now, during 2022 and in 2023, we have a group of tribal members who are forcefully attempting to impose their will on the rest of the Wasco Tribe by circumventing established tribal traditions and norms of the Wasco people to disenfranchise and unconstitutionally unseat the current sub-Chief Wissie Smith. The group or groups of people unlawfully trying to impose an election for our Wasco Chief is not supported by any organic legal document to establish such claims of elections. Our Tribal Constitution does not specify a procedure to support their claim of an elected Chief of the tribe.

Our Tribal Constitution supports the actions taken by the late Chief to select a successor by allowing the sub-Chief ceremony to take place as recognized by our tribal customs and traditions. Under Constitutional laws, the opposing parties violate the sub-chief's Constitutional protected rights of equal protection. Therefore, they shall not deny him the life of Chief without due process of law.

Since there was a vast amount of time when the sub-chief ceremony took place roughly six to seven years ago, the opposition of the selected sub-chief should have known that a timely objection should have taken place at that time. And the doctrine of Laches prohibits untimely protests in this instance. Therefore, I call upon the representatives of the Wasco people to officially recognize our next Chief Wissie Smith and swear him into office as soon as possible.

Respectfully submitted,

Raymond Tsumpti Jr., enrollment no. 2040, Wasco/Warm Springs tribal member.

For veterans

The Jefferson County Veterans of Foreign Wars is hosting their annual Welcome Home Vietnam Veterans Day spaghetti dinner. The gathering will be this Saturday, March 25 from 4:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Jefferson County Community Center, and is open to the community.

The evening will feature the spaghetti dinner, silent auction and raffles for an e-bike and other items. There is a $10 suggested donation. For more information contact Leonard Hellwig at 541-777-1453. Or call Richard Lohman, 541-513-4689. Also coming up for veterans:

A Veterans Town Hall is coming up on Thursday, March 30 at the Jefferson County Community Center. The event, starting at 1 p.m., will feature questions and answers concerning access to community health care programs, Veterans benefits, and the rural healthcare transportation program.

The town hall will provide a guide to the community care network, dispel misinformation and offer adversity recourse. The event is open to all prior and present service members and families, and is hosted by the VA Community Care, Bend Clinic Advocacy Specialists, CET Rural Transportation specialists, and local Veterans Service officers and community advocates.

To artists

The months of April and May at the Art Adventure Gallery in Madras will feature the many talented artists who live in and around Jefferson County. Artists may submit up to four pieces in any medium. Two dimensional work should be framed, wired and ready for hanging. Application forms are available at the gallery or may be downloaded from the website: artadventuregallery.com

Work can be dropped off at any time during business hours, Wednesday through Friday, 12 noon to 4 p.m., during the last week of March. This is the annual celebration of the gallery of the artists who live here. The opening reception for the All Jefferson County exhibit will be from 5:30 to 7 p.m. on Thursday, April 5.

At Voc Rehab

Warm Springs Vocational Rehabilitation will be out of the office through this Friday, March 24, for staff training. Thank you from Wayne, Michele and Katrina, Vocational Rehabilitation.

Seeking OHSU On Track! Warm Springs liaison

The Oregon Health Sciences University—OHSU—seeks to hire a Warm Springs liaison for the program, On Track! OHSU!

The position is the OHSU tribal representative, helping recruit young people into the health care field.

This is a full-time job, Monday through Friday; though hours will vary with some nights and weekends required. The salary range is $25.61 to $34.63 per hour, depending on education and experience.

On Track! OHSU! is part of OHSU's Office of Science Education Opportunities; and is a health science pathway program working to increase the racial diversity of OHSU's schools and programs, and in Oregon's biomedical workforce.

On Track! works with students starting in sixth grade, and stays with those same students through high school and college.

On Track! has been working with students since 2013, and is currently partnering with communities in Warm Springs, North Portland, Woodburn, Chiloquin, and Klamath Falls, focusing on tribal, black, and latinx students.

As a member of the Office of Science Education Opportunities team, the On Track! OHSU! Warm Springs community liaison will be based in Warm Springs and responsible for creating a direct connection between OHSU and the Warm Springs community.

With a commitment to the On Track! values of 'People First, Integrity, Curiosity, Commitment, and Empowered,' the Community Liaison works in partnership and with guidance from the Warm Springs Education Committee.

The community liaison engages with Warm Springs middle and high school students, recent high school graduates and post-secondary students, in order to help On Track! better reach the goal of increasing student interest in, awareness of, and preparation for health and science degrees and careers.

The community liaison also creates connections with families and Warm Springs resources, to engage families and the community in the On Track! program.

The community liaison is responsible for helping adapt program materials and lessons with a culturally responsive lens to best fit the needs of students from the Warm Springs community. Job requirements:

Four years of general office or secretarial experience; or an Associate's degree or certificate in office occupations or office technology and two years of general office or secretarial experience; or a Bachelor's degree and two years of general office or secretarial experience; or an equivalent combination of training and lived experience.

Minimum 2 years' experience working with tribal communities.

Demonstrated experience creating culturally responsive activities and events.

Demonstrated experience working with tribal educational resources.

Ability to mentor and advise students in high school or college.

Demonstrated knowledge, skills and ability with planning events.

Comfortable collaborating and communicating with multiple community and OHSU partners including families, tribal, school district, and professional entities.

Demonstrated experience presenting to student and family groups.

Knowledge of college and scholarship application requirements and strategies.

Highly organized, with proven ability to manage time.

Strong communication and writing skills: cover letter required

Reliable access to a car for travel to Madras, local community colleges and universities, other On Track!

sites and OHSU. Travel expenses are reimbursed. Valid Oregon Driver's License.

Preferred experience: Background in STEM—Science, Technology, Engineering and Mathematics—field. Knowledge of FAFSA process. Familiarity with Oregon colleges and universities. Understanding of college transfer process and bridge programs such as TRiO and CAMP.

A cover letter explaining your interest in this position is required.

OHSU is an equal opportunity, affirmative action institution. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment and will not be discriminated against on the basis of disability or protected veteran status. Applicants with disabilities can request reasonable accommodation by contacting the Affirmative Action and Equal Opportunity Department at 503-494-5148.

As an organization devoted to the health and well-being of people in Oregon and beyond, OHSU requires its employees to be fully vaccinated against Covid-19.

How to apply: Go to the website: ohsu.edu/jobs

And click on the yellow button marked 'All Jobs.' Scroll to 'Job Listings.' In the box marked 'Start your job search here,' enter '2023-22281.' Be sure to upload a resume and a cover letter with your application.

Problem solving strategies for every day life

Note: This is the first in a series of articles, by Dr. Shilo Tippet and posted by KWSO, regarding Suicide Prevention.

Problem solving skills are important tools for managing stress and reducing the feeling of being overwhelmed.

Having these skills has also been shown to reduce feelings of stress, suicidality and substance abuse, while increasing feelings of competency and fulfillment.

Here are four ways to build your problem solving skills:

- Identify the problem you are facing. Write it down in basic terms.
- Decide that you want to address the problem. Write down why you want to.
- Seek ways to understand the problem more fully. Write down ideas you have that will help you with this.

- Identify solutions that will work.

Now you are ready to take action and resolve the problem. Sometimes having a timeline and support will help.

Pat Courtney Gold ~
1939-2023

Pat Courtney Gold, renowned Wasq'u basketmaker, passed away on February 1, 2023. She was 74.

Ms. Courtney Gold was born on January 22, 1939, and grew up on the Warm Springs Reservation. In her youth, she attended a Bureau of Indian Affairs boarding school, went on to earn a BA in Mathematics and Physics from Whitman College, and became a professional mathematician and computer specialist.

Childhood visits with her mother to museums, displaying traditional Wasq'u artwork, inspired Pat to study and help revive the full-turn twining technique, unique to her tribal community.

The result was a resurgence of Wasq'u 'sally bags,' twined root-digging bags with a traditional function for harvesting and storing traditional food.

The baskets were important because they were vital containers, Pat said: "We would catch the salmon, filet them, dry them and sell them as filets, or we would pound the filets into a powder salmon-like pemmican. That's what we traded. So the baskets were constantly being made, because when we would trade the salmon we would trade a container and all.

Pat Courtney Gold presents at Oregon Folklife Network 2013 Arts in Parks series.

"I always thought that was an interesting way to keep the skill of making baskets going.

"It's impossible to overstate the significance of awakening this sleeping tradition, which restores Indigenous wisdom and knowledge, revitalizes cultural form and function, and embodies Indigenous values and pride in ways that have therapeutic impact on intergenerational trauma."

By 1991, Pat was following a new career path dedicated to preserving of her cultural heritage.

She became a participant in Oregon Folklife programming in 1995 during Oregon Historical Society administration by folklorists Carol Spellman and Nancy Nusz. Pat's work was widely recognized for artistic excellence and merit.

She was a 2001 recipient of the Oregon's Governor's Art Award; a 2003 honoree of the First Peoples Fund Community Spirit Award and their 2004 Cultural Capital Fellow; and the National Endowment for the Arts bestowed upon her the highest honor given to traditional artists, the Heritage Fellowship, in 2007.

She accepted numerous speaking and exhibiting opportunities in the Pacific Northwest, nationally—including the Smithsonian National Museum of the American Indian—and internationally in countries including China, New Zealand, Canada and England.

Ms. Courtney Gold's art is exhibited at the High Desert Museum, Royal British Columbia Museum, and the Peabody Museum of Archaeology and Ethnology at Harvard University.

Like so many of our nation's finest traditional artists, Pat explored her creative boundaries beyond traditional structures.

During Pat's 2009 Eric and Barbara Dobkin Native Artist Fellowship at the School for Advanced Research, Santa Fe, Pat utilized School of Advanced Research collections to research and gain inspiration for what became her two-dimensional wall hangings.

One of these weavings is proudly displayed in the Indian Arts Research Center vaults. A School for Advanced Research documentary video of Pat's time in residency provides a heartwarming glimpse of the thoughtful way she explored her culture, her relationship with the land, and her expressive creativity.

Pat was engaging audiences through Oregon Folklife Network programming as recently as 2016, and giving interviews as recently as November 2021.

In her public presentations, Pat married the skills of a trained mathematician and traditional artist, describing baskets as spirals and twining as binary computation.

She captivated Indigenous and non-Native audiences alike, weaving left- and right-brain perspectives like cordage. Many have been blessed by Pat's gifts of time and talents.

'We celebrate her life and trust that her invaluable impact on culture will endure.'

Ms. Courtney Gold demonstrates a traditional Wasq'u weaving technique.

Arrest, hearings in fatal wreck case

A Bend woman was arrested this month on multiple counts of first- and second-degree manslaughter, and driving under the influence. The defendant in the case remains in custody.

Following a court hearing earlier this week, the judge in the case decided to keep the bail amount at $1 million. Another pre-trial conference in the case is tentatively scheduled for next week in Jefferson County Circuit Court.

The arrest and charges came after the investigation of a motor vehicle wreck in November that took the lives of three people, including two teenagers, from Warm Springs.

Saralee Spino-

McCormack, 29, and her 13-year-old nephew Jesiah Johnson, passed away from injuries at the scene of the wreck, November 16. Jessica Johnson, 15, Ms. Spino-McCormack's niece, died a few days later from injuries.

The wreck happened in the evening during dense fog. Despite the hazardous conditions, Audry Cooper McHugh, 29, of Bend, attempted to pass several vehicles, according to police and Jefferson County District Attorney's office investigation indicates .

McHugh's vehicle then collided head-on with the westbound vehicle driven by Ms. Spino-McCormack, killing her nephew Jesiah, and critically injuring her niece, Jessica, who passed away at the hospital a short time later.

Following an extensive and thorough motor vehicle accident reconstruction investigation, McHugh was arrested this month on three counts of first-degree manslaughter, three counts of second-degree manslaughter, and one count of driving under the influence. At the time of the wreck, McHugh was apparently traveling at a speed of 85 miles and hour while under the influence of alcohol and THC, according to the investigation.

A conviction of first-degree manslaughter in Oregon, like aggravated vehicular manslaughter, is a Class A felony, and carries of prison sentence of up to 20 years.

Search is continuing for missing W.S. man

As of earlier this week, the Warm Springs Police Department was planning to continue the search for Lee Johnson, 67, who was last seen in early March. The search will focus in the upper Seekseequa area on the reservation, where the initial rescue response, using search dogs, indicated the possible location.

Mr. Johnson was last seen leaving his home on Saturday, March 4. He was seen leaving his home on Jackson Trail Road, headed to the Indian Park area for wood-cutting. He was reported missing a short time later, after he did not return home that evening.

Lee Johnson, 67, last seen in early March.

Assisting the Warm Springs Police during the initial search were Warm Springs Fire and Safety, the Branch of Natural Resources, the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office, and Deschutes and Wasco county search and rescue teams.

Early in the search, officers located Mr. Johnson's truck in the upper Seekseequa area. Use of the search and rescue dogs also indicated the area where the search is continuing. Weather became an problem following the immediate days of the search effort. The continued search, as planned as of earlier this week, is to involve ATVs, horses and dogs on the ground, and a drone in the air. Anyone with any information on the whereabouts of Lee Johnson is asked to contact the Warm Springs Police Department at 541-553-1171.
